"WINTER ON THE CAMPUS"

Home-Coming Day Reviewed ● Continuation of Alumni
Directory, 1912 to 1918 ● Regional Group Activities

TO ALL THE ALUMNI---

Homecoming Day was all that we had anticipated. The largest Homecoming crowd on record was present to enjoy the program. The dining room was not large enough to accommodate all the guests during the dinner hour. Tables were quickly placed in the lobby and everybody was happy.

Local organizations have held some delightful "Get Together Parties" during the fall months. Susquehanna-Wyoming Alumni had a fine meeting October 19 in the new Methodist Church in Tunkhannock. Cumberland-Dauphin had a splendid reunion at the Barberry Inn, Harrisburg, on October 21st. Northumberland County Alumni gathered in large numbers at the Marble Hall, Mt. Carmel on the evening of October 24th. Carbon-Schuylkill entertained Alumni and friends at the Black Diamond Inn near Pottsville on October 30th. The Philadelphia Alumni enjoyed their Annual Christmas Party at Gimbel's on December 9th with more than sixty present for the fun.

Columbia County held a Reunion on February 9th at the College. College students provided the dinner entertainment and the piano recital of Joseph Wagner was enjoyed in the auditorium. Lackawanna, Luzerne, Montour, Snyder-Union and Philadelphia organizations are planning to hold meetings before Alumni Day.

Let's continue the spirit of the Centennial and keep the ball rolling. Have you joined the Alumni Association? Have you subscribed to the Alumni Student Loan Fund? These are continuing Alumni Objectives and we need the support of every graduate.

Best wishes for 1940,

R. BRUCE ALBERT.

BLOOMSBURG'S 1939

Home-coming

The Bloomsburg campus was the scene of another great Home-Coming Day on Saturday, November 4, when a full and varied program attracted hundreds of Alumni back to renew their contact with their Alma Mater.

Many of the graduates arrived in town the night before to stay with friends and relatives. The old clock on Carver Hall had not gone far beyond the stroke of nine, when a stream of cars began to come up the hill. Visitors arriving in Bloomsburg found the town decorated for the occasion, and many of the stores displayed welcome signs. The campus was also gaily decorated in maroon and gold, the colors of Bloomsburg and also of Kutztown, which sent its football team to help entertain the visitors at the game in the afternoon.

An Alumni desk was set up in the hall opposite the old gymnasium, and this served as headquarters for the Alumni Association during the day. The arrangement followed that which was used for the first time at the Centennial, and served as the center of Alumni activities.

The day's program was officially opened at eleven o'clock, when the Maroon and Gold Band presented a concert in the old gymnasium. The program, which lasted one hour, was heard by a large number, and was well received. The band, in its maroon and gold uniforms, presented a beautiful picture against the background of the elaborate decorations which had been placed there under the supervision of Prof. George J. Keller, of the art department.

An informal luncheon was served at noon in the dining-room. There was no program, the entire time being devoted to renewing friendships and the usual conversations that take place when graduates get together.

During the interval between the noon luncheon and the football game, the new gymnasium and junior high school building were open for inspection by the guests of the College. These fine buildings will be available for use as soon as the necessary equipment is purchased. One fine feature of the gymnasium, which caused many graduates to wish that they were still in college, is the swimming pool. The pool is seventy-five feet long and thirty feet wide. It is lined with white tile, and has five lanes marked off with black tile on the bottom. Along the side are bleachers, to be used by spectators when swimming contests will be held.

The main gymnasium provided for a basketball court eighty-four by forty-eight feet. Permanent bleachers provide seats for a thousand people. Two auxiliary gymnasiums for class work are in the rear center of the building. There are also classrooms to be used by the Department of Health Education, and offices for the members of the staff.

A large crowd was present at the football game, which began at 2:30. Bloomsburg's opponent in this contest was the team from Kutztown. The Bloomsburg team played a fine game and, although unsuccessful in obtaining a victory, held the Kutztown team to a score of 7-0. Color was added to the game by the presence of the Maroon and Gold Band, the Kutztown band, and the high school bands from Jersey Shore and Bloomsburg.

The athletic program of the afternoon included a dual meet between the cross-country teams of Bloomsburg and West Chester. The race was timed to end during the intermission between the first and second halves of the football game. Bloomsburg maintained its record of an undefeated season by winning the meet with a score of 2-29. Dan Kemple, of Bloomsburg, was the first to finish, with Lavelle, of Bloomsburg, coming in second.

After the game there was an informal tea in the old gymnasium. Members of the faculty and of the student body served as hostesses.

Dinner was served at 6:15 to a crowd that filled the dining-room. A fine meal was served by the dining-room staff. Music was provided by the Maroon and Gold Dance Band, a fine new organization, the first of its kind on the campus since 1931. The invocation was given by William B. Sutliff, former Dean of Instruction. Acting President Harvey A. Andruss presided as toastmaster. Brief remarks were made by R. Bruce Albert, president of the Alumni Association, and by Dr. Francis B. Haas, Superintendent of Public Instruction. Dr. Haas, who still has the interest of Bloomsburg close to his heart, was an interested visitor at most of the activities of the day, and was warmly greeted by his friends.

The closing event of the day was an informal dance in the old gymnasium. With the floor crowded with dancers, the bleachers filled with spectators, and the beautiful decorations in the gymnasium, the dance brought to a fitting climax another great Home-Coming Day.

Dr. and Mrs. Haas Guests of Faculty

Doctor and Mrs. Francis B. Haas were guests of honor at a dinner held Saturday evening, October 29, at the Penn Harris Hotel, Harrisburg, Pa., by the members of the faculty of the Bloomsburg State Teachers College.

Dean John C. Koch presided, and Dean Harvey Andruss on behalf of the faculty presented to Dr. and Mrs. Haas an excellent motion picture camera and projector. The state superintendent responded.

One of the features of the program was the first showing of pictures taken at the college last May during the institution's Centennial observance. George J. Keller and S. I. Shortess were in charge of the pictures. A social time concluded a delightful evening.

The faculty committee in charge was composed of Mrs. Lucille Baker, Miss Harriet Moore, Miss Pearl Mason, Miss May T. Hayden, Dr. Kimber Kuster, Earl N. Rhodes and Dean Koch.

Dean Andruss, in making the presentation, spoke as follows:

Mr. Toastmaster, Doctor and Mrs. Haas, and their Friends:

One does not often have an opportunity such as we have this evening to honor their friends. There is an old Chinese proverb that "To part is to die a little," but we feel this evening that we are not met to part, but to bind the ties which exist between two people and the Faculty of the State Teachers College at Bloomsburg. There is probably a note of sadness, but there is also a note of gladness in the realization that the bonds of friendship cannot be broken by absence or the passage of time. All of us here in our own way signify the same spirit.

*"It is not what we say or sing
That keeps our ties so long unbroken
But the feeling that we bring
May touch the heart as friendship's token:*

*Not what we sing or what we say
Can make us dearer to each other
We love the singer and his lay
But love as well the silent brother."*

I like to think of Doctor and Mrs. Haas as lovers of youth — parents of three fine children — in fact from the professional point of view they serve the children of Pennsylvania. The State Superintendent is indeed servus servorum puerorum. He is in fact a servant of the servants of the children of this Commonwealth. In serving children they have come to possess this spirit of youth.

Youth is not a time of life — it is a state of mind. It is not a matter of ripe cheeks, red lips and supple knees; it is a temper of the will, a quality of the imagination, a vigor of the emotions; it is a freshness of the deep springs of life.

Youth means a temperamental predominance of courage over timidity, of the appetite for adventure over love of ease. This often exists in a man of fifty more than in a boy of twenty.

Nobody grows old by merely living a number of years; people grow old only by deserting their ideals. Years wrinkle the skin, but to give up enthusiasm wrinkles the soul. Worry, doubt, self-distrust, fear and despair — these are the long, long years that bow the head and turn the growing spirit back to dust.

Whether seventy or sixteen, there is in every being's heart the love of wonder, the sweet amazement at the stars and the starlike things and thoughts, the undaunted challenge of events, the unfailing childlike appetite for what next, and the joy and the game of life.

We are as young as our faith, as old as our hope, as old as our despair.

By their faith in the past, confidence in the present, and hopes for the future, Doctor and Mrs. Haas have evidenced the veritable spirit of youth. In order that they may picture the happenings of today for the enjoyment of tomorrow, I am pleased to present on behalf of the Faculty an Eastman Motion Picture Camera and Projector, with the hope they may be used to record and depict scenes and events which will express our abiding spirit of friendship and interest in youth which we feel on this occasion and which will continue throughout the years.

The State Authority has begun the purchase of equipment for the new gymnasium, junior high school, and maintenance building. It is expected that the buildings will soon be ready for use.

On Monday, September 25, the students enjoyed the first number on the chapel entertainment course, when H. Donald Spatz gave an illustrated lecture on "Glorious Guatemala."

RECORDING OF VOICES

Use of modern voice recording facilities is included as a regular part of the work of the speech department at the State Teachers College, Bloomsburg, under the direction of Miss Alice Johnston, head of the Speech Department. At Bloomsburg records are made for each student enrolled at the college.

Each incoming freshman makes his own individual record. The first recording is an assigned one. The material selected includes all vowels and consonant sounds. The play-back of this record enables the student to hear his own mistakes in voice and diction. After the first recording, regular work in the speech department continues. Then a second recording is made, using similar material so that improvements or deficiencies may be noted by the student as well as the instructor. At the close of the speech work, a final recording is made. This time the student selects his own material to give auditory evidences of his improvement in either speaking or reading. By this time the student has filled both sides of his record, which becomes his personal property, thus giving him a permanent recording of his own voice for future use.

In addition to this fundamental work for all students entering the college, a speech major is offered for those who wish to select it and be certified to teach speech in the public schools of Pennsylvania. This work includes both training in the artistic side of speech, such as dramatics and public speaking, as well as the scientific side in speech correction.

A third feature of the work of the speech department at Bloomsburg includes the availability of a speech clinic for use of teachers and pupils in the service area of the college. Children may be brought to the speech clinic for the diagnosis of speech difficulties and recommended treatment. Additional phases of the speech clinic includes the use of the audiometer which helps to determine acuity of hearing, testing whether this is the cause of the speech difficulty. This speech clinic is a part of the service of the educational clinic offered by the college.

Dr. Marguerite Kehr, Dean of Women of the Bloomsburg State Teachers College, participated in a panel discussion at a conference of the Northeastern District, Pennsylvania-Delaware Division of the A. A. U. W., held at the Hotel Casey, Scranton, Penna.

THE COLLEGE in MUSIC AND ENTERTAINMENT

The Maroon and Gold Band, under the direction of H. F. Fenstemaker, appeared in its annual concert Wednesday evening, December 20, in the College Auditorium. This year the band has fifty-five members, with a well-balanced instrumentation. The purchase of a set of tympani has added greatly to the effectiveness of the percussion section. The concert program included a march, "F. B. H.," written by Mr. Fenstemaker and dedicated to Dr. Francis B. Haas, former president of the College, and now Superintendent of Public Instruction. The band was greatly honored by the presence of Dr. Haas at the concert.

* * * * *

It has been a number of years since the College has presented on its artists' program an outstanding violinist. This year the course included a recital by Miss Orrea Pernell, who appeared Friday evening, January 12. Miss Parnell takes high rank among the women violinists of the day. She is an English artist and has played in European countries as well as in the United States.

* * * * *

Josef Wagner, pianist, gave a concert in the auditorium Friday, February 9. Since his arrival in America a little over a year ago, Mr. Wagner has had great success as a concert pianist, and is now featured over some of the larger networks in the United States.

* * * * *

The entertainment committee of the College, with Prof. E. A. Reams as chairman, has been developing for some years an interest in the dance as an art form, and has featured such prominent artists as Ruth St. Denis, Miriam Winslow, Miriam Marmein, and Edwin Strawbridge. The program moves forward this year with the appearance of Adison Fowler and Florenz Tamara and their ballet group, who will give their dance recital Friday evening, March 1.

The Mixed Chorus and A Capella Choir, under the direction of Miss Harriet M. Moore, are two organizations which have earned for themselves a fine reputation. They will hold their spring concert Friday evening, April 12, at which time they will present "Hiawatha's Wedding Feast," by Deems Taylor. The soloist will be Eugene Conley, well-known radio artist.

* * * * *

The Jitney Players, who have appeared in Bloomsburg several times, presented "Seven Keys to Baldpate" on Friday, November 17, and delighted the audience with their fine performance.

* * * * *

An enthusiastic welcome was given the Siberian Singers when they returned to the Bloomsburg campus Friday, October 20. On this occasion they were hosts, rather than guests, of the college, as they stopped in Bloomsburg on a concert tour and presented a courtesy program. Their manager stated that the program was presented in appreciation for the manner in which they have always been received in Bloomsburg. During the first half of the program, they appeared in the robes worn during the seventeenth century in the Moscow Cathedral, and sang a group of numbers exemplifying the Russian church music. In the second half, they appeared in bright-colored native costumes, and sang a group of Russian folk-songs.

An interesting feature of the College Entertainment Course was the Women's Chamber Orchestra of New York, conducted by Miss Jeanette Scheerer. The orchestra, which appeared Thursday evening, October 5, consisted of five violins, viola, cello, bass, flute, oboe, clarinet, bassoon, French horn, trumpet, trombone, piano, and tympani.

* * * * *

One of the finest dramatic productions in years was "Bachelor Born", presented by the Alpha Psi Omega dramatic fraternity and the Bloomsburg Players Thursday evening, December 14. The play was directed by Miss Alice Johnston. The cast included the following: Stuart Edwards, Zoe Whitmire, Christine Grover, Florabelle Schrecongost, Clifton Wright, Edward Sharretts, David Nelson, Richard Foote, Gerald Fritz, Bruce Miller, Boyd Buckingham, Ray Myers, Dean Harpe, Ethel Lauer, and Marie Parsell.

The following members of the faculty were speakers and discussion leaders at the Luzerne County Institute held in Wilkes-Barre, October 19 and 20: Dean H. A. Andruss, Prof. S. I. Shortess, Prof. E. A. Reams, Miss May T. Hayden, Miss Edna J. Hazen, and Dr. H. H. Russell.

Twelve Complete Work for Degrees

Among the names of those graduating are the following: Michael J. Chrismar, Jr., Jeddo; Arthur L. Davis, Taylor; William H. Hess, Bloomsburg; Margaret E. Hill, Scranton; Lawrence J. Kefer, Frackville; Paul B. Kokitas, West Hazleton; Margaret Kostenbauder, Aristes; Robert C. Lewis, Danville; Paul J. McHale, Wilkes-Barre; William Hope Penman, Bloomsburg; Louise M. Rouchey, Trucksville; Philip L. Snyder, Syracuse, New York.

Of this group four are completing the requirements of the Elementary Curriculum, four are completing the requirements of the Secondary Curriculum, and four are completing the requirements of the Business Education Curriculum. These graduates will have an opportunity to participate in the May Commencement Activities at the College.

It is also interesting to note that of this number, three are In-Service Teachers who have completed the requirements for the rising standard of teacher certification in the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania, by attending Summer Sessions and Saturday classes at the College.

New Semester Begins

Students of the Bloomsburg State Teachers College completed their work for the first semester noon, Saturday, January 20. A short mid-semester vacation extended from noon, January 20, to noon, Wednesday, January 24. Some 650 undergraduates returned to their homes for the short vacation. Approximately 25 new students enrolled for the second semester which will keep the enrollment of the college at the same point as the first semester.

Plans for the opening of the second semester at State Teachers College, Bloomsburg, Pennsylvania, have been completed and a number of new courses are announced by Harvey A. Andruss, Dean of Instruction.

In addition to the regular courses, the following new courses were available beginning, Wednesday, noon, January 24:

Advertising is offered by Professor A. Park Orth to students in the Business Education Curriculum, with the idea of increasing interest of those who may choose Retail Selling as a further field of work.

Methods courses in Social Business subjects and Junior Business training are offered by Professor A. Park Orth to business students for the first time.

The science students have an opportunity to take a course in Genetics, offered by Dr. Kimber C. Kuster, which is a part of the increased offering in the field of biological science.

Professor S. I. Shortess offers advanced courses in Qualitative Analysis, which will be of special interest to students in the field of Physical Science and Chemistry.

Dr. T. P. North continued to offer a course in School Law and Administration, which has been made necessary by the recent legislation relating to teachers and teaching problems in the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania, passed during the last few years.

With the equipping of the new stage in the College Auditorium in Carver Hall, it will be possible to offer a course in Creative Dramatics to those who are interested in this phase of speech work. Advanced courses in speech correction will also be offered under the direction of Miss Alice Johnson, in a new course to be known as Speech Clinic I.

Beginning the second semester all the machines used by the Business Education Students will be centralized in Room 42, Science Hall, occupying the quarters last used by the Historical Project operating under the W.P.A. This will bring together in one place adding machines, calculating machines, dictaphones, mimeographs, mimeoscopes, multigraphs, and other machines which, with the growth of the Department of Business Education have had to be located in three or four different places and in as many buildings. All office practice courses will be taught in this room, which will not only make all of the machines available in one place at one time, but will provide a classroom which will accommodate 40 or more students.

An auxiliary biological laboratory will be re-equipped in Room 23 of Science Hall, in order to make more space available to a large number of students for experimental work.

There was a large attendance at the dance held Saturday evening, October 7, under the sponsorship of the Business Education Club. The gymnasium was attractively decorated in green, brown, and yellow.

SERVICE AREA CONFERENCE on CAMPUS

A service area conference was held at the college Saturday morning, February 10.

A speaker from the State Department of Public Instruction discussed Teacher Rating as related to Teacher Improvement. Following the first address several discussion groups were formed to provide an opportunity for the treatment of educational problems of a more specialized nature.

The five Professional Fraternities of the State Teachers College at Bloomsburg sponsored this conference. They are Kappa Delta Pi (Coeducational Honorary Fraternity); Phi Sigma Pi (Honorary Men's Fraternity); Pi Omega Pi (Commercial Education Fraternity); Gamma Theta Upsilon (Geograph Fraternity); Alpha Psi Omega (Dramatic Fraternity).

This event was attended by Alumni members of various Fraternity Groups who have graduated during the period of the last ten or fifteen years, as well as superintendents, principals, and teachers from schools located in Columbia, Montour, Northumberland and Luzerne counties.

A large number of Bloomsburg Alumni who attended the dinner meeting of the Columbia County Branch of the College Alumni Association remained in Bloomsburg for the morning sessions of the Service Area Conference.

Those attending the Service Area Conference had an opportunity to attend the basketball game scheduled for Saturday evening when Mansfield S. T. C. met Coach George C. Buchheit's current edition of the Bloomsburg "Huskies".

Members of the senior class of the Bloomsburg State Teachers College held their annual Senior Informal dance Saturday evening, December 16, in the college gymnasium. The dance this year was featured as a "Snowball Dance." William Wertz, Frackville, was general chairman of the dance.

Other committees were: Program, Marie Raklevicz, Plymouth; Orchestra, James Hinds, Bloomsburg; Decoration, Eleanor Beckley, Bloomsburg; Refreshment, Frank Koniecko, Nanticoke. Jack Rossman's orchestra from Hazleton furnished the music.

The class of 1943 held its first social function as a class group, when the annual "Kid Party" took place in the college gymnasium Tuesday evening, October 24.

SPORTS FOR ALL

The slogan "Sports for All," held as the ideal on most college campuses, is a reality at Bloomsburg. For years it has been an objective that was unanimously endorsed by the administration and the student body. From year to year, slow progress has been made toward the realization of this goal. More and more students, men and women, were participating in some sport.

There was not much diversity at times, and there was a great lack of equipment. In fact, these elements did more to defeat the objective than lack of student interest.

Recently a ruling of the State Department requires that a student participate in some athletic activity every semester that he is in college. This is now a requirement for graduation. To put this requirement in effect at Bloomsburg did not require a great amount of effort, because the great majority of students were already engaged in some sport, merely for the pleasure to be gained from it.

At the beginning of this year, there was equipment for badminton and archery, two new sports for the girls, and field hockey went back on the program for the first time in five years. Added to this were soccer, volley ball, cage ball, and tennis, all of which attracted great numbers of students. The improvements on the campus provided for ample space for fields, and the students lost no time in taking full advantage of the opportunities.

Only those who are physically incapacitated are excused from participation in some sport each semester. Of the women, who number about 325, there are only a dozen or so in this classification, and they would be pleased to join in the fun if they were able.

It is probable that, if the compulsory clause were removed, few women would drop athletic activities. Only in remote cases is it necessary to use pressure. Most of the time it is far more difficult to get the students off the athletic fields than it is to persuade them to participate in sports.

A similar program has been developed for the men, and it is still being improved. For years they have had numerous opportunities to engage in varsity sports, and that calendar is constantly being enlarged. In addition, there is an intramural program that has for its main feature basketball in the winter, inter-class track in the spring, and tennis during the spring and fall.

A visitor to the campus during any fine day in the autumn could have seen a great amount of activity. He would have seen a large group of girls playing badminton on the court between the old gymnasium and Science Hall. Others would be playing field hockey at the end of the football field. Still more would be playing soccer on the old athletic field, where two soccer fields have been laid out. There were three volley ball courts that were busy most of the time.

In the winter, interest turns to basketball, indoor baseball, cage ball, and volley ball. In the spring, the outdoor sports are resumed, with a great amount of time devoted to tennis.

When the new gymnasium is opened for use, the new swimming pool will provide opportunity to engage in one of the most popular sports of today, and these facilities will be available the year round.

The whole program has been built up with the purpose of developing healthy young men and women to go out into the schools of Pennsylvania. It also provides training that is essential these days, because these same young men and women will be called upon to develop athletic programs in the schools in which they will become teachers.

Dean Andruss Addresses Commercial Teachers

SPORTS

FOOTBALL

One could not say that the 1939 football season at Bloomsburg was a successful one. But back of the figures lies a chain of circumstances that explain, at least in part, the poor showing as revealed by the record. Running through the newspaper accounts of almost every game appears the word "outweighed." As some of the facts given below will demonstrate, the Maroon and Gold team entered every game with a great handicap against them. On some occasions, bad decisions by the officials broke the morale of the team, and the game was lost before the boys could pull themselves together.

Extracts from press notices on some of the games will give the reader an idea of some of the conditions which the wearers of the Maroon and Gold had to face:

"A forty-yard pass on the second play of the fourth period, which Referee Doremus ruled was good because of interference gave Millersburg the ball on the Husky one-yard line at Millersville and led to a 19-7 victory for the Lancaster county club over Bloomsburg Teachers.

The Huskies, showing more drive and fight than any Maroon and Gold eleven in recent years, moved to a touchdown in the first three and a half minutes of play.

The much heavier Millersville club was unable to do anything on the ground, the speedy Bloomsburg line breaking up such plays before they got started, but they used a short, snap pass from just back of the scrimmage line with telling effect, and during the game completed 13 of 18 passe for a total of 258 yards.

* * * * *

An Indiana Teachers College football team which made the breaks and then benefited by them, operated with efficiency amid baseball weather on the College field here to defeat Bloomsburg's Huskies in their first local appearance, 31-0.

Rushing in to block a punt Leo Lehman was attempting to get away from his 30 on the fourth play of the game, when the Indians recovered on the 1-yard line and then sent Ruthko, Frosh fullback, through the line for the touchdown that decided the issue almost before many of the spectators were aware the game was underway.

From then on Indiana kept making the breaks and adding to the score. Played to a stand still much of the afternoon they were able to change the entire complexion of the game through a single play every now and then.

* * * * *

"The Bloomsburg Teachers College eleven cut down the number of touchdowns between it and victory against Mansfield, but made little progress in cutting down the number of points.

As a result the Huskies lost by a score of 25-0 in their third game of the season and second game away from home.

* * * * *

Flashing a brand of football that sparkled, the Bloomsburg State Teachers College "Huskies" threw a scare into the highly-touted Lock Haven squad before being nosed out in the closing minutes of the game by the Havenites, 21-18. The Bloomsburg boys led 18-12 with 8 minutes to play and the highly favored Lock Haven team was sorely pressed before finally scoring a touchdown and safety. The game was played Saturday, October 21.

* * * * *

Holding the strong Shippensburg State Teachers College scoreless for three quarters, the Bloomsburg "Huskies" faltered in the final quarter and permitted Shippensburg to score two touchdowns in the game played at Shippensburg, Saturday, October 28. Bloomsburg was out-weighted thirty pounds to a man and made a brilliant fight, playing in extremely bad weather.

* * * * *

Thirty-five hundred alumni and friends of the Bloomsburg State Teachers College gathered on the campus to witness the Homecoming football game when Kutztown nosed out the Bloomsburg cohorts in the last period, 7-0. The Bloomsburg Huskies put up a remarkable fight although they were out-weighted in all positions.

With Kearns as the sparkplug and displaying a generalship that comes only through experience, East Stroudsburg unleashed a quartet of hard running backs behind a rugged line of charging forwards to score early, see that lead fade before a brilliant offensive thrust of the Huskies, and then surge back to take a commanding lead.

Panzer Teachers moving 63 yards on the first drive and 40 on the second, scored twice in the second period at Montclair, N. J., to defeat the Bloomsburg College Huskies, 13-6, the Maroon and Gold averting a shutout through a brilliant performance by Steve Rozyckie, Bloomsburg tackle, who blocked a Panzer punt early in the last half, retrieved the ball and ambled 40 yards for a score.

The summarized results of the football season are as follows:

September 30	B.S.T.C.	7	Millersville	19
October 7	"	0	Indiana	31
October 14	"	0	Mansfield	25
October 21	"	18	Lock Haven	21

Cross Country

Dan Kemple, of the Bloomsburg State Teachers College cross-country team, broke the course record at West Chester when he covered the 4.4 mile course in 22 minutes, 29 seconds. Bloomsburg lost a closely contested race by a 27-30 score, but Kemple's feat took considerable edge off the defeat. Kemple broke his own record at West Chester which he had set two years previously.

Bloomsburg had defeated West Chester earlier in the season at Bloomsburg. The following boys participated: No. 1, Kemple, Cumbola; No. 4, Lavelle, Girardville; No. 6, tie, Jenkins, Forty-Fort; No. 12, Niles, Blassburg; No. 13, Halpin, Forty-Fort; and No. 14, Radai.

Coach George Buchheit's Bloomsburg harriers defeated the Montclair State Teachers College cross country team 25-30 in the meet held Saturday, October 29. Danny Kemple, Bloomsburg's ace, was nosed out by Montclair's Burcher.

The boys from Bloomsburg finished in the following order: Kemple, Cumbola, second; Niles, Wellsboro, and Lavelle, Gir-ardville, tied for third; Jenkins, Forty-Fort, seventh; and Radai, W. Hazleton, ninth.

Dan Kemple, Cumbola, captain of the Bloomsburg State Teachers College track team and protege of Coach George C. Buchheit, recently won the 1939 championship on the 10,000 meter cross country run in Philadelphia. Kemple led the field of 49 in the 22nd annual run sponsored by the Middle Atlantic Association of the A. A. U. The race was approximately 6 miles.

Kemple's time was 35:35, just one second faster than that established last year. Kemple ran with the pack half way round the course, then pulled into the lead which he held to the finish. He crossed the finish line breathing easily as Judge Bonniwell dropped the flag.

Don Karnes, Berwick, of the Bloomsburg State Teachers College finished first among the local entrants in the recent 30th Annual Berwick Marathon. The event was won by Lou Gregory, Millrose A. A., New York. Karnes finished 32nd in this race, far behind his 15th position of last year, but competed in a much larger field. Karnes' time was 56:55 for the 9 mile marathon, 7 seconds under last year's time. For being the first local winner to finish, Karnes received a handsome Hamilton wrist watch.

Intercollegiate Soccer

Soccer, a comparatively new sport at Bloomsburg, came through with a successful season. The team, coached by Peter Wisher, a member of the faculty of the Bloomsburg High School, made a very satisfactory record, as is shown by the following partial summary:

Bloomsburg 2	East Stroudsburg 2
Bloomsburg 4	Susquehanna 0
Bloomsburg 3	Lock Haven 0
Bloomsburg 6	Susquehanna 0
Bloomsburg 2	Elizabethtown 1
Bloomsburg 0	West Chester 3

Local Educator Is the Speaker

Harvey A. Andruss, acting president of the Bloomsburg State Teachers College, spoke on "Professional Fraternities and Their Place in Education" at the opening of the conclave of the Pi Omega Pi Fraternity at the William Penn Hotel, Pittsburgh, held in December.

He spoke in part as follows:

"In order to discuss the place which professional fraternities occupy in the field of commercial education, it is necessary first to determine the place of a professional organization in the fraternity world itself. Following the organization of Phi Beta Kappa, there were numerous other societies founded throughout our country bearing a Greek-letter name. Some confined themselves to the colleges of the South, while others were founded largely in the northern and eastern states. During the Civil War, collegiate activity was practically suspended. However, following this nationwide conflict, many of these organizations provided fraternity homes, and the social fraternity came to be a necessary adjunct of colleges throughout our nation.

"Since the opening of this century, there have been many more new fraternities organized in the last forty years than in the preceding one-hundred. Younger fraternities suffered from the World War and the period of depression following 1929, the organizations of college youth have continued to grow.

"Today for our purpose, we may group fraternities under three classes.

"(1) There is the honorary fraternity, which has as one of its chief purposes, the recognition of high scholarship.

"(2) The social fraternity, which has as one of its chief aims the association of college youth in living situations which are conducive to social and personal growth.

"(3) The professional fraternity, which seeks to combine the scholarship of the honorary fraternity with the social and personal advantages of the social fraternity.

"Of such in this group, we find our own organization, the Pi Omega Pi Fraternity. There are many other professional fraternities which recognize the scholarship and professional promise of students who are interested in education and business. Among them, we find Beta Gamma Sigma, a professional commerce fraternity, which admits to membership only those collegiate schools of commerce who are members of the American Association of Collegiate Schools of Business. This organization, in the field of commercial education needs and has in the Pi Omega Pi Fraternity a society for the recognition of high scholarship in both education and commerce coupled with the promise of professional success in teaching.

"It is truly remarkable that in a period of less than sixteen years, this organization has grown to the size of thirty-five chapters, twenty-eight of which exist in teachers colleges.

"The future of professional fraternities in the field of commercial education depends upon their acceptance of the challenge to do something constructive. This comes to each member after he has been initiated and inducted into full fellowship. The wearing of a pin, the attendance of business meetings are in themselves the mere skeleton of an organization. It is evident that we must clothe the skeleton with bone, sinew, muscle, and a will-to-do which will bring greater recognition and respect to the field of their calling.

"Commercial education, at the present time and in the future, will progress in the measures that such organizations as professional fraternities are able to band themselves together and do those things would be impossible for individuals to achieve working in other ways. Some chapters of Pi Omega Pi in education, to have meetings of a professional-social nature, sponsor such projects as State commercial contests, loan funds for worthy students, the publication of worthwhile articles through the medium of news letters, and many other activities which renew the interest of their members and let the educational world at large know that enthusiasm among the students who represent the most promising in this ever-growing field of education and business.

COLLEGE ALLOTTED MONEY FOR GRADING

The Bloomsburg State Teachers College has been allotted $8,910 as its share in the $1,948,183 National Youth Administration program announced recently by State Director Walter S. Cowing. This money will enable a large number of students to earn part of their college expenses during the coming year.

A $41,000 WPA project for supplementary grading work around new buildings on the campus has recently been approved. The project, for which the state will contribute $20,000, through the General State Authority, sponsor, is part of a series of auxiliary projects which are gradually completing a pre-arranged and approved plan to put the buildings and surroundings in a completed condition. Under the project, supplementing a $7,500 grant now in the process of completing the leveling work on the athletic field, additional sidewalks, curbs, and lawns will be constructed in the vicinity of the new buildings which have been completed during the past year.

... Campus Notes ...

The annual reception of new students, given by the trustees, faculty, and Community Government Association was held at the College Saturday evening, September 16. The program included a program in the auditorium and a reception and dance in the gymnasium.

The Business Education World, distributed by the Gregg Publishing Company of New York City, has gathered together in the form of a Monograph, leading articles pertaining to book-keeping under the title of "What They Say About Bookkeeping."

Among the outstanding articles included in this Monograph is one, "Simplifying Bookkeeping Closing Procedures," written by Dean Harvey A. Andruss, now Acting President at Bloomsburg.

This article was the only one published during the last three years which solicited a written comment from readers. A comment of a member of the East High School, Rochester, New York, follows the article by Dean Andruss.

In the Field of Education for the Teaching of Bookkeeping, during the past five years Dean Andruss has probably written more magazine articles than any other author in the country. In 1937, a book written by him bearing the title of "Ways to Teach Bookkeeping and Accounting" was published and is now used in colleges and universities throughout the United States.

American Education Week, November 5-11, was commemorated at the Bloomsburg State Teachers College by a program under the direction of Professor E. N. Rhodes, Director of Teacher Training.

The following students made contributions to the program: William Hess, Bloomsburg, "Education for Self-Realization"; Lorraine Snyder, Bloomsburg, "Education for Freedom"; Theodore Parsell, Orangeville, "The Significance of American Education Week"; Byron Shiner, Berwick, "Education for Economic Efficiency"; Florence Stefanski, Hanover Township, "Cultivating the Love of Learning"; Dean Harpe, of Tunkhannock, "Education for Civic Responsibility"; Rosemary Hausknecht, Bloomsburg, "Education for Human Relationships."

The Community Government Association of the Bloomsburg State Teachers College sponsored a Masquerade Ball in the college gymnasium Saturday evening, November 18. The affair was strictly a college party, with no outside guests, and all students were in costume. Deilly's Orchestra of Bloomsburg furnished the music, and the gym was decorated in suitable style for the occasion.

• The Philadelphia Alumni

Our luncheon meetings, beginning in October, have been very well attended. Quite a number of new alumni have moved into our territory, and we were glad to welcome all of them.

Our Christmas party was a delightful affair. Gifts were given and exchanged. Mrs. Foley received a gift from her friends in recognition of her work last year.

The fifty-five guests at the luncheon took part in a game of "White Elephant" and had a fine time. Packages brought by the guests were exchanged, and a hilarious trading ensued, each person trading as often as he desired. At a given signal, each one unwrapped the package he held, and kept the gift.

Our group has satisfied the $100 gift to the Student Loan Fund, given as a testimonial to our president, Mrs. Florence H. Cole. We are now well on our way toward the second one hundred, as a testimonial to Dr. D. J. Waller, Jr.

This year marks the tenth anniversary of our organization. We shall celebrate as usual with a banquet in the North Garden of the Bellevue-Stratford, Saturday evening, April 27, at 6:30 P. M. We invite members of all the other Alumni organizations to celebrate with us. A good program will be presented. RESERVE THE DATE: APRIL 27, 1940

● Northumberland County

The Northumberland County Alumni Association of the Bloomsburg State Teachers College held its annual reunion in the Marble Hall Hotel, Mount Carmel, Wednesday evening, October 25. John Boyer, of Herndon, president of the group, acted as toastmaster. R. Bruce Albert, president of the Alumni Association, led in group singing. The following from Bloomsburg attended and responded to the call of the toastmaster: William B. Sutliff, former Dean of Instruction, Dr. H. H. Russell, Dr. Kimber C. Kuster, Prof. E. A. Reams, Dr. E. H. Nelson, and D. D. Wright '11, treasurer of the Student Loan Fund.

Dean H. A. Andruss, acting president, extended a welcome to the graduates and urged them to be present on the campus November 4, for Homecoming Day. Motion pictures showing campus life were shown, and the meeting was closed by the singing of the Alma Mater.

• Carbon-Schuylkill Counties

The Carbon-Schuylkill County Alumni of the Bloomsburg State Teachers College held an annual reunion Monday evening, October 30, at the Black Diamond Inn, near Pottsville.

Orval Palsgrove, president, was in charge. A telegram from Dr. F. B. Haas, former B. S. T. C. president, expressed his regret at being unable to attend. Mrs. Editha Ent Adams sang two vocal solos, and Frank Kocher played a piano solo.

Bruce Albert, general president of the alumni association, led group singing, and Dr. E. H. Nelson, Nevin Englehart, Dr. D. S. Hartline and Dean H. A. Andruss, acting president, responded to the call of the toastmaster.

Motion pictures of the college were shown. The reunion closed with the singing of the Alma Mater.

• Dauphin-Cumberland Counties

A happy reunion of the graduates of the Bloomsburg State Teacher's College was held in the Barberry Manor Tea Room, Harrisburg, Saturday evening, October 21. There was a large attendance and the program was greatly enjoyed. Jesse Y. Shambach '05, was toastmaster.

The Rev. Carroll Bailey, '11, sang two vocal solos. Miss Margaret Dailey, '07, gave an interesting travelogue of a recent visit to Ireland. Dean Harvey Andruss, acting college president, gave a cordial invitation to all alumni and friends to return to the campus for Homecoming Day, November 4. R. Bruce Albert, president of the general alumni association, congratulated the group for the fine loyalty and interest in the College.

Dr. Francis B. Haas and Dr. R. R. Abernathy, of Harrisburg, spoke briefly and expressed their pleasure in renewing old friendships. Dr. and Mrs. Haas were given an ovation when presented to the group.

Dr. E. H. Nelson, D. D. Wright, and H. F. Fenstemaker responded to the call of the toastmaster.

Moving pictures in color portraying college life were enjoyed and recalled many happy days spent on the campus at Bloomsburg. The reunion closed with the singing of the Alma Mater.

• Susquehanna-Wyoming Counties

The Susquehanna and Wyoming County Alumni Association of the Bloomsburg State Teachers College met Thursday evening, October 19, at Tunkhannock, with Miss Frances Kinner, of Halstead, the toastmaster.

Reese Kilgore, trustee of the East Stroudsburg State Teachers College, brought greetings from that college. Dean H. A. Andruss, Howard Fenstermaker, E. H. Nelson, Dr. Kimber Kuster, D. D. Wright, R. Bruce Albert, of Bloomsburg, spoke briefly.

Mrs. Adalaide Hewlitt, 1888, and Mrs. Matie Borden, 1881, received applause for being the oldest graduates present. Motion pictures of college life were shown.

Thirty-nine members or alumni and sixteen guests were present. Classes from 1885 to 1939 were represented.

A very successful card party, under the direction of Mrs. Milton Yetter, placed the Dauphin group in good financial condition. The luncheon held in the Spring encouraged a number of graduates to attend the Centennial; many of them had not been back to Bloomsburg since their graduation.

The following officers were elected: president, Charles Johns; vice president, F. W. Kester and D. Van Buskirk; secretaries, Clyde Klinger and Mary Laird, and treasurer, Miss Johnson.

Loan Fund Letters

Relative to the Student Loan Fund, we print below two letters recently received from graduates of Bloomsburg:

"I had hoped to make this last payment on the amount I subscribed for the Student Loan Fund by the time the Bloomsburg State Teachers College opened this fall. I was unable to do so, but am very glad to send the enclosed check for the final amount at this time.

"It gives me real satisfaction and happiness to know that the names of my loved ones who have passed on are linked up with this fine project, and have a part in "Keeping the door of opportunity open to worthy American youth."

"May this great work prosper, and may more and more members of our Alumni awaken to the privilege that is open to them."

"Enclosed find a check for ten dollars to cover my first payment on my loan of $100.00 from the Association.

"May I express my appreciation for the opportunity of being given the privilege of having this loan? It was indeed an immense help to me in my last year at school.

"May I also add that I personally believe that the present campaign to raise additional money for the loan fund is one of the best projects ever undertaken by Bloomsburg."

ADDITIONAL MEMBERS OF CENTENNIAL CLUB

Miss Mary A. Allen, a member of the College Faculty has subscribed $100.00 to the Alumni Student Loan Fund. Who will be next?

MORE TESTIMONIALS AND MEMORIALS

DEATH OF MRS. L. H. DENNIS

Mrs. Lindley H. Dennis died at her home in Takoma Park, Maryland, Thursday, October 27, after having been ill since last spring.

Born and reared in Orangeville, Mrs. Dennis attended the schools of that community, and later was graduated from the Bloomsburg State Normal School. She returned to Orangeville, where she taught for several years. She later served as a critic teacher in the Model School at Bloomsburg, and will be remembered by many graduates of Bloomsburg for the fine work that she did there.

She is survived by her husband, Dr. Lindley H. Dennis, Executive Secretary of the American Vocational Association, and by a son, Lindley H. Dennis, Jr.

Funeral services were held at Orangeville, and burial took place in the family plot in Laurel Hill Cemetery, Orangeville.

Louis P. Bierly, former superintendent of the West Pittston schools, died suddenly Wednesday, November 1, 1939, after a heart attack. On the evening of his death he attended midweek services at the First Presbyterian Church, remaining after the service for a meeting of the Church Session. On his way home near the high school building where he had supervised for twenty-five years, he was stricken and taken to a near-by home, where he passed away a short time later.

Although Prof. Bierly's life had been devoted to the field of education, he also gave generously of his time and talent to a wide variety of community and fraternal activities. After his graduation from Bloomsburg, he served for six years in the schools of Hazleton. In 1898 he moved to West Pittston and was head of the schools there for a continuous period of twenty-five years, retiring in 1923.

He was born November 22, 1861, in a village near Tylersville, Clinton County, Pa. His parents, the late Thomas and Sybilla (Frantz) Bierly, were descendants of the early Pennsylvania German settlers, and were themselves among the early settlers in that region.

During his early life, Professor Bierly worked on his father's farm and attended common school. At the age of eighteen, he received a teacher's certificate, and for several years taught in the rural schools of his home county. Later he entered the Lock Haven State Normal School, and one year later transferred to the Bloomsburg State Normal School, from which he was graduated in 1885.

After teaching for one year in Conyngham, he obtained a teaching position in Hazleton, and a few years later became principal of the high school in that city. After six years of service there, he moved to West Pittston and became the sixth principal of the schools of that borough.

While a resident of West Pittston, Professor Bierly was a member of the First Presbyterian Church, and was active in the Masonic fraternity. Several years after arriving in West Pittston he became a member of St. John's Lodge, F. & A. M., and was honored by election as Worshipful Master. He was the second oldest past master of the lodge. He was also a member and Past High Priest of Pittston Chapter, Royal Arch Masons, of which he was secretary for many years, continuing in office until the time of his death. He was a member of the Pittston Kiwanis Club for many years, past commander of Wyoming Valley Commandery, Knights Templar, and of Irem Temple.

Prof. Bierly was an ardent supporter of Bloomsburg, and of the Alumni Association. He missed very few opportunities to be present on the campus on Alumni Day. His last visit to Bloomsburg was during the Centennial, when he spoke in defense of the Philos at the meeting held in the auditorium Friday evening, May 26.

The most distinguished group of Freemasons ever to assemble in Shenandoah gathered together Friday evening, October 6, to do honor to J. Claude Keiper, a former resident of Shenandoah and now, as one speaker declared, the No. 1 Mason in the United States. Mr. Keiper holds the high post of Right Worshipful Grand Secretary of Masons in the District of Columbia. His other Masonic affiliations include the following: Grand Recorder of the Grand Commandery of the Knights Templar, Grand Scribe of the Grand Chapter, Secretary of the Washington National Memorial Association, Secretary of the Grand Masters' Association of the United States, and member of the Southern Jurisdiction of Ancient and Accepted Scottish Rite Masons, 33rd degree.

Judge Robert R. Lewis, Grand Master of Pennsylvania, one of the speakers at the banquet, recalled a recent state banquet held in London. The banquet was held in the historic Guild Hall, and was given by the Lord Mayor in honor of the officials of the Mother Lodge, of which the Duke of Kent is the Grand Master, and the King of England a Past Grand Master. Mr. Keiper was chosen as the chief delegate from the United States at this banquet, and according to Grand Master Lewis, he acquitted himself with full dignity and glory, justly earning for himself the unofficial but descriptive title of "Boss of the United States Grand Masters."

Dr. A. D. Thomas, superintendent of the Hazleton schools, died at his home Tuesday, November 7, death being due to a heart attack.

A graduate of Lafayette College, Dr. Thomas served for several years as principal of the Hazleton High School, and later became superintendent of the Hazleton school system. He was a past president of the Pennsylvania State Education Association.

He was prominently identified with the educational and civic affairs of Hazleton. He was also an elder in the Presbyterian Church. He is survived by his wife.

Marion Euphemia Green, a devoted and loyal alumna of Bloomsburg, died September 1, 1939, at her home in Englewood, Florida, where she has been living since her retirement from the New York City schools in 1925. She served on the school board in Englewood, and was an active member of the D. A. R. and of the Daughters of 1812, of which she was president at the time of her death.

Dr. Robert Swift Patten, prominent Danville physician, was found dead in bed at his home Tuesday morning, September 26. While he had been in poor health for several years, his death came as a great shock to the community.

Dr. Patten was born September 17, 1874. He attended the public schools of Bloomsburg, and later was graduated from the Bloomsburg Normal School. Following his graduation from Bloomsburg, he was employed for two years in a drug store in Washingtonville. He was graduated from Jefferson Medical College in 1901, and opened a practice in Washingtonville. While he lived in Washingtonville, he served for a time as chief burgess of the borough.

He moved to Danville in 1905, and lived there until the time of his death. He was married June 11, 1902, to Sara L. Miller, of Washington. Mrs. Patten died several years ago. Four years ago, Dr. Patten married Mrs. Anna Harter Miller, of Kingston, who survives him. He is also survived by a daughter, Mrs. Nevin P. Bauman, of Cleveland, Ohio, a stepson, Dr. Allison Miller, of Kingston, and a brother, Dr. James Patten, Glens Falls, New York.

For many years Dr. Patten was school physician in Danville. He was also a director of the Danville National Bank. He was a member of the Trinity Lutheran Church, the Montour County Medical Society, the Pennsylvania Medical Society, and the American Medical Association.

Henrietta Zeiders (Mrs. Charles E. Shope) lives at 321 West 24th Street, New York City.

Elizabeth Miller (Mrs. Frank P. Eyer) lives in Millersburg, Pennsylvania.

Rush Norman Hosler, a native of Jonestown, Columbia County, died at his home in Paxtang Sunday, November 5, after a long illness. For over twenty years he had been superintendent of the State Compensation Department's rating and inspection bureau in Luzerne, Lackawanna, and Schuylkill counties. Dr. Kehr Made Head Pennsylvania Deans

Dr. Marguerite W. Kehr, Dean of Women at the Bloomsburg State Teachers College, was recently elected president of the Pennsylvania Association of Deans of Women at their annual meeting held at the Penn-Harris Hotel, Harrisburg. Dr. Kehr has been prominently associated with this organization since 1928, having served as contacts chairman, publicity chairman, and vice-president during this period. Membership in the organization includes about 150 Deans of Women and Advisors in colleges, junior colleges, and secondary schools of Pennsylvania.

The Freshman Class officers recently elected for this year are as follows: President, George Piarote, Lebanon; Vice President, William Horvath, Allentown; Secretary, Barbara Sassaman, Harrisburg; Treasurer, David Jones, Shamokin; girl representative to Student Council, Eleanor Althoff, Hazleton; boy representative to Student Council, Howard Halpin, Forty Fort. Dr. Kimber C. Kuster was elected advisor of the class.

Prof. E. A. Reams, of the Department of Social Studies, is the author of an article published in the December issue of the "Lampodian", the official magazine of Phi Sigma Pi. In the article Professor Reams discusses "Purposeful Map Projects on Political Elections".

Commencement Plans

Campus Activities

TO ALL THE ALUMNI---

Another year has quickly passed, and May 25 is Alumni Day for all the graduates and friends of "Old Bloomsburg". We recall in happy memory the Centennial Celebration of last year. Were you here? If not, you will have an opportunity to see the Centennial movies, and they are fine. The program will start with a band concert in the auditorium at ten o'clock, with the general alumni meeting at eleven o'clock. The class reunions will begin with the luncheon and be continued during the afternoon. Baseball, tennis, and track will provide plenty of entertainment. In the evening, we shall enjoy the banquet and dance. What more could we ask? Why not retain the spirit of the Centennial and come back for Alumni Day? We shall be looking for you.

Sincere good wishes,

R. BRUCE ALBERT

ALUMNI AND FRIENDS----

Greetings!

A number of things begin in 1940. Among them are the second century of the existence of our College as an educational institution; the third decade as a State Normal School and Teachers College; the second decade of the Department of Business Education. I trust that it will also mark the growth in attendance at Alumni Day on Saturday, May 25, 1940.

This day will be a full one, and we are expecting to continue the plan which proved to be so successful last year, i.e., the Banquet Program which will be held Saturday evening, followed by Auditorium exercises and a dance.

We shall be pleased to welcome you again at Bloomsburg. The continuance of the Centennial Spirit among the Alumni means much to the College.

We shall expect to see you again on Alumni Day, May 25, 1940.

HARVEY A. ANDRUSS

Judge Clinton Herring Dies March 21

Clinton Herring, president judge of the several courts of the twenty-sixth judicial district, Columbia with Montour county attached, died suddenly Thursday, March 21, at his home in Orangeville. He was sixty-four years of age.

His death, attending physicians said, resulted from "complete exhaustion" which followed an attack of influenza three weeks earlier.

Judge Herring collapsed in his home on Friday, March 15. From that time his condition was regarded as serious but not critical, and the end came with a suddenness which was a profound shock to his family and his legion of friends and associates.

His condition early in the week showed some improvement and although he appeared somewhat weaker later, his condition was not regarded as grave.

Judge Herring, a lifelong resident of Orangeville and a member of the fourth generation of his family to reside in that village after coming to this county in 1800, was the seventh jurist to serve on the bench of Columbia and Montour counties in the sixty-eight years since this judicial district was created.

A lifelong Democrat, he had long been active in the party, but his only participation as a candidate was the year before his successful campaign for the judgeship. In 1936 he was one of the two Democratic delegates from the Fifteenth Congressional District to the party convention which nominated President Roosevelt for his second term.

Upon ascending the bench, he gave unstintingly of his time and energy to his duties and almost daily was at his office in the court house here or at Danville. The increasing demands of the office were met with sessions of court held frequently in addition to the four regular terms and the weekly routine sessions.

Surviving the jurist are his wife, the former Miss Jessie Fleckenstine, of Orangeville; two daughters, Mrs. James Greenway, of Drexel Hill, near Philadelphia, and Miss Elizabeth Herring, a student in the Orangeville High School; a sister, Mrs. Oliver S. McHenry, of Berwick, and a half-sister, Mrs. Cora Sweppenheiser, of Bloomsburg.

Funeral services were held at his late home at three o'clock Saturday, March 23, and were in charge of the Rev. L. V. Barber, pastor of the Benton-Orangeville Methodist charge. The jurist was a member of the Orangeville Reformed Church, which at present is without a pastor.

Officials of the Farmers National Bank of Orangeville, of which Judge Herring was the president since its organization in 1917, were active pall-bearers. Members of the Bar Association of Columbia and Montour counties were honorary pall-bearers. Burial was made in Laurel Hill Cemetery, Orangeville.

Judge Herring, son of the late Alexander B. Herring, was born in Orangeville, February 17, 1876, and was educated in the Orangeville schools and then was graduated from the Bloomsburg Normal School, now the Bloomsburg State Teachers College. Following his graduation he taught school four years.

He then entered the law office of his first cousin, Grant Herring, of Bloomsburg, a former judge in this district, and read law, being admitted to practice on January 15, 1900.

Since that time he had been active as an attorney until his elevation to the bench and both as a lawyer and judge was held in the highest esteem by associates and public alike.

His interests were many and increased through the years. In his home community of Orangeville and in the county generally any drive for civic improvement won his wholehearted support.

Judge Herring was one of those responsible for the organization of the Farmers National Bank of Orangeville which he served as president from its creation in 1917 until his death.

He was an active member of the Chamber of Commerce in that community. Some years ago he was named a member of the board of trustees of the Bloomsburg State Teachers College by Governor George H. Earle, and was serving as vice-president of the board at the time of his death.

Judge Herring was a member of Oriental Lodge, 460, F. & A. M., Orangeville; Caldwell Consistory, Bloomsburg; Orange Grange, Orangeville; Mountain Lodge, Odd Fellows, Orangeville; Bloomsburg Lodge of Elks and Bloomsburg Rotary Club.

The following are some of the tributes paid to Judge Herring at the time of his death:

CHARLES EVANS, for twenty-four years president judge of Columbia and Montour counties:

"Judge Herring's death was most unfortunate. He was a fine judge, careful, painstaking and thoroughly honest. His decisions were prompt, universally admired, and regarded as sound. I cannot believe it possible that he has died. Judge Herring will be greatly missed. He was much admired as a man, lawyer, and a distinguished judge."

HARRY L. MAGEE, manufacturer and president of the Bloomsburg Rotary Club:

"All who had the privilege of knowing Judge Herring realize full well that a severe loss has been sustained by this entire section through his death. Judge Herring was one who never shirked his duty, but who quietly and unassumingly carried more than his share in every worthwhile task. No community has enough citizens of the high type of Judge Herring. He will be missed; his place in life will be hard to fill, but because of a life well lived he has bequeathed a rich heritage for those of us who remain or are to follow."

R. R. JOHN, president of the Bar Association of Columbia and Montour counties:

"Judge Herring was a man of modest and retiring nature. In all his life as a practitioner no murmur of criticism reflecting upon his honor, his honesty, or his integrity has ever been heard. With persevering energy, but with unassuming quiet attitude, he won a prize which all of us, which every lawyer covets, every honorable man covets, and that is the knowledge that you have the absolute honor and respect of your fellow men in every walk of life.

In all his activities, in his business activities, his social activities, and his activities as a citizen he had that honor and respect from all.

Judge Clinton Herring was an honorable citizen, a successful banker, an honest and capable lawyer, and, above all, a true Christian gentleman."

GEORGE O. WAGNER, of Danville, Montour county district attorney:

"The entire community is shocked by the sudden death of Judge Herring. His death takes from the bench a man possessed with the courage of his conviction, a brilliant mind and understanding heart. It can be said without any hesitancy that no jurist devoted more thought and time to his cases, regardless of their nature, than Judge Herring, and no decision was ever made by him until he, in his own mind, was convinced that his decision was correct. His character, ability and integrity, like those of his predecessor, were of the highest level. He was truly a great and fine man. The people of the two counties have lost an outstanding jurist and a true friend."

C. WILLIAM KREISHER, of Catawissa, district attorney of Columbia County:

"As district attorney of Columbia county I have been called upon for the purpose of paying respect to the memory of His Honor, President Judge Clinton Herring of Columbia county.

"It is a sorrowful duty, but I do appreciate the opportunity to pay tribute to the memory of this great and good man. I am indeed grateful that I am permitted to express on behalf of the bar and county officials our respect and admiration for the life and character of Judge Herring. He will long be remembered throughout this county as a great lawyer and an upright judge.

"He will be remembered too for his kindly and gentle spirit. Counsel and litigants alike were at all times grateful to him for his kindly and courteous treatment.

"In his death, our county has lost a judge, who, by his learning and faithful service through many years, endeared himself to our people.

"The bar has lost a colleague who won for himself the honor and respect of all his fellow attorneys.

"The county has lost an earnest, untiring, and sincere public servant. Those who knew Judge Herring have lost a good and faithful friend.

"He has left us mourning his departure, yet richer for his having lived in our midst. His long, valuable and honored life was so spent that we, his fellow citizens of the Bench and Bar, and of every station of life, are the recipients of the good which he wrought. The influence of the higher standards of righteousness and faithful service which he leaves us as a heritage points the way to the higher and nobler things of life, family and civic virtue, impartial justice, and the unwavering adherence to the right in all things.

"His life was gentle, and the elements
So mix'd in him that nature might stand up
And say to all the world
This was a man!"

R. S. HEMINGWAY, prominent attorney:

"The announcement of the death of Judge Herring as of this morning came as a distinct shock to me, because for more than twenty-five years I have looked upon him as one of my most intimate friends. Hardly a day passed that I did not meet him either professionally or socially, and it was always a pleasure to come in contact with him. I knew him to be a man of the highest integrity, of outstanding qualities and traits of character. His fine attainments in his chosen field of endeavor made him an excellent lawyer and an able jurist. His fidelity to the best interests of his town and community and his devoted services to those institutions and organizations in his community that tend to uplift and advance the welfare of its citizens, make his passing a distinct loss to all his friends and fellow citizens. Judge Herring will always be remembered by those who knew him as possessing those kindly attributes and cardinal virtues that make for true and lasting friendship. Every practicing lawyer in Columbia and Montour Counties loved him, and what is more, they knew that every judgment and decree that bore his signature was handed down after conscientious and painstaking study and contained in them what he felt in his own heart and mind was just and equitable.

HAROLD G. TEEL, former district attorney and prominent member of the bar:

"It was with a deep sense of personal loss and sorrow that I learned of the passing of Judge Clinton Herring. I feel that a good friend has gone, with whom I can no longer meet to indulge in those talks which brightened one's path along life's way.

"Judge Herring was a man of sterling character, honesty, and probity. As an attorney and later as a judge he was always receptive to complaints of any person in distress—he always met everyone on an equal basis. He had a kindly humor that often flashed out to disclose an intimate knowledge of life and its many problems.

"A friend and judge has passed—we are poorer for losing him, but far richer in the happy memories that his contacts with our lives have left us."

CARROLL E. WENNER, cashier of the Farmers National Bank of Orangeville and president of the Orangeville Chamber of Commerce:

"In the passing of Judge Herring yesterday morning there comes to all of us who through the years have been associated with him a loss which shall be keenly felt.

"It having been my privilege to be associated with him in the bank for the past seventeen years; I can only say his sound advice, his strength of character, and his most affectionate friendship will be sorely missed.

"His life was a busy one. Yet he willingly gave of himself and his substance to every worthwhile community work.

"As our friend and associate has been called from his life of strenuous labors for others, we bow to the will of Him who doeth all things well and can only say "Mr. Herring 'we still miss you'."

O. Z. Low, Orangeville manufacturer and close personal friend:

"Judge Herring's death came as a distinct shock to his friends and neighbors. We had noticed for some time his failing health and had hoped he would take a much needed vacation. His industry and conscientious performance of details usually led to others, and his serious regard for the many responsibilities of his office made heavy inroads on his health and strength.

"We will greatly miss his neighborliness and his loyalty to his friends. Our sincere sympathy is extended to his family in their bereavement."

DEAN HARVEY A. ANDRUISS, acting president of the Bloomsburg State Teachers College:

"Judge Clinton Herring, as vice president of the board of trustees, made an unusual contribution to the college in that he was ever painstaking and far-seeing as a member of the board.

"Careful at all times to consider the long range of plans before they were put into action, his legal mind enabled him to render a unique service in passing on those problems leading to the new building program.

"His sage counsel as a member of the governing body of the college will be missed by the administration, the faculty, the students, the employes and all those connected with the institution. We consider his passing a signal loss to the Bloomsburg State Teachers College."

GROVER C. SHOEMAKER, secretary-treasurer of the board of trustees of the State Teachers College, Bloomsburg:

"It was with deep regret that I learned of the passing of my friend. Hon. Clinton Herring, with whom for four years I have served on the board of trustees of the Bloomsburg State Teachers College, where I had the privilege and pleasure of knowing him quite intimately.

"Although manful and courageous, he was gentle and unassuming. Because of his ability, his energy and his loyalty to every duty and to every obligation, he was one of the board's most valued members."

THIRTEENTH ROTARY-KIWANIS

Meet at College

Cordial and mutually beneficial relations existing between the "college on the hill" and the people of Bloomsburg was again demonstrated Thursday evening, March 14, when the thirteenth annual Kiwanis-Rotary-College Evening was held, opening with a dinner in the college dining-room and followed by a program in the auditorium. A dance concluded the evening's entertainment.

In spite of a pouring rain that threatened coiffures and evening gowns, the attendance was large and the group that assembled in the college dining-room was one of the largest in the history of the event.

Charles S. Ranck, president of the Kiwanis Club, opened the evening's program and introduced the Rev. J. E. Skillington, D.D., minister of the Methodist Church, who gave the invocation. Songs were led during the dinner by John Lyle and Dr. Clarence Sober, with Prof. Howard F. Fenstemaker, of the college faculty, at the piano.

Excellent music was provided throughout the dinner by the Maroon and Gold orchestra.

Seated at the speakers' table were Judge and Mrs. C. C. Evans, of Berwick; Dean and Mrs. Harvey Andruss, Mr. and Mrs. Harry L. Magee, the Rev. and Mrs. J. E. Skillington and Mr. and Mrs. Charles S. Ranck.

Mr. Magee, president of the Rotary Club, was introduced by Mr. Ranck, following an address of welcome in which the latter extolled the teachings embodied in the Constitution of the United States and in the lives of Washington, Lincoln, Benjamin Franklin and other great men of history.

"Such a meeting as we have here tonight," he pointed out, "is a privilege denied to people in other parts of the world."

Following a brief word of welcome, Mr. Magee introduced Dean Andruss, acting president of the College, who presented the following from among the guests: Mr. and Mrs. Eckley Hoyt, of Berwick, the former being Columbia County general assemblyman; Dr. Paul E. Witmeyer, superintendent of the schools of Shamokin, and Mrs. Witmeyer; Morris Houck, superintendent of the Berwick schools; Fred W. Diehl, of Danville, superintendent of the Montour county schools, and Mrs. Diehl; Roy Snyder, president of the Bloomsburg School Board, and Mrs. Snyder; L. P. Gilmore, supervising principal of the Bloomsburg schools, and Mrs. Gilmore, and Nathan E. Krauss, president of the Bloomsburg Council, and Mrs. Krauss.

The scene of activities was then transferred from the dining room to the college auditorium, where the program featured a play presented by the Bloomsburg Players and directed by Miss Alice Johnston, of the faculty; the premiere of the fourth motion picture of college life at Bloomsburg, made under the direction of Prof. George J. Keller, of the art department, and music by the college orchestra, directed by Professor Fenstermaker. Norman Maza, president of the Community Government Association, extended greetings.

The piquant, one-act play, "The Wonder Hat", an imaginative and amusing presentation, was given by a cast of five from the Bloomsburg Players. Stewart Edwards, who assumed the leading role of Harlequin on a day's notice because of the illness of Jack Shortess, originally a member of the cast, was remarkably at ease and gave an interesting performance.

Punchinello, the ragged vender with a bag of astonishing articles for sale was played by Spencer Roberts in a manner that was most convincing. Isaac Jones, as Piercot, was superior and vain, as the role demanded, and Florence Stefansky was the charming Columbine. Jane Dyke, as the bitter-tongued Margot, was responsible for the majority of laughs, which came frequently during the progress of the play.

Instantaneous and sustained interest was aroused in the showing of Prof. Keller's fourth movie on activities at the college, entitled "Living at Bloomsburg". In the current picture, a concise and convincing presentation of the close relationship between college and town was presented.

The picture is probably the most amusing of all the series and is interesting not only from the standpoint of an informative and descriptive delineation of life at the college but also because of the manner in which it has captured the spirit of youth, its laughter and ambition, which pervades the college.

The picture includes early morning scenes—including the alarm clock, the toothbrush and the shower—and study hour periods. The film concludes with a colorful review of last year's Kiwanis-Rotary dinner, which was of especial interest to the audience.

Three spirited numbers were played by the fine college orchestra, including "Queen of Sheba", by Gounod; "Valse Op. 64, No. 2" by Chopin, and an overture, "Tannhauser" by Wagner. Group singing was led by Miss Harriet M. Moore. The singing of alma mater brought the auditorium program to a close, after which the guests enjoyed a dance in the college gymnasium.

Dr. Charles Clinton Swisher

The death of Dr. Charles Clinton Swisher, at Washington, D. C., Monday, February 5, removes from the field of activity all but one of those who were inspired by Dr. Henry Carver when he was laying the foundations of the Bloomsburg State Teachers College of today. The sole survivor of that era is Dr. David J. Waller, Jr., an intimate friend of Dr. Swisher for many years.

Dr. Swisher was a native of Muncy, but it was to Jerseytown, from where he traveled to Bloomsburg to enter the old academy on West Third Street, that he gave his allegiance. He was a frequent visitor there in his later years. Dr. Swisher's outstanding ability brought him many honors throughout the world. In Washington, where he was a leading educator for many years, he was recognized as one of that city's outstanding men in the cultural field.

His death brings to mind the fact that many who were later to attain prominence received their inspiration at Bloomsburg.

Dr. Swisher, who was 93 years of age at the time of his death, and who was one of America's greatest interpreters of history, had received a letter from Dr. Waller just before his death. Dr. Swisher's secretary wrote how much he appreciated it.

Dr. Swisher, although born in Muncy, was a Jerseytown boy at the time he studied in the old academy on West Third street along with Dr. Waller and other Bloomsburg boys. Both men there fell under the influence of Dr. Henry Carver, who largely moulded their lives and who, more than any other man, was responsible for the Bloomsburg State Teachers College of today.

In his later years Dr. Swisher frequently visited in Jerseytown and upon those visits always visited Dr. Waller at his Market street home. When in Jerseytown he was the guest of Misses Ella and Sallie Watson.

Regarding Dr. Swisher's death the Washington Star had the following:

George Washington University today mourned the death of Dr. Charles Clinton Swisher, 93-year-old emeritus professor of history, who died Sunday. Flags were at half mast as faculty and students alike paid tribute to the man who was one of the university's most noted teachers.

At last night's faculty meeting Dr. Lloyd H. Marvin, president of the university, and the assembled faculty members observed a moment of silence dedicated to the memory of Dr. Swisher.

Emeritus professor since 1927, Dr. Swisher had been professor of history at George Washington from 1896 until that time. In all his 30 years there, he never appeared before a class without being dressed in a morning coat.

But if his "old school" dress and manner were out of date, his knowledge and ability to teach never were. In 1936 the university established a Charles Clinton Swisher annual history prize to be awarded in his honor. He established the school's history department in 1896 and for 10 years thereafter taught all the courses from ancient to modern history. In later years he specialized in medieval history.

In December a portrait of Dr. Swisher, which hangs in the university library, was formally dedicated to him. The picture was a presentation of the Swisher Memorial Society, named for the doctor, on the occasion of his 93rd birthday anniversary.

Dr. Swisher was born in Muncy, Pa. Extensively educated, he studied at Yale University, Columbia University Law School, Cornell, the Universities of Paris, Berlin, Heidelberg, Guadalajara, and at Mount St. Mary's College.

From 1881 to 1883 he practiced law in New York City, leaving to develop and plant a large tract of land in California in coffee and cocoa. His agricultural pursuits led him into Mexico, where he befriended President Diaz, who commissioned him to study methods of coffee production in Asia and the East Indies and to examine the possibilities of planting Australian eucalyptus in Mexico. He published his findings in a tract called "The Eucalyptus, Native and Transplanted," in 1888.

His writings on the history of religious orders in Mexico bearing on the conflict between church and state led to his arrest and banishment from the country. The banishment was later rescinded. However, in 1893 an attack of yellow fever threatened his health, and Dr. Swisher returned to the United States to pursue the study of history he had begun under Prof. Leopold Von Rauke at the University of Berlin. After several years' work at Cornell, he came to teach at George Washington.

After his retirement, the doctor traveled through Northern Africa, visiting Fez and other historic places. Always an ardent traveler, Dr. Swisher crossed the Atlantic twenty-six times. A member of several Alpine clubs, he is known to have scaled, among other peaks, Mount Blanc, Mount Washington and Mount Rainier.

He was 68 years old when the World War broke out and was in Germany. After great difficulty he was allowed to leave the country.

Widely known, Dr. Swisher numbered among his acquaintances Queen Victoria, William II of Germany, Robert Browning and Alfred Lord Tennyson. He is said to have known every President of the United States from the time of Lincoln. William Howard Taft was his classmate at Yale and the two maintained a warm friendship.

When he was president of Princeton University, Woodrow Wilson termed Dr. Swisher the best interpreter of medieval history in this country, and is said to have consulted him on historical matters pertinent to the League of Nations.

Dr. Swisher was a member of the American Historical and several Asiatic Historical Associations.

He never married. He is survived by a nephew, Harold Keats of East Orange, N. J., and a niece, Mrs. Louis G. Connor, Washington, D. C.

TWELVE GRADUATED FIRST SEMESTER

Among the names of those graduating are the following: Michael J. Chismar Jr., Jeddo; Arthur L. Davis, Taylor; Wm. H. Hess, Bloomsburg; Margaret E. Hill, Scranton; Lawrence J. Kiefer, Frackville; Paul B. Kokitas, West Hazleton; Margaret Kostenbauder, Aristes; Robert C. Lewis, Danville, R. D.; Paul J. McHale, Wilkes-Barre; William Hope Penman, Bloomsburg; Louise M. Rouchey, Trucksville; Phillip L. Snyder, Syracuse.

It is also interesting to note that of this number three are in-service teachers who have completed the requirements for the rising standard of teacher certification in Pennsylvania by attending summer sessions and Saturday classes at Bloomsburg.

Mr. Herbert E. McMahan, of the Business Education Department of the Bloomsburg State Teachers College, attended the 43rd Annual Convention of the Eastern Commercial Teachers Association held in Atlantic City, March 20-23. The theme for the convention was "The Contribution of Business Education to Youth Adjustment." Last year Mr. McMahan served as State Membership Chairman and this year served as Chairman of the Distributive Occupations Section on Friday morning, March 22. In the afternoon he served as Chairman on a panel discussion on "Distributive Occupations."

The Eastern Commercial Teachers Association is the largest association of commercial teachers in the United States.

DEAN ANDRUSS HONORED BY APPOINTMENT

Dean Harvey A. Andruss, now Acting President of the State Teachers College at Bloomsburg, Pennsylvania, has been appointed as a Consultant to the Educational Policies Commission, of Washington, D. C.

This Commission represents the National Education Association of the United States and the American Association of School Administrators.

From time to time Consultants are expected to comment on the policies that effect our National life through education.

In addition to the Members of the Commission, a group of Consultants are appointed in such a way as to represent leading educational thought in the various sections of our country.

At the present time the effects of education on American Democracy is receiving major attention from this Commission. A dramatization entitled "On Our Way" represents the progress that has been made in America in the great experiment of self-government.

Dean Andruss is well-fitted to act as a Consultant to this Committee, since he is now editing a series of books on "Economic Citizenship." The first book is expected to appear in 1941 and will be used in the early years of the high school.

DANCE PROGRAM IN ARTIST SERIES

As the sixth number of the current Artists' Course series at the Bloomsburg State Teachers College Hans Wiener and Erika Thumey presented a dance program, Friday evening, March 1 in the college auditorium.

Interest in the art of the dance has been considerably heightened in Bloomsburg during recent years, largely through the presentations of the artists' course series, and this year's program built up even greater enthusiasm for the art.

Hans Wiener, who is known in Europe, Asia and America, was born in Vienna. As his reputation as a dancer grew he appeared in theater, concert and opera in many leading European cities. He accepted an extended tour in the Far East and for two years taught fourteen different nationalities in his school at Shanghai. In America, he opened his school first in New York and then in Boston where, year after year, he has produced and performed in the Pop season of the Boston Symphony Orchestra.

Miss Thumey received her diploma from Mary Wigman and gained her experience as concert and theater dancer in Europe before coming to Chicago in 1932. The programs of these two have great variety and strong educational value.

JOSEPH WAGNER IN PIANO RECITAL

A program of sixteen numbers, including two of his own composition, was presented by Josef Wagner, German pianist and composer, at a concert held Friday evening, February 9, in the auditorium of the College before a large audience.

The audience included members of the Bloomsburg State Teachers College Alumni Association of Columbia County which met for a reunion at the college.

The Sonata in A minor by Mozart opened the program and introduced the audience to an artist of breath-taking power and brilliance. Full-toned music in the heavier strains as well as a light, quick touch in the delicate passages were characteristics of his playing and proved him an artist of varied abilities.

His interpretation of "Sonata Appassionata" by Beethoven was vital and sincere.

Seldom does Bloomsburg have the opportunity to hear a program of this type of music, presented with such genius, and the second part of the program, which followed a short intermission, continued the high standard of musicianship marking the first part.

A well-arranged sequence of six preludes by Chopin was the first number following intermission. "Poissons d'or (Goldfish)", by Claude Debussy and "March" by Serge Prokofieff came next on the program.

Much acclaim greeted his playing of two numbers of his own composition, "Variations on a French Nursery Song" and "Toccata". The program closed with "Caprice in E Major", Paganini-Liszt, and "Soiree de Vienne", by Strauss-Gruenfeld.

BLOOM PLAYERS PRESENT "THE WONDER HAT"

"The Wonder Hat" by Kenneth Sawyer Goodman, was presented by the Bloomsburg Players, under the direction of Miss Alice Johnston of the College faculty, at the Rotary-Kiwanis-College Night, Thursday, March 14. The romantic setting of the play is a path in the park on a moonlight night.

The cast included: Harlequin, Steward Edwards, Edwardsville; Pierrot, Isaac Jones, Scranton; Punchinello, Spencer Roberts, Catawissa; Columbine, Florence Stefanky, Wilkes-Barre; and Margot, Jane Dyke, Mt. Carmel.

RESULTS OF PLAY CONTEST

Eichelberger High School, Hanover, won the silver loving cup in the Class A, division of the ninth annual high school play tournament sponsored by the Alpha Psi Omega Fraternity of the Bloomsburg State Teachers College. The winning play was entitled "Pink and Patches".

Tunkhannock High School took first honors in the Class B division with the play, "The Opening of a Door." It also received a silver loving cup.

The schools participating in the Class A division were the Berwick High School and Eichelberger High School, whose dramatic groups presented their plays Friday evening, March 15. Class B, including the dramatic groups of Tunkhannock High School, Wyoming High School, and Weatherly High School played Saturday afternoon, March 16.

The judges were: Mrs. Clair Hidlay, Maynard J. Pennington, Bloomsburg; James Davis, Mainville, and Miss Elizabeth Feinour, Millville.

On Saturday afternoon Dean Harvey A. Andruss, acting president of the college, gave a short talk regarding the value of dramatics in developing poise and personality in college students. Spencer Roberts, a member of the Bloomsburg Players, played the organ between the performances.

Shamokin High School Band, George Andrews conducting, presented an excellent program at the college assembly here, Friday, March 8.

The students of the Bloomsburg State Teachers College held their Mid-semester Dance, Friday evening, February 2. The dance was sponsored by the Community Government Association of the college. Ray Marcell's orchestra provided music.

MIXED CHORUS PRESENTS CONCERT

One hundred twenty well-blended voices, comprising the mixed chorus of the College, and the pleasing tenor voice of Eugene Conley as soloist, brought to a large audience an excellent musical program, in a concert presented Friday evening, April 12, under the direction of Harriet M. Moore.

The presentation marked the climax of the entertainment course, which this year has included seven outstanding numbers.

Mrs. John K. Miller was accompanist for Mr. Conley, and Spencer Roberts '42 played for the mixed chorus.

The program consisted of several numbers by the chorus, two groups of songs by Mr. Conley, and the cantata "Hiawatha's Wedding Feast" by Coleridge-Taylor, with the words by Longfellow. The cantata included a fine tenor solo by Mr. Conley.

This is the first time that the chorus has been able to appear on the stage without being badly crowded. The remodeling of the stage has made available adequate room for a group as large as the mixed chorus. The members, wearing black robes, were seated on bleachers, and presented a very fine picture.

The manner in which the program was presented gave ample evidence of fine direction on the part of Miss Moore, and much hard work on the part of the chorus.

LANDSCAPE PLAN AT COLLEGE APPROVED

The General State Authority has embarked on a landscaping program with approval of WPA projects costing more than $500,000 for outside work at eleven state institutions.

The projects call for grading, drainage, walks and drives to be carried out within the next year.

The state's share of the work will be financed through bonds recently purchased by the state teachers' retirement fund. The bond issue ultimately will total $7,000,000 and will be used by the authority to equip, furnish and otherwise make ready for use buildings erected in its $65,000,000 building program.

The landscaping projects approved were for Bloomsburg State Teachers' College, Elizabethtown Crippled Children's Hospital, Selinsgrove State Colony for Epileptics, State Industrial Home for Women at Muncy, Shippensburg State Teacher's College, Gettysburg Armory, and Butler State Tuberculosis Sanitarium.

The list of projects approved includes: Bloomsburg State Teachers College, $41,200 for a nine-months job of grading, and construction of walks and drives.

A very interesting demonstration of television featured a recent chapel program at the Bloomsburg State Teachers College. Mr. Lewis Hoskins very ably discussed the workings of television and conducted experiments on the stage which made the miracle of television more understandable to the layman. Featured at the demonstration were the televised countenances of several Bloomsburg students before the rest of the assembly. Another feature demonstrated the unusual features of television make-up as required by varying intensities of light to reproduce contrast and shadows.

SERVICE AREA CONFERENCE HELD

Many public school teachers in this and other surrounding counties attended the annual service area conference held at the Bloomsburg State Teachers College, Saturday, February 10.

The general session opened in the auditorium of the college with an address on "Teacher Rating" by C. O. Williams of the teacher bureau of the State Department.

At 11 o'clock the conference separated into five groups which discussed topics of interest to elementary and secondary school teachers.

At 12:30 luncheon was served in the college dining hall, following which Dr. R. G. Sutherland, dean of men of Bucknell University, delivered the final address on the subject, "Inventions in Morality".

All teachers of Montour, Northumberland, Columbia and Luzerne counties were invited to attend the conference.

NEW CAMPUS FILM

The movie production "Living at Bloomsburg," produced under the direction of Professor George J. Keller of the Art Department at the Bloomsburg State Teachers College, had its premiere showing Thursday evening, March 14, at the 13th Annual Rotary-Kiwanis-College Night. The film produced by Professor Keller portrays college life throughout a typical day at the Bloomsburg State Teachers College on the part of several male students and some co-eds.

Dormitory situations, classroom experiences, extracurricular activities, dining room scenes, and many other typical college situations are presented in this, the latest, of the series of college films produced by Professor Keller. This film will be available for meetings of local alumni associations.

Two hundred couples attended the Sophomore Cotillion at the Bloomsburg State Teachers College Saturday evening, February 24. Music was furnished by Russ Andellora and his orchestra. The gym was attractively decorated in keeping with the season.

Officers of the class sponsoring the dance are: Ralph McCracken, of Allentown, president; David Nelson, of Hazleton, vice-president, Miss Mary Davenport, of Berwick, secretary, and Robert Hartman, of Bloomsburg, treasurer.

New Courses

OFFERED

• A number of new courses are being offered during the second semester.

One of the new courses is in advertising, and is being offered by Prof. A. Park Orth to students in the business education curriculum, with the idea of increasing interest among those who may choose retail selling as a further field of work.

Also offered for the first time are methods courses in social business subjects and junior business training. These are for business students and are taught by Prof. Orth.

The field of biological science has an increased offering in a course in genetics, offered by Dr. Kimber C. Kuster. Prof. S. I. Shortess offers an advanced course in qualitative analysis, which will be of special interest to students in the field of physical science and chemistry.

Dr. T. P. North is giving a course in school law and administration, which has been made necessary by the recent legislation relating to teachers and teaching problems in the Commonwealth.

With the equipping of the new stage in the college auditorium in Carver Hall, it is now possible to offer a course in Creative Dramatics to those who are interested in this phase of speech work. Advanced courses in speech correction are also offered under the direction of Miss Alice Johnston in a new course known as Speech Clinic I.

Beginning with the second semester all of the machines used by the business education students have been centralized in Room 42, Science Hall, occupying the quarters last used by the historical project operating under the WPA. This brings together in one place adding machines, calculating machines, dictaphones, mimeographs, mimeoscopes, multigraphs and other machines which, with the growth of the department of business education, have had to be located in three or four different places and in as many buildings. All office practice courses are taught in this room, which not only makes all of the machines available in one place at one time, but provides a class room which accommodates forty or more students.

An auxiliary biological laboratory has been re-equipped in Room 23, Science Hall, in order to make more space available to a large number of students for experimental work.

TWO NEW FACULTY MEMBERS

An addition was made to the faculty of the department of business education at the Bloomsburg State Teachers College with the opening of the second semester.

Joseph R. Bailer, formerly of the Metuchen High School, Metuchen, N. J., and Robert College, Istanbul, Turkey, is the new instructor and is offering courses in English II and Business Correspondence.

Prof. Bailer is a graduate of the Athens, Pa. High School and holds the degree of bachelor of science from the University of Pittsburgh and the degree of master of arts from New York University.

He also attended Cambridge University, England, and the University of Grenoble, France. In addition to his academic preparation he has had general business and office experience and has traveled in South America, Europe, and Asia.

An experience of over ten years in teaching in high schools, an academy, and a college fits Prof. Bailer for his new position.

N. Y. A. GRANT TO BLOOMSBURG IS $9,045

A student quota of sixty-seven, with a monthly allotment of $1,005, or a total of $9,045 during the nine-month period of sessions, was announced for the NYA program at the Bloomsburg State Teachers College.

Pennsylvania's share of the $13,039,268 National Youth Administration fund for supplying jobs to college and graduate students this year is $79,075.

The amounts going to other state teachers colleges in the state for the year include: California, $8,370; Clarion, $3,510; Edinboro, $3,915; Indiana, $17,550; Lock Haven, $4,995; Mansfield, $7,50; Millersville, $6,885; Shippensburg, $6,210; Slippery Rock, $7,155; and East Stroudsburg, $6,345.

May 25—	Alumni	Home

Baseball candidates at the Boomsburg State Teachers College, under Dr. E. H. Nelson, are waiting for suitable weather to get outdoors for active work-outs. Meanwhile, pitchers and catchers have been loosening up winter-tightened arms in the basement of the Benjamin Franklin Training School.

Dr. E. H. Nelson, Director of Athletics, announced that on May 25, Alumni Day at all Pennsylvania State Teachers Colleges, a Lock Haven and Bloomsburg team will meet at Bloomsburg and another Lock Haven and Bloomsburg game will be played the same afternoon at Lock Haven. This will be the first attempt for these schools at putting two teams on the field the same afternoon, one at home and one away. Both institutions will be celebrating Alumni Day and the experiment will be an unusual feature.

Coach George C. Buchheit's track boys, Pennsylvania State Teachers College champions for the past three years, have been working out indoors and outdoors in preparation for their first outdoor meet scheduled with Bucknell at Bloomsburg, Wednesday, April 17. Buchheit's distance runners have been doing some running outdoors while dash men, hurdlers, and field event men have been loosening up stiffened joints in the old college gymnasium.

Candidates for the 1940 tennis team at the Bloomsburg State Teachers College have been warming up indoors under the direction of Coach John C. Koch. A few more days of mild weather and the squad will probably journey to Sunbury to do some work outdoors on Thomas Nicholas' all-weather court. The Bloomsburg racqueteers open their season with one of their more difficult rivals, Mansfield on Friday, April 19, at Bloomsburg. The following day Indiana plays at Bloomsburg and this is always a tough match for the local boys.

BASKETBALL

The Bloomsburg basketball team, coached by George C. Buchheit, came through with a fine record. The team won ten games and lost four. This record placed Bloomsburg in the fourth position among the State Teachers Colleges of Pennsylvania. The prospects for next year are excellent. Only one of the members of the squad will be lost by graduation, and the experience gained during the past sesason should make possible a fine team.

The results of the season are as follows:

December 15	Bloomsburg	57	Alumni	41
January 5	Bloomsburg	39	Lock Haven	35
January 13	Bloomsburg	50	Shippensburg	36
January 16	Bloomsburg	50	Mansfield	32

No Scholastic Basketball Tourney This Year

The annual Bloomsburg State College scholastic basketball tourney, an annual Spring feature since it was inaugurated in 1922, was not held this year.

Inability to have the use of the new gymnasium led officials to decide not to hold the games this year. They will be continued in 1941, it was stated.

The tourney has been one of the finest things of its kind since it was started and through the years has attracted thousands of athletes and more thousands of spectators to the college campus.

College Relay Team Triumphs in Penn A. C.

Bloomsburg State Teachers College mile relay team raced to triumph in the teachers college mile before 8,500 fans in the Penn A. C. indoor meet in Philadelphia's municipal auditorium Friday evening, February 9, for their second straight win in those games.

The Huskies led West Chester to the tape by ten yards with Rider College, of Trenton, third. The time of 3:33.8 was better than the 3:35 recorded in winning a year ago despite the fact that Harry Jenkins was the only boy running last night who was on the '39 quartet.

Bloomsburg's scratch man built up a ten yard lead, but the West Chester runners took over the front position for the next two quarters. Then George Spontak, of Pottsville, came through with a fine kick in the anchor lap to win handily. The other two of the quartet were Don Jenkins, of Forty Fort and a brother of Harry, and Ken Hippensteel, of Espy.

Dean Andruss Writes in Business Yearbook

Dean Harvey A. Andruss of the Bloomsburg State Teachers College has written Chapter II of the "National Business Education Outlook" of 1939. This yearbook is the official organ of the National Teachers Federation, which recently held its convention in Pittsburgh.

The business curriculum of all types of schools was the theme of the 1939 yearbook, which is now going to press. Chapters were devoted to the curriculums of high schools, private schools, colleges and universities. From among several hundred Teachers Colleges in the United States, Dean Andruss chose the business education curriculum at the Bloomsburg State Teachers College and another curriculum which is followed by the Muncie State Teachers College in Indiana as being typical of the most modern practice in America today.

The National Commercial Teachers organization with a membership of some 5,000 teachers located throughout the United States, and their next meeting will be held at Chicago during the Christmas vacation of 1940.

The Philadelphia ALUMNI

AS SPRING ARRIVES, our tenth luncheon season comes to a close. Ten seasons of healthful growth have developed an organization of which we are most proud. They have been ten seasons in which we have learned to know and to welcome newcomers into the association, and ten seasons of close communion with those we love and hold most dear.

To finish the season, we are holding our tenth anniversary banquet in the North Garden of the Bellevue-Stratford Hotel on Saturday, April 27, at 6:30 P.M.

Every alumnus and every alumni organization of the Bloomsburg State Teachers College is invited to attend this banquet. A special program has been arranged, and we hope to have an outstanding attendance.

Reservations may be made with Mrs. Norman G. Cool, 112 North 50th Street, Philadelphia, or with Mrs. Nora Woodring Kinney, 7011 Erdrick Street, Philadelphia.

* * * * *

The sympathy of the organization is extended to the following:

Victoria Smith Bundens, whose husband Edward lost his life in the recent DuPont explosion.

Veronia Muldowney, whose mother passed away in February.

To Catherine Malloy, who buried a sister.

Dorothy Herring Greenway, whose father, Judge Clinton C. Herring, died just before Easter.

* * * * *

Helen Rice Irvin was in the Presbyterian Hospital for several weeks during the winter.

Blanche Miller Grimes was recently a patient in the Graduate Hospital.

W. F. Magee '88, head of the Bethlehem Business College, has been spending the winter in Florida and Mexico.

Luella Burdick Sinquett spent a month in Florida last winter.

Irene Hortman, of Wilmington, Dela., spent the Easter season in Berwick.

Our picnics for the summer are being arranged, and will be announced at a later date.

Don't forget the banquet. Time: April 27. Place: Bellevue-Stratford.

Dear Alumnus:

"Loyalty of an alumnus to his or her Alma Mater is a fine development of American educational life unequalled elsewhere."

By attending these annual gatherings we bear testimony to our appreciation of our College, Teachers, and Friends. We owe them much.

This being the TENTH ANNIVERSARY of the Philadelphia Alumni Association we would like to have it the largest and best in our history. We would urge every graduate, or non-graduate of Bloomsburg to be present upon this occasion and thus contribute your bit to the success of the evening.

We would especially honor this year

DR. DAVID J. WALLER, JR.

our President Emeritus—the Grand Old Man of Bloomsburg, who has promised to be with us, his health permitting.

A fine program is being arranged.

DR. HARVEY ANDRUSS—Acting President is giving us the same splendid co-operation DR. HAAS gave us during the previous nine years. Dr. Andruss will bring us college atmosphere with four numbers:

1. Vocal Solo
2. Dramatic Sketch
3. Pictures of Centennial
4. Miss Moore and Mr. Fenstermaker (so well known to all of you) will take care of the music.

We expect to have 25 or 30 outstanding graduates at our Speakers Table—each one will give an anecdote of Dr. Waller, or the School. (two or three minutes duration)

THOMAS FRANCIS '08, County Superintendent of Lackawanna Schools will be Master of Ceremonies.

We are sure you will all be glad to know that Dr. and Mrs. Haas will be present.

Your Committees are doing their best to arrange a reunion that will live in your hearts and minds for many days. Will you not make a special effort to be present? DO NOT say "I will come next year". Come this year. Come at the last minute if necessary. You will be taken care of.

THE COMMITTEE.

Columbia county alumni of the State Teachers College, Friday evening, February, 9, held a get-together dinner meeting in the college dining hall, marked by a splendid spirit, and enjoyed a program. A turkey dinner was served to the more than 125 attending.

Maurice E. Houck, superintendent of the Berwick schools, was chosen president for the coming year, with LaRue Derr supervising principal of the Beaver Township schools, chosen vice-president; Miss Elizabeth White, of town, secretary, and Mrs. Harlan Snyder, Catawissa, treasurer.

The group accepted the report of the nominating committee which was composed of Miss Karleen M. Hoffman and Miss Myra S. Sharpless, of town, and William H. Weaver, of Madison.

The Maroon and Gold Dance Band provided a fine program of dinner music, and Miss Harriet M. Moore led the group singing. The Hope sisters, students at the college who have entertained considerably on the radio, sang several selections to orchestra accompaniment.

The dinner program opened with the invocation by Dean W. B. Sutliff, and Harold H. Hidlay, of Orangeville, president of the county group, presided.

Grover C. Shoemaker, secretary of the board of trustees; Prof. C. H. Albert and Dean and Mrs. W. B. Sutliff, former faculty members; M. E. Houck, Berwick; Mrs. Shoemaker and Mrs. Harlan Snyder, officers of the county association, were introduced.

Short talks were made by Dr. E. H. Nelson, H. F. Fenstermaker, Dean Harvey Andruss and R. Bruce Albert, the latter president of the general alumni association. The meeting concluded with the singing of Alma Mater and the group adjourned to the auditorium for the concert by Josef Wagner, outstanding pianist and composer.

William Chrisman, Esq., died at his home on West First Street, Bloomsburg, at six o'clock Saturday evening, February 24, of a heart attack and complications due to advanced age.

It was only a few weeks before his death that the Bench and Bar of Columbia and Montour counties honored Mr. Chrisman and his fellow lawyer, Nevin U. Funk, at a testimonial banquet at Danville.

A native of Pottsville, he was born October 11, 1854, and three years later came to Madison Township, Columbia County, with his parents.

Practically all of Mr. Chrisman's professional life was spent in Bloomsburg. He was graduated from the Bloomsburg State Normal School in 1878. As a youth of seventeen years, he began teaching in a district school in Mahoning township, Montour County, and continued there with success for two years. He then became assistant principal of the Bloomsburg High School and while teaching read law with the late C. W. Miller. He was admitted to the Columbia County bar on February 7, 1882, practicing there ever since—more than fifty-eight years.

In 1890, Mr. Chrisman was appointed district attorney by the court of Columbia County and the same year was elected over his opponent by a majority of 2,761 votes. While holding that office, for three years, he tried a number of important criminal cases. In 1896 he was elected to the Legislature and re-elected in 1898. While there he was placed on some of the important committees of the House and there helped frame and finally pass some of the most important laws of the session.

In 1882 Mr. Chrisman was elected town treasurer, an office he held for three years; and in 1889 he was elected a member of the school board. Again, in 1823, he was elected to the same board by a large vote.

As school director, he played a prominent part in the erection of the Bloomsburg High School built in 1889 as he did in the beautiful new high school building that replaced it.

In politics, he, like his ancestors, was always a Democrat. He served his party for five years as county chairman and spoke in the interests of his party time after time in all the districts of the county.

He was sent as a delegate to New York City convention in 1924 when John W. Davis was nominated for President and to Houston, Texas, in 1928 when Alfred E. Smith was nominated.

In the industrial welfare of the town he always took an active part and assisted in bringing to the town some of its important industries, especially the silk mill, having been one of a committee of five to erect it.

Mr. Chrisman was a member of Washington Lodge 265, F. & A. M., of Caldwell Consistory; was a past master of the Bloomsburg Grange; a past president of Washington Camp P. O. S. of A., and member of the Bloomsburg Lodge of Elks.

Mr. Chrisman is survived by two children, Miss Helen Chrisman, of Bloomsburg, and Neil Chrisman, of Wilkes-Barre. The death of Mrs. Chrisman, formerly Miss Martha E. Gaul, of Bloomsburg, occurred some years ago. Also surviving are two brothers and a sister, Charles B., of Rupert; Eugene and Mrs. Joseph Menagh, of Bloomsburg. Two grandchildren also survive.

The following editorial, commenting on Mr. Chrisman's death, appeared in the Bloomsburg Morning Press:

The death of William Chrisman, Esq. at his home Saturday removes from the Columbia County Bar one of its most active members through many, many years and from the community a man who gave of his time and his means to the advancement of the town which was his home through many years.

His death came while he was "still in the harness", and those who know him best knew that was as he would have had it. That urge to be at his desk took him there following a heart attack early in December—long before he should have ventured out. But he was always happiest when he was the busiest.

Those who participated in the event will remember with satisfaction the evening only a few weeks ago when the Bench and Bar of Columbia and Montour counties honored its two veteran members—Mr. Chrisman and Mr. Funk—the former in his eighty-sixth year and the latter even older. It is seldom that such an event can be held in any county, and the night found both men able to appreciate the honors that were bestowed upon them.

It was, in the case of Mr. Chrisman, who was so soon to pass on, a fitting valedictory for an active life.

The following appeared in the Wilkes-Barre record, on Saturday, March 16:

"Procedure of the Law of Viewers in Pennsylvania" is available in a 1200-page volume off the press this week. It sums the thirty years of experience of its author, Philip L. Drum, of the Luzerne County Bar, as a member over that period of the County Board of Viewers.

For some fifteen years, Mr. Drum has been assembling and coordinating material for the pretentious and voluminous work. It is especially welcomed by the members of the bar as a much needed work of authority on the subject.

The purpose stated in the preface is not to furnish a digest of cases which may help one out of trouble, but to furnish a guide for more efficient service.

Dedication is "to my dear mother, whose counsel, determination, and sacrifices enabled me to complete my law course at the University of Pennsylvania".

E. May Learn (Mrs. Frank Russell Buckalew) died at her home in Berkeley, California, Tuesday, February 13, of angina pectoris.

Surviving her are her husband, four children, and six grandchildren. She was a devout Christian, and was a member of the First Presbyterian Church at Berkeley.

A recent letter from Mr. Buckalew, informing us of Mrs. Buckalew's death, contains the following:

"She was proud of her Alma Mater, and expressed her gratitude for the educational advantages she received at the Normal."

1897

Florence Taylor (Mrs. John B. Waters) died at her home in Catawissa, Friday, April 8. Death was caused by a heart attack. Mrs. Waters taught for four years prior to her marriage, including one year in Main Township and three years at Catawissa. Her daughter, Mrs. Deborah Waters Norvelle, a graduate from Bloomsburg in 1927, is now living in Bloomington, Indiana.

1904

Pearl E. Brandon lives at 136 North Eleventh Street, Reading.

1909

Edith M. Pooley (Mrs. C. M. Griffith) is living in Ridgely, Maryland.

Donald F. Ikeler, one of the owners and publishers of the Peekskill (N. Y.) Evening Star, former Bloomsburg High and Gettysburg College athlete and widely known in Bloomsburg presided at the community athletic dinner at the First Methodist Church on Thursday evening, March 7, when members of the Bloomsburg High School football and basketball squads were guests of honor.

Mr. Ikeler, who has resided in Peekskill, N. Y., since August, 1924, when he and E. Joe Albertson, also formerly of Bloomsburg, purchased the Peekskill Evening Star, is a graduate of the Bloomsburg High School, class of 1909, and has always been keenly interested in the affairs of his home community.

His services in the program for the second annual community banquet were sought some time ago and he willingly assented to return to Bloomsburg and participate in the evening during which E. E. "Rip" Miller, Navy football coach, was one of the speakers.

Mr. Ikeler was most active in sports as a young man and in addition to his varsity competition at Bloomsburg High, Bloomsburg Normal, and Gettysburg College he also played on some fine town baseball teams here.

Following his graduation from Bloomsburg High School he graduated from the then Bloomsburg Normal School in 1911 and Gettysburg College in 1915. He was instructor at St. Olaf College, Northfield, Miss., 1915-16 and instructor at Gettysburg College 1916-17. He was in the United States Army in 1917-1918 during the World War and at the close of the conflict was associated with the Gettysburg Times in various capacities from 1919-1924 when he and his partner purchased the Peekskill newspaper.

In high school he was a member of the baseball team of 1908 and 1909. At Normal School he was a member of the baseball team two years and the basketball team one. He played varsity baseball at Gettysburg four years and for two years was a member of the Gettysburg basketball team.

Irvin A. Robison, former Columbia county resident, died suddenly at his home in Burnsville, N. C., Monday afternoon at four o'clock from a heart condition.

He was born in Bloomsburg, the son of the late Captain and Mrs. J. B. Robison. When Mr. Robison was a child, the family moved to Espy, and later he was graduated from the Bloomsburg Normal School. Shortly after the war was declared, he enlisted and served two years in the ambulance unit in France, serving as sergeant in the United States forces.

After returning to America he lived in New York, where he was a salesman; he then moved to the Far West where he lived thirteen years, moving to Burnsville three years ago.

He was a member of the Masonic Lodge in New York, the Lions Club, American Legion and Methodist Church at Burnsville.

Surviving are his wife, Mrs. Esther Robison; three children, June, Jane and Jean, three sisters; Miss Martha Robison, of Burnsville; Mrs. J. D. Butzner, of Scranton, and Mrs. Joseph G. McLoughlin, of Fort Washington.

Miss Helen Mayan, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Adam Mayan, of Cherry Steet, will leave today for Scranton where she will enter Marywood College as a novitiate.

She plans to be a teacher. She is a graduate of the Danville High School and the Bloomsburg State Teachers College.

Ruth E. Yost (Mrs. Harold Buckley) lives at 924 Tilghman Street, Allentown.

1917

Gertrude C. Lecher lives at 54 Terrace Street, Wilkes-Barre. Owing to an error, for which the Quarterly offers its apologies, Miss Lecher's name was omitted from the list of names in the 1917 directory.

Marx I. Cohen's name was listed among those whose address was unknown. His name has been changed to Marx I. Murzin, and he is an attorney with offices at 51 Chambers Street, New York City.

Miles Pollock is teacher of Latin in the high school at Kingston, New York.

As a school teacher in winter and outdoor camper in summer, Miss Kathryn Abbett, of Bloomsburg, a teacher at the Center Township Consolidated School at Lime Ridge, has a busy all-year-round schedule. She is the first local director of the Bloomsburg Girl Scout camp, held annually at Camp Lavigne, near Benton.

When the Girl Scout camp was inaugurated nine years ago and each succeeding year until the 1939 season, the directors from various parts of the country were chosen to have charge of activities at the camp. It was just last year that a Bloomsburg leader, Miss Abbett, assumed the position and directed one of the most successful seasons that the local camp has known.

An experienced camper, Miss Abbett has served as counselor at Camp Lavigne for six years, as swimming instructor, and as unit leader. She has worked with pioneer groups as well as beginners. But her experience in camping extends beyond the confines of the county, for she has had leadership training at Camp Redwing in the western part of Pennsylvania and at Camp Edith-Macy, Pleasantville, N. J. She has also attended a number of week-end camps at Camp Archbald, the official Girl Scout camp at Scranton, and has had weeks of camping at Camp Newata, Jamestown, N. Y.

For one reason she directed a Girl Scout camp for the Danville Girl Scouts and also was a leader at the Hazleton Girl Scout camp.

With the close of the camping season, however, Miss Abbett's scouting activities are far from over for the year. During the year round she serves as captain of troop eight of the Methodist Church. She has held this position for three years and prior to that was a lieutenant in the troop.

As a member of the Girl Scout Leaders Association she has held several positions and she has assisted in the planning of the day camps which have been held by the local council in the past year.

Walter Siesko has a position with the Civil Service Commission in Washington, D. C.

Miss Lelamae Cain, of Light Street, and Arthur F. Slusser, of Espy, were united in marriage at Winchester, Va., Wednesday, February 7.

The officiating clergyman was the Rev. J. O. Patterson, former minister of the Bloomsburg Church of Christ, of which the bride is a member. Mrs. Patterson, an aunt of the bride, witnessed the ceremony.

The bride and groom are both graduates of Bloomsburg High School and the groom also attended the Bloomsburg State Teachers College. Mr. Slusser is an employee of the Magee Carpet Company.

A son was born to Mr. and Mrs. Jasper M. Fritz, of Osceola Mills, Thursday, February 8. Both Mr. and Mrs. Fritz are graduates of the Bloomsburg State Teachers College, Class of 1930. Mrs. Fritz is the former Miss Kathryn Jones of Nanticoke.

1937

Death came Tuesday, Feb. 20, at the Geisinger Hospital to Mrs. Muriel Stevens Bream, wife of coach Charles C. Bream, of the Berwick High School. Her condition for several days had been critical.

Mrs. Bream had given birth to a daughter on Wednesday, Feb. 7, and a steady recovery was in progress. Seven days later, she was taken with septicaemia, a poison in the blood stream, in virulent form, and her condition became grave. Every means known to medical science in combating the disease was used and included three blood transfusions. For the last two days her condition had been extremely critical and such that little hope could be held for her recovery.

The critical illness, with its exceptionally sad features, coming after a complete and rapid recovery was indicated, caused hundreds of friends to follow closely the latest word from the hospital. Hope that despite the alarming reports there would be a change of a favorable character were not relinquished, and word of the death produced a profound shock wherever it became known and with it were voiced expressions of deepest sympathy.

Herbert Stevens, her father, had been in Bogota, Columbia, South America, on business for the American Car and Foundry Company. In a telephone conversation, he was informed of his daughter's serious illness and planned to arrange passage on the first transoceanic plane from Columbia.

Mrs. Bream, formerly Muriel Stevens, was born in Berwick and was 24 years of age in March. A popular student in her high school days, she had part in the maid of honor court in 1933, the year of her graduation. She attended Bloomsburg State Teachers College and was graduated in 1937. She was active in student activities, served as president of the "B" club, the girls athletic club of the college and was elected May Queen in the exercises in 1937. She was a member of Trinity Lutheran Church, one of the most energetic members.

Surviving are her husband, their baby daughter, Lynne Stevens Bream, her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Herbert Stevens, two grandmothers, Mrs. Benson, who resides at the Stevens home, and Mrs. Stevens of Massachusetts. There are two brothers, Chesley and Winfield Stevens.

Eleanor Sharadin has a position at the State Hospital at Danville, Pa.

Miss Jane Lapet Lockard, well known in young people's circles in the county, died at the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Richard A. Lockard, of East Front Street, Berwick, Thursday morning, February 1. Chronic heart disease was the cause of her death. Miss Lockard had been seriously ill about a week.

Born August 21, 1915, she was graduated from Berwick High School in 1934 and from the Teachers College at Bloomsburg in 1938. Until ill health interfered, she taught school at Dimock High School, near Montrose, where she was an instructor in English and French.

She was a member of the First Presbyterian Church at Berwick and of the Junior Woman's Club.

Surviving are her sister, Miss Mary Lockard, Berwick, a graduate nurse, and her parents.

Alumni Day

Baccalaureate

Commencement

TO ALL THE ALUMNI:---

In spite of bad weather, Alumni Day was successful. There was a fair sized crowd on the Campus to enjoy the splendid program. Everybody had a good time.

County Alumni Clubs were quite active during the year. Reunions were held by the following groups:—Susquehanna-Wyoming, Dauphin-Cumberland, Luzerne, Montour, Northumberland, Schuylkill, Columbia and Philadelphia. Lackawanna and Snyder-Union did not hold reunions this year. Sorry.

Miss Edna Aurand, President of the Luzerne County Club has been bereaved, because of the death of her mother. The sympathy of the entire Association is extended to Miss Aurand in her hour of sorrow.

During the Centennial Year we had the largest paid membership in our history. Many have failed to renew their memberships. This is a serious handicap to the entire Alumni Program. We need 2000 members to do a real job. We have less than 1000 right now.

The Alumni Student Loan Fund continues to grow. Additional subscriptions come in each month. We are doing a splendid work in aiding worthy students. Have you done your part?

Home-Coming Day is the next Alumni Event. Come back and enjoy the day on College Hill.

Sincere good wishes,

R. BRUCE ALBERT.

Professional Attitudes

DR. HAROLD E. B. SPEIGHT

(Commencement Address Delivered Tuesday, May 28)

You who are now prepared to enter the profession of teaching are ready to take a step which commits you to certain attitudes which we call "professional," for as teachers you will be professional people. I wonder whether you have given any thought to what it is that makes teaching a profession as distinguished from any of the occupations which we do not regard as professional? This is an important question for you because any man's happiness and usefulness depend very largely upon his attitude towards his daily work. We speak of a minister or a doctor or a lawyer as a professional man. What is therein the task of the teacher that justifies us in saying that he too is a professional person?

1. I should say, first, that a professional occupation is one in which the personal advantage of the individual is very largely subordinated to important human interests which he is called upon to serve. They must be important and not trivial. The importance of the teacher's work was probably never greater than it is today because the school is one of the accepted major institutions of our civilization. We may feel that the community mistakenly squanders upon other organized interests much larger resources than are devoted to the schools, and we may particularly deplore the present campaigns to reduce gravely the funds now at the disposal of education, but if we have a historical perspective we cannot close our eyes to the fact that the School in America enjoys today a position of importance in the community which is a recent development. However, I am not concerned at the moment so much with the judgment of the public at large of the importance of the school as I am with the actual responsibility of the school which we educators are particularly qualified to recognize. When we consider that the schools, at any rate in this state, enroll all the children and most of the young people even into late adolescence, we can see how fundamental a task is before them, they provide experiences through which these pupils can link themselves up, more and more understandingly each year, with widening areas of community life; they assist these pupils to understand the processes through which democracy is maintained and to appreciate the great human desire for which democracy is maintained.

The task of the teacher certainly offers the satisfaction of dealing with important human interests. He will be concerned to help his students to examine critically, that is with sound judgment, the various features of life which have come within their experience and the social situation of other people about whom they may learn; this will involve a description and an exploration of American life as it is led. He will, further, help his students to understand what factors have produced the existing situation. To this extent he will be leading his students to expect that some further change is inevitable and that it will be changed for the worse if not directed intelligently. The teacher may be capable enough to help his pupils to see the possible directions of change. If he is wise he will not try to dominate their thought as to the ultimate desirability of one or another of the possible directions of change. If he can render this service to his students they will have occasion, as adult citizens in later years, to be grateful to him not primarily for such specific knowledge as he has brought them but rather for the attitude he has helped them to achieve, an attitude not of fear of change but of confidence in the ability of intelligent and democratic people to find sound methods of change.

The teacher's work is important also because he is constantly concerned with the needs of growing persons. In such work he cannot be primarily concerned with advancing his own interests. He is helping young people to develop and this means putting their interests first and constantly improving his own skill for their sake. These young people, children and adolescents, who are in the care of the teacher during so large a part of their growth, are first of all young bodies. In the past we were inclined to consider the health program of our schools the concern of special officials only, but today we are seeing that concern for the health of the young is not something that is tacked on as an "extra" to the instruction work of the teacher but something that is vitally related to everything that is done in the school. The body is an instrument essential to the accomplishment of everything we hope the children will be able to do and we cannot care for it adequately unless all who influence the child consider his health part of their jurisdiction. The posture of the child, his food, his understanding of homemaking, his intelligence in purchasing, his happiness in play—all these things are in one way or another related to his healthy development and the teacher has his opportunity in such concerns of the child as well as in what we have called the “three R’s” and all the other more recent academic subjects.

The young are also members of society and if they are to develop we must be concerned with their experience in group-life. The life of the groups to which they belong, in the home, in the church, in play and in the school, must give them a sense of security and an experience of success, a feeling that they have significance as persons, a support for their legitimate ambitions, in a word a satisfying social status. You will be dealing with some children who in all their group-life outside the school are frustrated and unsatisfied so that some of your work will not be so much education as re-education. And even in dealing with children who are happy at home you have the opportunity of making this group-life of the school contribute to their development what the adult surroundings of the home can never alone give them.

But the children are not only young bodies and young members of society. They are young individuals who have deep personal needs which we must satisfy if they are to achieve any clear sense of direction in life, any motives that will sustain them in the work they are called upon to do, any far-reaching purposes which will carry them in days that are difficult. The teacher is concerned with these things, helping to form the standards and the tastes of the young and to point to those inner resources of appreciation and faith without which they will be adrift in a hostile world with nothing of their own to steady them.

It is, then, a delicate task that the teacher has, one calling for discernment, imagination and sympathy. The doctor and the minister and the lawyer are dealing with complex and important material, but in this respect they are no more professional than the teacher.

2. A professional attitude is shown also in the standards we set for ourselves. Ideally, a doctor or a minister or a lawyer brings the very best knowledge, skill and disposition of which he is capable to bear upon every situation in which he can be professionally helpful. He does not ask himself whether he likes the individual he is to heal or guide or advise; ideally, he does not ask whether he is serving a rich man or a poor man, an interesting man or an ignorant man. He marshalls all that he knows and all the resources his profession has given him and devotes himself to the case in hand. Teaching will never be in a full sense a profession until all of us represent in the community, as teachers, the same ideal of fine workmanship regardless of circumstances.

What are the virtues that we should look for in a teacher? First, curiosity. He cannot excite curiosity in others or open up challenging vistas to the minds of the young unless he himself is alert and active in the pursuit of understanding. The length and depth of the teacher's own interest go far to determine his ability to evoke effort and initiative on the part of his students. Then honesty or integrity. If the teacher is slipshod or content with hasty judgment or ready to adopt the popular slogans of the community regardless of their validity, his pupils will be like him and their minds will be corrupted by his cheap conformity to the crowd. Of course, there are other virtues of a teacher; these I take only as illustrations. The skill which we wish to display in dealing with the young cannot be guaranteed by any number of courses in teaching methods for it depends fundamentally upon our possession of these and other virtues of character.

We shall certainly not be successful in the profession of teaching unless we adopt high standards and judge ourselves by them in our effort to understand the minds of the children we deal with. No two of our pupils are exactly alike and it is part of our obligation to discern and to respect their differences, to adopt our methods to the different kinds of temperament we have to deal with, and to discover the abilities they have. This means constantly checking ourselves so that we shall not settle down into any fixed expectation and look for the same sort of behavior and the same kind of development in all children we deal with. It is much more easy to have a set pattern of behavior and demand of all the children in a given class that they shall adapt themselves to it, and it is much easier to settle upon things that we require them all to do and to know and then to judge accordingly; but we are recognizing today that the task of the school is not to impose a pattern on lives or to convey a fixed body of information. The task of the school is to discover and encourage the capacities of the children and to help them as individuals. We have seen what regimentation can do to corrupt the life of other nations and we are fully determined here in America to hold fast to ideals of education which recognize the value of differences and the right of the individual to develop his own capacities.

Not very long ago children in America were growing up in communities where there was very little change from year to year in the way people lived. Then people were pretty well determined in their desires and ambitions and dispositions by the silent pressure of the accepted ways of life in their home communities. Today we face a very different situation. Even in the remotest hamlet, as a result of new means of communication which have broken down the isolation of the rural community, a child quickly feels himself part of a larger world and becomes aware of what is happening in that larger world. Even if he never leaves the narrow geographical area which is his home he is made to feel the pressure of a multitude of experiences which belong to people who live in that larger community outside. Inevitably, this creates a conflict. He belongs to his home community and has a certain recognizable pattern, but he is exposed very early to knowledge which arouses desires which it is difficult to reconcile with the standards of his community. As a result his personality is in danger of being split and all sorts of tensions may be developed in his character. No matter how isolated the community in which you may serve, you will be dealing with some children who are victims of this disturbing situation which is now inescapable. It does not necessarily follow that these conflicts and tensions in life of the young are going to be evil in their consequences, for we often see young people growing in power as a result of their struggles, and their conflicts can be the occasion of growth and achievement if they receive sympathetic guidance and understanding treatment. It will be part of your task to develop in your school, and to offer to the young, experiences which introduce stability and order into their lives to offset the great variety of conflicting pressures, making for disorder, to which they are subjected outside the school

Another way in which you are challenged to set up high standards for your work as a professional person is recognized when we face the fact that we are going to have to create some new types of school to meet needs which are beginning to appear. We have been taking for granted that the task of our high schools is to prepare students to go on to higher education in colleges and professional schools and we have fixed a pattern of high school education based upon this expectation. In turn, our elementary schools have taken much of their character from our desire that they should prepare the child for the high school, where he will be prepared for some further education beyond it. We are now recognizing that we need schools in which our concern will be for the best development of all students, including that large number who will not be proceeding to higher education. The new ideal which we are beginning to recognize is that at each step of a child's development he should be doing that which is most appropriate to the powers and capacities and interests which are natural to him at that stage. If he does well what is suitable at that time he is thereby preparing himself best to do well what will be appropriate later. We must, therefore, cease to think of each grade as primarily preparatory to the next. The experience of each grade in turn has a value of its own, regardless of what is to follow.

3. I need hardly remind you that one of the important professional attitudes is towards the type of reward that the professional person seeks. I do not wish to minimize the important and legitimate place of those returns for effort which give us what we call our living and provide a margin for leisure and an opportunity for some investment to make provision for the future. The pursuit of a profit does not by any manner of means always imply that the individual is selfish or greedy. He is willing to do something which offers no immediate return, but he is taking risks and investing his time and labor and perhaps some accumulation of wealth from past effort, and in one way or another he legitimately hopes to find a return which will reward him for the venture he is making. But very early in human history there appeared what we may call "service occupations" and gradually these came to be occupations in which people engaged with less concern for even ultimate financial return to themselves than for an opportunity to help other people. I am thinking of such occupations as healing the sick, serving the community need for government and for justice, meeting the religious needs of people. Ultimately the teaching of the young came to be added to these service occupations. In each of these and in some I have not named there has been a steadily rising standard of professional ethics and one of the demands upon the professional person is that when he has been given the skill that he needs he shall make it freely accessible in the service of others and attach importance primarily to the inner satisfactions of good workmanship. What are the rewards a teacher may legitimately expect? Of course, adequate remuneration so that he is not continually disturbed by anxiety and fear and, I would add, so that he may occupy a place in the community life which gives dignity to the great interest he represents. But the professional teacher is more concerned with the inner rewards of satisfaction, the appreciation which comes to him from those whom he has served and the knowledge he has, which sustains him whenever these other rewards seem to be lacking, that he is participating in the advancement of the highest interests of his community.

Happily, there is a growing recognition of the importance of the teacher's work and a growing willingness to assure the teacher of an adequate remuneration, although it must be admitted that at the moment there is much uninformed criticism of the costs of education and there are some people who would be quite willing to see enormous sums squandered upon things which have no contribution to make civilization while the vital interests of education are starved. Those who go into teaching may at any rate feel sure that however short-sighted the community may be about teachers' salaries, the profession of teaching will bring them great satisfactions, the satisfactions appropriate to a profession—not wealth, but a chance to lead a useful life, be community leaders, and to earn a satisfactory remuneration; not power over others, but an opportunity to help others to develop wisely and well; not wide public acclaim, but recognition as a member of a public service profession; and above all the gratitude of many whose lives are influenced for good through the contacts of the classroom and through personal friendship.

Finally, a professional person is constantly aware of his confidential relationship to his clients and his colleagues. Your clients are the children. Your colleagues are your fellow-teachers. Unless you clearly recognize that in the course of your work you are going to come to know a good deal about your pupils and your co-workers which it is important to them that you should regard as a sacred confidence you are likely to make very grave mistakes which will be costly to others if not to yourself. The kind of interest that a good teacher takes in his students should bring him into an experience of friendship and mutual respect and as a result should enable him to recognize the intimate needs of the children as they develop. He is not a professional teacher who divulges what he discovers in the inner life of his pupils for anything except strictly professional purposes in which the interests of his pupil are properly considered. As for your colleagues, remember, as a doctor always remember about other doctors, that they cannot do their best work unless sure of your sympathetic support. When you cannot praise them, be silent. When you cannot agree with their opinions tell them before you tell the world. Be perfectly free in open discussion within the profession to differ from others on matters of policy and procedure but air your differences first where others have an opportunity to reply to you. You may be wrong; if you are a professional person, you will wish to know if you are wrong. A doctor, in a medical meeting, may properly say that he has no confidence in a certain type of proposed new treatment. Neither publicly nor privately does he discuss his fellow-physician, Dr Smith. A teacher with a high sense of professional duty is quite free to advocate particular methods and formulate objectives for his school or for education in general, and to advocate these with all the arguments he can muster, but he should not, either publicly or privately, break down the confidence that others may have in his colleagues. Why? Not because he believes it is right to protect inefficiency, as a professional person, he knows that his own judgments are fallible and may be unfair.

You are going out into the teaching profession at a time when all of you who in any way help to mold public opinion have a very grave responsibility. For a long time people in our country looked with some concern upon the old world, wishing that something might be done to bring about a happier state of affairs. We have not seen what we could or should do and we have been somewhat restless because, deep down, we have known that, along with all other peoples, we have some responsibility. Now, when some other nations are facing a grave crises, it is suddenly suggested to us that there is something we can and should do; naturally, this brings us a sense of relief and release and very many of our people are so emotionally stirred that they are willing to support anything that means action, even measures hastily conceived and enormously costly. We are in some danger of neglecting those tasks that lie immediately before us because they are less exciting and do not seem to offer us quite so exciting a chance to be helpful. All our social services which make for health and security and the care of the needy, all the educational enterprises, all the standards of living which have developed with such effort over many years, are in danger of being swept aside in order that we may do something else which is emotionally more satisfying at the moment. It seems to me that a very grave duty is laid upon all of us who are educated to help our communities to maintain a sense of balance and to protect and conserve those community efforts which make for conservation of human values.

The 1940 Commencement

A class of one hundred twenty-seven was graduated from the College Tuesday morning, May 28, at the seventy-first annual commencement exercises.

The commencement speaker was Dr. Harold E. B. Speight, of New York City, executive secretary of the committee on teacher education of the Association of Colleges and Universities of the State of New York. The subject of Dr. Speight's address was "Professional Attitudes."

Of the 127 members of the class, 49 were graduates in the field of business education, 46 in the secondary fields and 32 in the elementary field.

At the opening of the program, the processional ushered in the faculty and the graduates, clad in academic robes. The former took their places on the stage, accompanied by three members of the Board of Trustees: Judge C. C. Evans, of Berwick; Grover Shoemaker, of Bloomsburg, and Thomas G. Vincent, of Danville. The triumphal march from "Naaman," by Costa, was played by Prof. H. F. Fenstemaker, as the group marched into the auditorium.

William B Sutliff, Dean Emeritus, pronounced the invocation, and Acting President Harvey A. Andruss welcomed the assemblage and introduced the speaker.

Dr Speight then delivered the address, which is printed in full in this issue of the Quarterly.

Following Dr. Speight's address, Prof. Fenstemaker played the tone poem "Finlandia," by the Finnish composer, Sibelius.

Prof. E. N. Rhodes, Director of Teacher Training, presented the class to Acting President Andrus and introduced each member individually as he or she approached to receive the diploma. The granting of diplomas was followed by farewell remarks by Dean Andruss.

The "Alma Mater" was sung under the direction of Miss Harriet M. Moore, and the graduates left the auditorium to the strains of the recessional, the introduction to the third act of "Lohengrin," by Wagner.

Baccalaureate Exercises

The seventy-first annual Commencement was officially opened with the Baccalaureate Exercises held in Carver Hall Sunday afternoon, May 26. The speaker of the occasion was the Rev. Dr. J. E. Skillington, Pastor of the First Methodist Church of Bloomsburg. The members of the faculty and the class, all in academic costume, marched from the gymnasium and entered the auditorium to the strains of the traditional "Ancient of Days," sung by the audience and led by Miss Harriet M. Moore, with the assistance of the A Capella Choir. The invocation was given by Dr. Skillington, and after the singing of "Faith of Our Fathers," Dean Andruss read the Scripture. Dr. Skillington then delivered the Baccalaureate Sermon, the text of which is printed below. The A Capella Choir, under the direction of Miss Moore then sang "Now Let All the Heavens Adore Thee," by J. S. Bach. After the benediction by Dr. Skillington, the class marched out singing the recessional "Awake My Soul." Mrs. J. K. Miller was at the console of the college organ.

Baccalaureate Sermon

Text of sermon, delivered by Reverend J. E. Skillington, Pastor of the First Methodist Episcopal Church, Bloomsburg, Pa.

"The text of the message which I want to bring to you this afternoon, young people of this graduating class, is a question, the most important question. I think you will agree with me that any person can possibly ask: 'What doth the Lord require of thee?' from the book of the prophet, Micah, the Sixth Chapter of the Eighth Verse. What doth the Lord require of thee, or in other words—What is right? What is wrong? What ought I to do?' If that sounds a bit too dogmatic, and some people don't like dogma today, then just forget that for a moment and think of this.

"I have here a mechanical pencil, in the possession of which I came some time ago, a rather complicated device, and I might have had some difficulty in using it satisfactorily if it had not been that the manufacturer enclosed in the little case that held the pencil, a printed sheet of directions for its operation. He wanted that pencil to perform the function for which he created it. He knew how he made it and how it should operate, and it was reasonable that he should make sure that those who were to have something to do with it should know.

"You are very familiar with that sort of thing. Now if the person who made this world, this universe, who decided to leave you and me in this world, would have anything to say about how it ought to be operated, we surely will be anxious to hear what he has to say, won't we? 'What doth the Lord require of thee?' Science studies the world in which we live and so much of the universe of which it is a part as an acceptable theory and then says to you and I, if you want to get along harmoniously with this world with nature and God, this is the way to act; and the agriculturist and the teacher and the physician and who else not harkens to the science test and waits for his every word. Science also studies life with particular attention to man as an incentive rational, moral being, and religion says, 'This is the way we ought to act with respect to these things that we call moral and spiritual.' I know very well that religion and science are very different; they operate differently just as love and blood are different—both very vital to human life. The religionist deals with one; the scientist with the other. Just as muscle and courage are very different, both essential to life, religion deals with one, science with the other, and no one would say that the sphere in which religion operates is less important than the sphere in which science operates. If there is the remotest reason to believe that religion has a valid message with regard to reality as it relates to things moral and spiritual. then no prudent man can disregard that message. Obviously then, this is an important question, 'What doth the Lord require of thee?' What is right?

"Today, in large sections of the world, different ideas prevail. This whole idea of right and wrong is regarded as passe-outgrown—and what is happening in those sections where this philosophy prevails, I am quite sure you regard as adequate proof of the fact that this idea is important; that this question is significant and cannot be safely ignored. In the day when Micah asked this question, there was a tendency to regard the question as theological and to regard theology as passe—outgrown—fanciful. The people asked: 'What does God want? burnt offerings? calves? thousands of rams, etc. He wants me to offer my first born, the fruit of my body, for the sins of my soul.' 'It doesn't make sense,' they said. Micah answered. 'It doesn't make sense, oh man, to know you're wrong? [God hath showed you what is good and what doth the Lord require of thee but to do justly and love mercy and to walk humbly with that God. What doth the Lord require of thee but to be fair and to be good and be reverent! That makes sense wherever men are human and sane.

"I said there are large sections of the world in which this idea is regarded utterly outgrown. Not here? No. Not here, but let me admonish you that we right here are taking the first steps toward the achievement of that very end. We are confused; we are uncertain about this whole matter of right and wrong. We have changed our minds about a lot of things—the use of intoxicating liquors, gambling, sex relations—we just don't know what to believe. The reason we are confused is that we are not interested in what our fathers did and the generation of thirty years ago. I don't think it makes so much difference to us whether a thing is right or wrong as we used to think and that is the reason why we must come to a definite conclusion about these matters. That's just exactly the way things went in Germany, Russia, and Italy. We should take ourselves to account and ask ourselves 'What doth the Lord require of thee?' What is right and what is wrong? It's quite probable and reasonable to expect that even good men should not always see clearly what is right and what is wrong, but even the people in Christian America have a good deal more uncertainty than there is any cause for. Jesus never had to ask that question. It never bothered Him. Apparently, he always knew exactly what to do and never had to hesitate. The way was as clear as light to Him."

Reverend Skillington related the story of how Jesus cured a sick man on the Sabbath Day and when the people saw the man carrying his bed, called him down for carrying a burden on the Sabbath. The people then persecuted Jesus for curing the sick on the Sabbath. Jesus' explanation was that He lived in such close relationship with God that His acts were not of his own doing, but the wish of the Lord's. God wouldn't let Him do any wrong.

"Young people, this old world has gotten rather out of hand hasn't it? Who knows what to do with it and about it? We have consulted and counseled with men every sort everywhere. I wonder if we pressed this question as earnestly as we ought to have done? What does the Lord require of thee?

Reverend Skillington told the story of Mark Twain's travels in Europe with his small daughter. After visiting many kings and rulers, the last of whom was the Kaiser, the child remarked to her father, "Presently, there won't be anybody else for you to know but God." Reverend Skillington said that we wouldn't get to know God by listening to sermons or memorizing the Bible. Jesus didn't get to know God by this means but by living and working in the closest relationship with God.

"My reactions are not determined by what I read last night and this morning. My significant reactions to life are determined by what I am and what I am determined by the sum total of everything I hear and think and feel." Reverend Skillington explained the importance of religion in life. He said that by doing right we would get a deep insight and understanding of religion. In illustrating the point of the story of Jesus helping the sick man by doing as God would have done, the speaker told of a friend of his in Bedford County, a farmer lad who tackled a hard piece of work with a complicated piece of machinery with the confidence that because his father had done it, he could accomplish the task also.

Reverend Skillington concluded his sermon with the thought that in order for all of us to help make ours a better world in which to live, we must "know God and yield our lives to his mastery."

Home-Coming Day Saturday, Oct. 26th

Ivy Day

World brotherhood will not come "if we sit idly by and let ourselves be overrun by those who seek the destruction of all the institutions of a social, religious and peaceful nature," declared Theodore Parsell, of Orangeville, in the annual Ivy oration Monday evening, May 27, at the Bloomsburg State Teachers College.

Held in the picturesque grove, with the class and other attendants grouped about the white pergola, the exercises were brief but impressive, concluding with the planting of the second sprig of ivy at the new junior high school building as a memorial to the class of 1940.

The 132 Members of the class, wearing black caps and gowns, marched to the grove where a group of friends and relatives of the graduates were gathered for the beginning of the program. Led by Miss Harriet M. Moore, director of music at the college, the assembled group sang "Maroon and Gold."

Donald Hausknecht, of Montoursville, president of the senior class, introduced the class orator, Mr. Parsell. After the latter's stirring address, the class led the way to the junior high school building, where the ivy was planted by the class president.

Using the spade as a symbol of work, Mr. Hausknecht declared that the class members had had the opportunity during the past four years, to get acquainted with the spade. They have learned how to "pitch in and work with their fellow classmates," he explained. and have attempted to continue the building of those things which make up Bloomsburg college.

"After tomorrow," he declared, "you must stand on your own feet. There will be no one else to do your spading for you. Although pull may get you a job, push will help you keep it."

In accepting the spade, which the class of 1940 passed on to the juniors, Reber Fisher, of Catawissa, president-elect of the class of 1941, recognized it "as a token that we will do our best to carry on the traditions of Bloomsburg State Teachers College."

After the singing of the "Alma Mater," the group returned to the main building, where an informal party was held in the gymnasium and on the East Second Street side of the college campus. Lights were strung out above the lawn and tables for card playing were placed there. Refreshments were served and music for dancing in the gymnasium was provided by James Deily's orchestra.

Members of the committee in charge were Miss Vivian Frey, of Mifflinville, chairman; Donald Baker, of Berwick; Hannah Unger, of Danville, and Miss Vivian Reppert, of Espy.

Ivy Day Oration

Mr. President, friends:

This gathering this evening is significant for two reasons. First, it is because an expression of the freedom being exercised in our American democracy, a freedom that stands as a lighted beacon along the pathway of economic pursuits, patriotic responsibilities and educational behavior. Second, it is a challenge to the best efforts of all people to direct the course of educational endeavors toward the goal of international peace, a peace that at this time is threatened by the devastating forces urged on by the greed and self-centered ambitions of a few power-mad individuals who care nothing for life, liberty, and the pursuit of happiness.

Education has a tremendously large part to play in the creation within people of the spirit of world brotherhood. This part can be understood by the consideration of several ideals and the application of several principles that might very well constitute a firm foundation for a socially, economically, and peacefully secure democracy.

An ideal is that which exists as a pattern, a standard of perfection, beauty, or excellence. Then to build a democracy with the aid of educational ideals would be to establish a standard of educational perfection. That is where our part as graduates entering the profession of service, and the part of all civic minded and intelligently alert individuals enter into the creation of this ideally perfect situation. But, we must not be content to let it drift into the realm of idealism, which treats of fanciful creations. We must so apply our efforts that we will have a reality, something that will give evidence of a successful attempt, something that will serve as a reward for conscientious achievement.

Equality of opportunity, freedom, and fair play are three principles that may well serve as bases on which to build our educational program. Let us examine each one in more detail.

What does equality mean? Does it mean just equal chances of getting a job? No, it applies to more than the vocational aspect. It takes in the right of man to be well-born, the right of man to the security of his mental and physical powers, and the right of man to live his own life in a land free from the domineering forces of evil-practicing war-lords. How is education to help in the fostering of this principle? Education can first be applied in making for a nation of physically, mentally, and morally sound citizens, who see duty in the light of service to others rather than with a selfish view to fostering their own ends. No society can exist that is composed of weaklings. Hereditary strength is as much an ideal as a principle. This principle early found recognition in the philosophy of Plato, who thought and advocated the idea that it is the right of the child to be well-born. And only through the education of the people in the matters of genetics and birth control can this ideal be attained. Lincoln said that "all men are created free and equal." But are they all equal when children are born to degenerates, mentally and physically so? This ideal or principle is being cultivated and shaped into marketable usefulness through our education programs in schools and certain laws designed for the protection of man and his kind. Education for marriage as taught in some schools is taking a great step in the general direction of strengthening of our race. This matter of a strong race has its place in working for peace. Health and strength and the comforts they bring make for a satisfied population. Satisfaction tends to eliminate greed and selfishness, jealousy and anger, the greatest causes of national strife in the world today. So give us strong bodies, clean minds, and willing hearts, with the determination to make this world a better place in which to live.

To do as he pleases, to go where he desires, and to live the life he loves is the real ambition of every honest working man. When he becomes deprived of this opportunity to create his own mode of intelligent living, someone is going to suffer. Giving all men, through the avenues of a contributive education, a chance to place themselves on an equal footing with all others makes for greater contentment and peace. Prepared, qualified, and equipped workmen is one solution to the economic unrest that tends to prevent a more widespread feeling of peaceful security.

Freedom, our next important ideal, is characteristic of our American democracy, and emblematic of the peace and security that has thus far been the good fortune of Americans to experience. It is for a continuation of this peace and a safeguarding of our civil rights and liberties as granted in this Bill of Rights that the program of education for peace is stressed as our chief objective for the future of mankind. Life, liberty, and the pursuit of happiness! Oh, what a glorious feeling to be able to experience these things in a land where right, not might, prevails! Religious freedom, the right to worship as he pleases, inspires man on to a greater and more sincere realization of the universe he has created. It also admonishes him to love his neighbor as himself. In this admonition we have the beginning of the ideal for which we seek, world brotherhood. We are told that it will come, but it won't come if we sit idly by and let ourselves be overrun by those who seek the destruction of all the institutions of a social, religious, and peaceful nature. We must use our talents to the best of our ability in the attainment of the highest ideals we have set before us.

The principle of fair play is expressed in the greatest rule for social, moral, political, or religious conduct ever written, the Golden Rule: "Do unto others as you would have that they should do unto you." Oh, the possibilities that can be seen in an examination of this rule! Think what it means as a standard of conduct! Place it with the rest of your mottoes! See how it outshines them all! It contains all that we hope to attain through our educational program. Its teaching in the schools will serve as a distinct mark of intelligent action on the part of educators and workers for peace.

Think for a moment of one verse of a good old hymn:

I want a principle within
Of watchful, godly fear,
A sensibility of sin,
A pain to feel it near.
Help me the first approach to feel
Of pride or wrong desire;
To catch the wandering of my will
And quench the kindling fire.

And now, as we think of the part we can play in the attainment of peace in the world, may we be thankful we live in a country that permits us to enjoy the beauties of our surroundings and the blessings of our God. May we ever live in the comforts of our own peaceful efforts. In the words of Tiny Tim, "God bless you, one and all."

Thank you.

Class of 1940 Donates to Carver Hall

The class of 1940, Bloomsburg State Teachers College, realizing the need for a center piece in the fountain, originally a memorial of the class of 1904, has purchased a bronze pedestal topped by two bowls in order to complete the fountain, which first reaches the eye of one who approaches Carver Hall from the business district.

The original center piece was removed in 1934, after a period of 30 years of service. In the meantime it had greatly disintegrated until it was a rather unsightly object. Since that time the water basin, surrounded by flowers, has been the subject of some comment and on several occasions a suggestion has been made that the fountain should be restored.

Appropriate symbols will be placed on the fountain to indicate that it was originally a memorial of the class of 1904 and was restored by the class of 1940. It is interesting to note that the last two numerals designating these classes are merely interchanged.

Alumni Meeting

Alumni of the Bloomsburg State Teachers College in general session Saturday morning heard of the various activities of its organization, chief of which is the increasing of the worthy student fund by $15,000 through a Centennial-year drive.

Reports of reunion classes, always a highlight of the session, showed that graduates had come as far as from California and Panama City to participate in the day's activities.

The body stood in silent tribute to the memory of H. Mont. Smith, prominent Bloomsburg attorney, and Judge Clinton Her-ring, of Orangeville, both graduates of the school and both members of the Board of Trustees at the time of death. Mr. Smith, in addition, had been a member of the Executive Committee of the Alumni Association.

The class of 1940, entering the auditorium in caps and gowns, joined the association in a body with the check for membership presented by Donald Housknecht, Montoursville, president of the class. They were welcomed by R. Bruce Albert, alumni president, who spoke of the accomplishments possible through their continued interest. The class sang its color song and retired.

The invocation at the opening of the meeting was given by the Rev. J. K. Adams, of Bloomsburg, of the class of 1890. Mrs. C. C. Housenick, secretary, read the minutes. Miss Harriet Carpenter, treasurer, submitted a report showing a balance of $187.

D. D. Wright, treasurer of the worthy student fund, said there is now $4,758 at hand with $3,816 out on loans. Funds from the alumni drive now coming in are allowing the aid of more students in the college, he pointed out.

Miss Harriet Carpenter and D. D. Wright, of town, and Mrs. Ruth Speary, Wilkes-Barre, were named directors for three year terms. Their names were presented by Dr. Kimber Kuster, chairman of the nominating committee.

Mrs. Griffith presented $25 on behalf of the Luzerne County Alumni Association, second payment of that amount on a $100 pledge to the student loan fund.

Mrs. Florence Hess Cool, moving spirit in the Philadelphia alumni, presented on behalf of that organization $100 to the fund as a testimonial to Dr. David J. Waller, Jr., president emeritus of the institution. Dr. Waller's health prevented his attendance at the day's festivities.

Dean Harvey A. Andruss, acting head of the college, said the year is making the start of a second century of service of the institution; is making the close of the second decade since the school was taken over by the state and the completion of the first decade of the business education course. Of 222 graduated from this newest curriculum in the college, ninety-four per cent have been placed in teaching positions or in business. Of the eighty per cent who are teaching, they are engaged in the profession from New Hampshire to Florida.

Bloomsburg now stands third among the teachers colleges in the state in enrollment, Dean Andruss told the graduates. He spoke of the class of 1940 replacing the centerpiece in the fountain at the front entrance of the college, a memorial of the class of 1904. Miss Frances J. Cawley, class of 1885, bequeathed to the institution in trust $1,000, with the income to be used as directed by members of her class.

Dean Andruss said he felt that two of the memorable names associated with the institution were those of Dr. Waller and Dr. Francis B. Haas, present superintendent of public instruction. Both of these men and the late W. W. Evans have served as head of the Pennsylvania State Education Association and another Bloomsburg graduate. Thomas Francis, of Scranton, is present head of the organization. The college, said Dean Andruss, is just as strong as its alumni.

Mr. Albert thanked Dean Andruss and the college for the splendid arrangements made for the day. He read a communication from Dr. and Mrs. Haas expressing regrets of their inability to attend because of official business in western Pennsylvania.

Presented to the graduates were Dean and Mrs. W. B. Sutliff, Prof. C. H. Albert and G. Edward Elwell, of town, former faculty members; Miss Bess Hinckley, a former faculty member, and Fred W. Diehl, of the alumni executive committee and former trustee, both of Danville.

The class of 1880 reported three in attendance of nine living and messages from six unable to be at the reunion. Present were Mrs. Celeste Prutzman, Trucksville; H. G. Supplee, of Chicago, Ill.; Mrs. Ellen Lally, Shenandoah. The latter is still engaged in teaching. Mrs. Prutzman has a certificate for a half century of Sunday School work and is still engaged in such teaching.

Three of the class of 1885 reported, Mr. Harry Hein, Washington, D. C.; Miss Anna Fox and Mrs Edith Ent Holmes.

The Rev. J. K. Adams, of town, reported for the fifty-year class which had a fine representation. Ada Lewis Beale, of Tunkhannock, reported for 1895 and Frank Harris Center, Berwick, R. D., reported for the class of 1900. He presented Dan of 1901.

Rarig, of the class, as the man who in weather twelve below zero shinnied up a pole and tore down the colors of the class

Mr. Elwell and Mrs. Housenick reported for 1905; Charles Morris, Wilkes-Barre, for 1910; Mr. Kindig, for 1915; Ronald Kahler, for 1920; Mrs. Boone, for 1925; Miss Thursabert Schuyler for 1930; Clarence Slater for 1935 and Miss Elizabeth Hart, of Berwick, for 1939.

Three were back for the class of 1880. Only nine are living and the six not in attendance sent greetings. Those on the campus were H. G. Supplee, of Chicago, Ill., who was accompanied by his wife and sister; Mrs. Celeste Prutzman, Trucksville, accompanied by her son Ray and grandson and Mrs. Ellen Lally, Shenandoah, who is still teaching, who was accompanied by her daughter, Mrs. S. McKenna and friend, Gertie Ulshaffer.

The class of 1885 had four members present. They were Mrs. Fred Holmes, of Bloomsburg; Miss Anna Fox, Burlington, N. J.; Mrs. Annie Miller Melick, New York City, and Harry O. Hine, Washington, D. C.

The class of 1886 had three in attendance, the members being Mrs. Lucetta White, Bloomsburg; Margaret C. Brennan, Shenandoah, and Miss Ida Bernhard, Bloomsburg. Mrs. Annie Supplee Nuss, Bloomsburg, of the class of 1888, also participated in the day's activities.

Alumni Banquet

Following the program initiated last year, the Alumni Banquet was held in the evening on Alumni Day, bringing the events of the day to a fine climax.

Despite the bad weather, the banquet was attended by four hundred people. A fine turkey dinner was served, and following the program in the dining room, a splendid program was presented in the auditorium, and a dance in the gymnasium closed the day's busy program.

The toastmaster at the banquet was G. Edward Elwell, Jr., a member of the class of 1905, and a former faculty member. The invocation was given by Prof. William B. Sutliff, former Dean of Instruction at the college. Dinner music was provided by an ensemble from the Maroon and Gold Orchestra, under the direction of Phillip Moore, student conductor. Miss Harriet M Moore was the leader of the group singing.

The toastmaster presented Dean Harvey A. Andruss, acting president of the college, as one who was "catapulted into a big job" when Dr. Francis B. Haas resigned to become Superintendent of Public Instruction, and who has handled the job "in a big way."

Dean Andruss stated that the fine attendance, in spite of discouraging weather, was a tribute "to the spirit that is Bloomsburg." He said that the success of the year was in a large measure due to the fact that Dr. Haas had left a well-organized college and a student body capable of assuming increasing responsibility.

In presenting R. Bruce Albert, president of the Alumni Association, Mr. Elwell said that the Centennial Student Loan Fund of $15,000 to aid worthy students had been possible largely through Mr. Albert's efforts and inspiration. and asserted that the Alberts, father and son, have made an outstanding contribution to the advancement of the college. Mr. Albert, in a brief response, thanked the college for the arrangements which had made the day such a great success.

Guests at the speaker's table were presented, and included the following: Prof. C. H. Albert, of the "Old Guard;" Mrs.

Hetty Cope Whitney, daughter of the late Prof. J. G. Cope; Dean William B. Sutliff, Miss Helen Carpenter, William V. Moyer, and Mrs. William B. Sutliff, former faculty members, and Judge Charles C. Evans, of Berwick, a member of the Board of Trustees.

The class song of 1885, written by the speaker of the evening, was read by a classmate, Miss Annie Fox, for years a prominent teacher in the Bloomsburg schools.

The speaker of the evening was Mrs. Annie Miller Melick, of New York City. Mrs. Miller, a member of the class of 1885, is the daughter of the late Charles W. Miller, who was for many years a trustee of the college. She has had an active career in many fields of activity. For years she was prominent in club work in Philadelphia, and during the World War her attention was directed to many phases of the home program. She has written many magazine articles, and at present is reviewing motion pictures and making recommendations as to their value to a great number of clubs.

Her reminiscences of days spent at the college, then the Normal School, were delightful. She recalled that while she was a pupil in the model school, a part of the college was destroyed by fire. When told of the fire, she was pleased, for in her desk were her glasses, and, as she stated, "I never wanted to wear glasses and felt sure that if they were destroyed I would never have to wear them again."

Turning her attention to present world conditions, she said that in this country today the teaching of the three R's is not sufficient. She urged that pupils be taught allegiance to the flag, and that we sure make sure that, when they repeat the pledge of allegiance, they know what they are saying. "Then," said she, "we shall have no fear of a fifth column in the days to come."

At the close of Mrs. Melick's address, Mr. Elwell continued the line of thought by stating that he did not wish to be an alarmist, but that it was the duty of each citizen to guard against fifth column activities. "We have them in Columbia County," he declared. "We have them in Bloomsburg. In World War days I handled 130 cases of persons engaged in treasonable. Now they are organized. Don't get the feeling 'it can't happen here.' That is rubbish. If you have any knowledge of that sort, take it to the police authorities. Don't be satisfied with just passing on a rumor to someone else."

Following Mr. Elwell's remarks, the banquet was closed by the singing of the Alma Mater.

Auditorium Program

Following the Alumni Banquet, a fine program was presented in the Auditorium. The program was opened by an organ solo by Frank Kocher, a member of this year's graduating class. Mr. Kocher played "Liebestraum" by Franz Liszt.

Members of the college Dramatic Club did a fine piece of work in presenting John Kirkpatrick's one-act comedy, "The Wedding." The cast was composed of Stuart Edwards, Edward Sharretts, Florabelle Schrecongost, Richard Foote, Marian Murphy, Bruce Miller, and Fay Gehrig.

Members of the cast of "Fumbles Forgotten," the musical comedy written by Richard Foote and Eda Bessie Beilhartz, gave two musical numbers from the production. Walter Mohr, in blackface, sang "Weary Bones," and a quartette composed of Ruth Baird, Helen Johnson, James Deily, and William Hagenbuch sang "Moonlight on the Campus." The accompaniments were played by Mr. Foote.

The auditorium program was followed by dancing in the gymnasium.

Five hundred college students received practical training in one of the phases of government when they participated in a mock political convention of the Republican party, held in the Auditorium Thursday, April 25. As far as possible, the routine of a convention was followed, with nominating speeches, bands, banners, cheering, and all that is usually associated with such an occasion. The meeting, which lasted all afternoon, finally resulted in the nomination of Senator Taft as the candidate of the party.

May Day

The 1940 edition of May Day reached new heights in the colorful pageant presented on the campus Wednesday afternoon, May 15. The theme of the pageant was patriotic, and the history was presented in dance, song, and pantomime. The various episodes were presented by the children of the Benjamin Franklin Training School and students of the college.

The pageant was presented before the throne of the May Queen, the young lady holding that honor this year being Miss Rosemary Hausknecht, of Bloomsburg. Miss Hausknecht's attendants were Mary Hanley, Vivian Frey, Helen Brady, Pauline Reigle, Helen Harmon, Edna Keller, and Eleanor Beckley.

The program was opened by the processional, which included the May Queen, flower girls, crown bearers, and attendants, followed by all who were participating in the pageant. The Queen took her place on the dais erected in her honor, and she was crowned by Norman Maza, this year's president of the Community Government Association.

The program was closed by the May Pole dance, with an additional pole before the Queen's throne, with red, white and blue streamers. Miss Moore then led the audience in the singing of "God Bless America."

Added color was provided this year by the Maroon and Gold Band, which appeared in its striking uniforms.

Miss Lucy McCammon and Miss Mary Whitenight, of the department of Health Education were in general charge of the program.

Acting President and Mrs. Harvey A. Andruss were guests of honor at the annual dinner held by the college faculty at Hotel Kocher, Light Street, Tuesday evening, April 30. The dinner was held as a surprise event to express appreciation to Mr. and Mrs. Andruss. An informal program of bridge and other games followed the dinner.

Students Produce Musical

Campus life—in swing time— was the subject of a musical comedy, "Fumbles Forgotten," written by Richard Foote, '41, of Bloomsburg and Eda Bessie Beilhartz, '41, of Muncy, and presented at the College Friday evening, May 3. The presentation was an innovation at Bloomsburg, as it was the first time that a production has been entirely in the hands of students, from composition to direction and management.

Fifteen catchy musical numbers were included in the production, all of which were composed, both lyrics and music, by the student collaborators. A cast of nineteen men and women and a mixed chorus of eleven took part in the performance. Faculty members acting in an advisory capacity were Miss Harriet M. Moore, Miss Alice Johnston, and H. F. Fenstermaker.

The chorus consisted of the following: Edith Benninger, Mary Vera Foust, Betty Hawk, Florabelle Schrecongost, Mary Sweigart, Marjorie Young, Irene Diehl, Carl Berninger, Leonard Bowers, Loren Collins, and Bruce Miller.

The production staff included the following: Eda Bessie Beilhartz and Richard Foote, student directors; business manager, Edward Sharets; publicity manager, Jack Shortess; stage managers, Dean Harpe and Boyd Buckingham; property manager, Lois Gruver; script typist, Mary Bretz; promoter, Stella Johnson, and rehearsal accompanist, Helen Dixon.

The senate confirmed the appointment of Dr. Francis B. Haas as Superintendent of Public Instruction at a session held May 13. His four-year term begins August 23, 1939, the date he was given a recess appointment by Governor James.

SPRING SPORTS

Paced by the fourth consecutive State Championship track team, the Spring season was one of marked excellence. Last year at the state meet held at Shippensburg, the trophy in competition was retired by the Bloomsburg team because of three consecutive wins. This season another handsome trophy was brought to the display case from the state meet at West Chester, by the best balanced team that Coach Buchheit has turned out thus far. His record for the Spring season included four dual meet wins, a fine showing in the Penn relays, first in the Penn A. C. mile relay held at Philadelphia, and the state championship of the Pennsylvania State Teachers Colleges. Scores in the last-mentioned meet were as follows: Bloomsburg 60 one-third; West Chester 45 one-third; Cheyney 18; East Stroudsburg 15 one-third; Lock Haven 8; Shippensburg 7.

Rain hit both the baseball and the tennis schedules. In spite of four games claimed by the weather man, Bloomsburg diamond men turned in six victories against three losses. The tennis boys were able to find only six dates when matches could be played. Two of these brought wins in the Bloomsburg column, and four saw victories go to the opposition.

Another successful May Day-Play Day was staged by Miss McCammon, Miss Whitenight and the Girls' B Club. About one hundred girls from nearby high schools participated in the sports program in the morning, and then were college guests for luncheon and the May Day program. An overflow group of hundreds saw a remarkable demonstration of pageantry and color at this annual production, which has become the big college event of the Spring.

Announcement was made April 27 that A. Austin Tate, a member of the College faculty for the past four years, and head football coach for the past three years, would sever his connections with the College at the close of the college year. His successor has not yet been appointed.

MEN AND GIRL ATHLETES FETED

Bloomsburg Teachers College, honoring its athletes at the tenth annual dinner Saturday evening May 18, had its enjoyment made complete with the announcement during the dinner that the Husky track team at West Chester during the afternoon had won its fourth straight state crown.

A. K. "Rosy" Rowswell, Pittsburgh sports commentator, was the speaker of the evening and spoke interestingly of the value of having fun in life.

Hundreds of awards were presented to varsity and girl intramural athletes during the night in a lively program in which a number of the members of the faculty and students participated.

A number of alumni who were varsity athletes at Bloomsburg attended the dinner. Among the guests presented by Dr. E. H. Nelson, faculty manager of athletes, were Eddie Brominski, Columbia star who is now coach at Plymouth; Abe Shadian, oldest letter winner in attendance, and Dan Creveling, for years superintendent of grounds and a loyal co-operator with athletic teams during his years of service on the hill.

Center pieces on each table, in the attractively decorated dining room included symbols of each varsity sport and a miniature Husky, the college mascot, in the institution's colors of maroon and gold. Dinner music was provided by an orchestra of college students under the baton of Philip Moore. Miss Harriet Moore led the group singing. Entertainment features included a bass solo, "Will You Remember?" by Elwood Beaver, of Catawissa, and a violin solo by Frederick Worman, of Danville, both college students.

R. Bruce Albert, Alumni president, was at his best as toastmaster of the evening and spoke of the many fine accomplishments of the college in the field of athletics during the past year and the alumni interest in the entire program. Others at the speakers' table were: Dr. Nelson, Miss Harriet H. Moore, Mrs. R. Bruce Albert, Dean Harvey A. Andruss, acting president; Mrs. Andruss, Miss Florence Park, president of the "B" Club, college girls' athletic club; Dean and Mrs. W. B. Sutliff and Mr. Rowswell, speaker of the evening.

Dean Andruss said that to get full enjoyment out of athletics, one must love the game and not winning alone.

Keys went to the following varsity athletes, each with four years of varsity competition to his credit: Frank Koniecko, Nanticoke, baseball; Dan Kemple, Cumbula, and Kenneth Hippensteel, Espy, track; Norman Maza, baseball.

Chevrons were given to each girl having 1,500 points. One additional chevron is given for each additional 500 points. Those receiving them were: Florence Parks, sixth; Arlene Swinesburg, fourth and fifth; Lorraine Lichtenwalner, Margaret Blecker, third; Marion Long, second and third; Arabel Hilbush, Edith Benninger, Martha Hergert, Dorothy Savage, Eunice Laubach, Sara Gaugler, second; Barbara Gillete, Isabel Olah, first and second; Aldona Maslowsky, Dorothy Thomas, Muriel Rinard, Ruth Brodbeck, Sara Birth, Ruth Schield, Dorothy Albertson, Florence Traub, Virginia Dean, Marjorie Young, Lois Slopey.

The address of the evening was made more vital by the use of several of the speaker's own poems to emphasize points he was stressing. His talk was largely developed from his own experiences in life and he said that one to be a success had to be able to tackle a real job and then carry the burden that job placed upon you.

Miss Lucy McCammon presented numerous awards to the women. She explained the requirements for girls to win numerals and letters and announced those who received the awards. She also spoke of the constantly broadening athletic program for women at the college.

Varsity awards for men were announced by Dr. Nelson who stated Bill Kerchusky had been named honorary captain for softball. Following the dinner dancing was enjoyed in the gymnasium.

HOME-COMING DAY SATURDAY, OCT. 26

Three Trustees Carry On

Three members of the Board of Trustees of the Bloomsburg State Teachers College met Thursday, April 23, with acting president Harvey Andruss and transacted routine business.

The three members—Thomas G. Vincent, Judge Charles C. Evans and Grover C. Shoemaker—have come to be known as the “old guard” of the present Board.

Their terms have expired and they are doing faithfully the job they have to do until the new Board is named. The thought that is in their minds is that the election of a college president to succeed Dr. Francis B. Haas should await the naming of the new Board.

The Board started off with nine members. Deaths of William W. Evans and William P. Gallagher in the earlier years of their tenure brought the appointments of Judge Farrell and H. Mont. Smith to fill the vacancies. The senate never confirmed these two, and, in the meantime, Mr. Smith died.

Judge Herring, another of the trustees, passed out of the picture through death, and Dr. H. V. Hower, president of the Board, resigned. Henry T. Meyer, of Lewisburg, suffered a stroke and has been incapacitated for months, and Mrs. Noecher, of Schuylkill Haven, has not been active on the Board.

In the meantime, the routine work is efficiently carried forward.

Mr. and Mrs. Edgar I. Mack, of Forty Fort, have announced the engagement of their daughter, Charlotte, to Paul H. Kepner, of Berwick. Miss Mack is a graduate of the Forty Fort High School and the Bloomsburg State Teachers College, and is a member of the Dallas Borough school faculty. Mr. Kepner is a graduate of the Berwick High School and the Beckley School of Aeronautics, New Jersey. He is now employed at the American Car and Foundry Company, at Berwick.

Department of Commerce

According to a recent survey made by Dean Harvey A. Andruss, Acting President of the State Teachers College at Bloomsburg, Pennsylvania, 94 per cent of the graduates of the Business Education Curriculum have been placed in positions. The Department of Business Education was organized in 1930 and graduated this first class of six people in 1933. Since that time there have been seven graduating classes numbering 222. Of this number 179 obtained teaching positions and 30 went into business, making a total of 209 graduates who were placed, as shown in the following table:

Year	Number of Graduates	Business	Placements		Per Cent
			Teaching	Total
1933	6	1	5	6	100
1934	31	3	28	31	100
1935	34	1	33	34	100
1936	16	2	14	16	100
1937	31	4	26	30	97
1939	55	11	33	44	80

Number of Graduates, 100 per cent; Business, 14 per cent; Teaching, 80 per cent; Total, 94 per cent.

This record of placement indicates that there is a continuing demand for commercial teachers in the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania. Some of the graduates have been placed in the high schools and colleges of New Hampshire, Connecticut, Massachusetts, Maryland, New York, North Carolina, Virginia and Florida.

At the present time the Freshmen Class taking the Business Education Curriculum is limited to 120 and it is the policy of the college to maintain the enrollment in the Department of Business Education at approximately the present number, which is 300.

James Deily, of Bloomsburg, has been named president of the Community Government Association of the State Teachers College for 1940-41.

THE PHILADELPHIA ALUMNI.....

The annual April reunion at the Bellevue-Stratford (our tenth) was another joyful and successful affair, with about 165 loyal and enthusiastic alumni present.

Dean Andruss brought a splendid representation from the College. How happy we were to greet Dr. and Mrs. Haas, Dean and Mrs. Andruss, Dean and Mrs. Sutliff, Dr. and Mrs. Kimber Kuster, Dr. and Mrs. Nelson, and Miss Moore. We missed having Bruce Albert, President of the Alumni Association, Howard Fenstemaker and his orchestra, and Miss Moore's singers.

A very interesting dramatic sketch, "Hobby Horses," given by five students under the direction of Miss Alice Johnston, was very well received. Vocal solos by Miss Joyce Lohr, accompanied by Spencer Roberts at the piano, were thoroughly enjoyed. These two delightful young artists give much promise. Movies entitled "Life at the College" pleased the group and brought forth many favorable comments. Miss Moore led in the group singing.

Our chief regret was the absence of Dr. Waller, as we desired to honor him by presenting $100.00 to the Student Loan Fund as a testimonial of our affectionate regard for the Grand Old Man of Bloomsburg. Last year the same amount was presented to this worthy fund by our Philadelphia group as a testimonial to our president and founder, Mrs. Florence H. Cool.

Everyone attending this gathering paid tribute to his Alma Mater and to the fine men and women who have served in their various capacities with such distinction to make our College outstanding in Pennsylvania.

Thomas Francis '08, Superintendent of Schools of Lackawanna County, was Master of Ceremonies, and in a most efficient and delightful manner carried out the program of the evening. He called upon a number of our guests at the Speakers' Table to give two-minute messages. We quote a few excerpts:

Dr. Francis B. Haas, Superintendent of Public Instruction, to whom all praise is given for the masterful manner in which he held and guided the destiny of our Alma Mater during his term as President, was introduced, and said:

"While we have changed our work a little from what it was the last time we met, we should like to assure you that our interest and hopes of being of service have not changed at all."

Dean Harvey A. Andruss, Acting President, who has done such a fine job this year, said:

"Any institution is but the length and shadow of a man. Certainly our institution at Bloomsburg is measured by the length and shadow of our leaders. Two of our Presidents have been Superintendent of Public Instruction, Dr. Waller and Dr. Haas, the latter now serving his second appointment."

At least four people who have been connected with Bloomsburg have been Presidents of the Pennsylvania State Education Association. These are Dr. Waller, Dr. Haas, the late William B. Evans, and our toastmaster, Thomas Francis.

Dean Sutliff, who has given the best years of his life to our College, still lives across the street from the campus. Dean and Mrs. Sutliff extend an invitation to you to drop in and tarry a while with them when you are in Bloomsburg. In the course of his remarks, the Dean said that he brought word from Dr. Waller that he regretted that his health would not permit him to come down.

"I deem it a great privilege to have started my work at Bloomsburg under Dr. Waller, and to have ended my active work there in the College under Dr. Haas. It was a great experience for me to work under these two men."

"I did not make any bargain with Superintendent Francis, so I don't know whether I am to stand for applause and sit down, or whether I have two minutes. It having been mentioned that we have many extra-curricular activities, I want to assure you that we do not neglect the academic work entirely. It is a pleasure to attend these Philadelphia gatherings."

Dr. E. H. Nelson:

"I want to tell you that my greatest personal triumph in this world besides meeting of my wife, was in convincing Dr. Waller that when I ducked the Secretary of the Board of Trustees, I did not duck him as Secretary of the Board. He believed me and allowed me to stay in school."

Thomas Francis, Toastmaster:

"When I heard Dean Andruss say that Bloomsburg had representatives of state-wide reputation, the thing that I thought of was that the next gentleman that I shall introduce has national fame. He is probably one of the outstanding men in vocational education in the United States. He is our own Alumnus, and we are very proud of him. I present to you the Executive Secretary of the American Vocational Association."

Dr. Lindley H. Dennis:

"We are here because we have a great fondness for the institution that helped to put us on our feet. We pay tribute to Dr. Waller because of the standards which have come down from him through the years. We honor Dr. Haas because he carried on those traditions. We all appreciate this, and realize that he and his associates laid the groundwork and to them we give the credit. We thought the faculty were a nuisance, but upon coming back we have a growing appreciation of the sacrifice and service of the men and women who have served, and are still serving the College. Our Toastmaster made one mistake. He said that Dr. Haas was sent to Bloomsburg to finish his training. No; his training was good enough; he was sent to Bloomsburg so that he would become inoculated with the Bloomsburg spirit."

Nevin Elwell Funk, Vice-President of the Philadelphia Electric Company:

"I am in a different business. Everyone feels that the business he is in the best one. I feel strongly that your business is more important than mine, as you in the teaching profession are guiding the right thinking of the coming generation, and have the best interests of this country in your hands."

Mr. John G. Connor, '83, a loyal alumnus and warm supporter of the Philadelphia Association. He comes from a family all of whom went to Bloomsburg:

"I would pay tribute to Dr. Waller as a real teacher, whose influence has gone with me through all the years."

Grover Shoemaker, Trustee:

"I have nothing in particular to offer. We have so many of the old graduates here, and I like to hear them reminisce, as they give evidence of the true college spirit that is so characteristic of the College that we love so much. I extend congratulations to Mrs. Cool and her fellow officers for this splendid evening."

Mr. George Baker, '03, Superintendent of the Schools of Moorestown, New Jersey.

"I am very happy to be with you. Life offers us nothing more precious than a real friend. On this occasion, therefore, we greet each other with hearts full of gratitude for the blessings of our friendship. Mrs. Cool deserves credit for gathering this group together in this splendid annual event for the tenth time."

Herman Fritz, '99, of Chester, Pa., paid fine tribute to the work that the Philadelphia organization is doing. With his two classmates, Dr. Joseph Echternach and Lindley H. Dennis, he constitutes the "Three Musteeters," and their reunions are always true to the Bloomsburg tradition.

We were pleased to note the presence of Dr. Fred Sutliff, a brother of Dean Sutliff. Another distinguished guest was Dr. Everett P. Barnard, an eminent gynecologist of Philadelphia.

Mary Stack Muldoon, '86, was very proud to tell us that one of her daughters, who lives in Baltimore, learning that her mother might not be able to attend, telegraphed her mother that she would come up and take her, which she did. With Mame Downey Sheehy and daughter, Margaret Coughlin O'Neill and daughter, Mary Moore Taubel and daughter, and Margaret Bigley and daughter, they formed a mother and daughter table.

Dr. George Pfahler, '94, an alumnus of our college, known not only nationally but internationally as a Radiologist, paid a fine tribute to Dr. Waller by saying, "I was not in his presence for an hour until I knew that I was in the presence of a Master. I wish I could pay my respects personally to Dr. Waller." Dr. Pfahler is at present trying to organize and develop a women's field army with the idea of fighting cancer with knowledge. We wish him every success in this good cause.

From Annie E. Miller Melick and Margaret Burke, of New York, came letters of regret at not being able to be with us.

The Philadelphia Alumni Association wish to thank all those who contributed toward the success of this, our tenth reunion, and extend a cordial invitation to everyone to come again next year, the last Saturday in April.

Picnics during the summer are arranged for, and notices are sent out each month. Luncheons will, as usual, be held during the winter. Come and get acquainted. Keep up the Bloomsburg spirit. Take your pleasures as you go along; they may not pass your way again.

We have received a greeting from Dorothy Schmidt, who attended every banquet until she left to take up missionary work in Japan. She asked to be remembered especially to her classmates of '29 and '34.

FLORENCE H. COOL, President.

The Dauphin--Cumberland Alumni

As spring arrives, our activities for the season comes to a close and we are happy to report that our organization has developed into an association of which we are justly proud. We have learned to know and to welcome newcomers and we have made closer contacts with those whom we love and hold most dear.

Our final Reunion was held at the Barberry Manor Tea Room, Harrisburg, Penna., Saturday evening, May 4, 1940. Mrs. J. F. Schiefer, President, presided and Miss Nellie M. Seidel led the community singing.

An outstanding attendance was recorded and the members and their guests represented many classes registering from the class of 1885 to the class of 1939. Miss Mary Mickey was from the class of 1885 and was given an ovation when presented to the guests. It was a two-some celebration for Miss Mickey for in the afternoon of May 4th, she was guest of honor at the fiftieth anniversary of the West Side School Building in Steelton, Pennsylvania, where Miss Mickey was a former teacher.

Mrs. Clyde Hoover was our Dinner Chairman, and she carried out her plans so efficiently that she has been appointed Dinner Chairman for our Fall Reunion to be held October 21, 1940. Mrs. J. Y. Shambaugh assisted her.

Mrs. Louise W. Middaugh has been selected Membership Chairman and she reported a goodly number of bona fide members and urged others to register in order that we might exceed last year's enrollment. She was assisted by Mrs. Frank Barley, Mrs. R. A. McCachran, Mrs. Edward Laubaugh, Mrs. J. M. Yetter, M. J. Yetter, Mrs. Ralph Gardner, Miss Mae Berger.

We were more than pleased to have with us Mrs. Blanche Miller Grimes, our Publicity Chairman, who was recently a patient in the Graduate Hospital at Philadelphia, and we were greatly concerned as to her recovery, and also, as to whom we would report our activities in our newspapers.

We are happy to report that many members of our association have contributed to the Student Loan Fund and especially do we register with pride a memorial to honor the memory of Mrs. Frances H. Jenkins, class of '75, who for many years was Business Manager of the Quarterly and activities in the Alumni Association. This memorial was given by her son-in-law and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. R. A. McCachran, '06, who are honorary members of our Association.

The Nominating Committee was chosen to report at our next meeting in the Fall. They are as follows: Mrs. H. M. Swope, Chairman; Mrs. H. L. Anwyll, Mrs. R. A. McCachran, Mrs. Homer Englehart, Miss Mary Pendergast.

The sympathy of the organization is extended to the relatives, friends and classmates of Mrs. Emma Fisher Thomas, who passed away December 4, 1939. Resolutions were read and adopted at our Spring meeting, which are herein published.

We send best wishes and heartiest congratulations to every Alumni Group in the State of Pennsylvania, and will say that loyalty to his or her Alma Mater is a fine development of American spirit and by attending these annual Reunions we bear testimony to our appreciation of our College, Teachers, Classmates and Friends. Come to our Reunion this Fall. We'll be glad to welcome you.

Respectfully submitted,
ELIZABETH V. CLANCY, Secretary.

Emma Fisher Thomas

The death of Mrs. Emma Fisher Thomas, December 4, 1939, at her home 2214 Chestnut Street, Harrisburg, Pa., removes from the Bloomsburg State College Association of the Harrisburg district, a member of superior intelligence, an intimate friend and a highly respected citizen. As members of this Association we wish to express our sorrow for her removal hence, and also our appreciation of a faithful, conscientious teacher and her devotion to her Alma Mater.

Mrs. Thomas was a graduate of the Harrisburg High School, Bloomsburg State Teachers College, and began teaching in the Harrisburg District in the year 1887 and taught in many sections of the city. Her initial service started in the Hamilton Building and later she was transferred to the Cameron, Camp Curtin, Stevens Buildings and Edison Junior High Building. After several years of teaching, she became the wife of Mr. Martin A. Thomas, the late Superintendent of Harrisburg Public Schools. She left the profession in 1904 but re-entered in 1919 as a substitute teacher. She was retired in 1925.

Ever earnest and intelligently interested in her profession Mrs. Thomas continued her Higher Education by taking Extension work at Lebanon Valley College and Dickinson College.

Mrs. Thomas was active in the work of the church. She was a member of St. Matthew's Lutheran Church, Harrisburg, Pennsylvania, and was a Sunday School teacher, having charge of a large Women's Class.

BE IT RESOLVED, therefore, by the Bloomsburg State College Association that we express not only our heartfelt sympathy but also our keen sense of loss and bereavement in the passing of so faithful, religious and highly-esteemed citizen.

BE IT RESOLVED, that a copy of these resolutions be sent to her relatives and also that they be entered on the minutes of this Association and that a copy be sent to Mr. H. F. Fenstermaker. to be published in the next issue of the "Quarterly."

ELIZABETH V. CLANCY, Secretary.

MONTOUR COUNTY ALUMNI

The Montour County branch of the Bloomsburg State Teachers College Alumni Association held their annual meeting in the Shiloh Fellowship Hall, Danville, Friday evening, May 10.

County Superintendent Fred W. Diehl, a graduate of this school, was toastmaster. The officers to head the organization next year are Ralph McCracken, president; Miss Nellie Bogart, vice president; Miss Alice Smull, secretary, and Neil M. Richie, treasurer.

Centennial Club Members

The Luzerne County Alumni Club has recently increased its subscription to $100.00 and therefore is the latest addition to the Centennial Club of the Alumni Student Loan Fund.

Who will be next?

The Philadelphia Club has contributed $100.00 to the Alumni Student Loan Fund as a Testimonial in honor of Dr. D. J. Waller, Jr., '67, President Emeritus of the Institution.

A group of graduates of the Classes of 1912 and 1913 under the leadership of Edna Runyon Cherrie '13, have contributed a Memorial in honor of the Memory of Mary E. Collins '13, who was a loyal and devoted Alumna of Bloomsburg.

Bequest to Alumni Student Loan Fund

Florence J. Cawley, Class of 1885 has made a bequest of $1000.00 to the College. The will provided that her classmates should decide the best and most useful disposition of the Fund.

The Class of 1885 in its 55th Reunion passed unanimously this resolution: Resolved, That the benefits of this bequest, either the principal or the income, be contributed to the Alumni Student Loan Fund of the Bloomsburg State Teachers College.

The bequest will be a Memorial in honor of the memory of Florence J. Cawley, Class of 1885, a true friend of the College.

Where Are They Now ?

The following letter was recently received by D. D. Wright, Treasurer of the Alumni Student Loan Fund:

Enclosed you will find a postal money order for ten dollars ($10), the tenth and final payment on my loan.

I thank the Alumni Association and the officers of the Alumni Loan Fund for extending this loan to me. Although my financial conditions were not good I have endeavored to be prompt in all of my monthly payments, and, thus I hope I have proved myself worthy of your trust.

I sincerely hope that the Alumni Loan Fund will continue to grow and do its fine work in aiding worthy students. At the present time I am unable to make any contribution to the fund, but I assure you that as soon as I am able I will do so.

Thank you again for the loan.

Teacher and friend of the thousands whose pathway she brightened in her fifty-four years as a teacher, during which time she spent many years among the Indians of the western plains and with the natives of Alaska, Miss Hannah Breece died Monday, April 22, at the home of her sister, Mrs. Charles E. Kesty, in Bloomsburg.

Miss Breece, possessed of a magnetic personality, a spirit of great service, and a joy of living which she retained to the end, found in the field of education more romance and adventure than which comes to most people in any walk of life.

A native of Bloomsburg, she was graduated from the State Normal School in the class of 1879, and later received her degree at the University of Chicago.

She first taught in the schools of Catawissa and then returned to Bloomsburg, and at one time was principal of the Third Street School. Miss Breece never lost interest in her former pupils. Her ability to remember names was remarkable, but she went beyond that and showed keen interest in their success. For hours she could talk of those former pupils, who were her firm friends. In the last eight years of her life, which were spent in Bloomsburg, they visited her in great numbers, and enjoyed chats of the good old days of the school room.

In 1891, she was commissioned by the Department of the Interior of the Federal government to teach among the Indians of the West. Her work there among the Navajo, Ute, Hopi and Sioux Indians was so outstanding that, at the request of the government, she traveled by covered wagon throughout the southwest, explaining to the red man the advantages that they could obtain through the educational facilities made available.

Some years after the turn of the century, Miss Breece was commissioned to go to Alaska to teach and to do welfare work among the Eskimos. For two years she was stationed at Afognak, in the Aleutian Islands, and was the only white woman on the islands. Throughout her fourteen years of service in Alaska she taught school to the young in the daytime, and to the adults in the evening. A woman of tireless energy, she was as enthusiastic about her work at the last as at the beginning.

She visited all parts of the territory, teaching and raising the standard of living. She traveled by boat on the inland rivers, many times riding in the kyak, which was skin-covered in order that it would not sink if it capsized. She journeyed along the coast in vessels, and over the mountains and through the valleys behind dog teams or on snow shoes. Even the most remote settlement knew Miss Breece.

On one occasion, she traveled five hundred miles by dog sled to the United States court at Fairbanks in the interest of the natives who were having their lives made miserable by rum-runners. She lived a number of years above the Arctic circle.

For a two-year period, when the fish failed to come up the Yukon, and the main food supply of the natives was cut off, the Federal government sent Miss Breece the emergency rations, which she took the responsibility of distributing.

Upon the conclusion of her service in Alaska, she went to Oregon and continued teaching, part of the time in McMinnville, where she made her home. About eight years ago, she returned to Bloomsburg and resided with her sister, Mrs. Kesty, who is the only close survivor.

At the time of Miss Breece's death, the Bloomsburg Morning Press printed the following editorial:

"The death of Miss Hannah Breece brings to a close, at a ripe old age, a life that was given over to service.

"There are many men and women of today who appreciate the part she played in his or her life as a teacher in the Bloomsburg schools. Always inspiring, she had the ability both to instruct and to bring out the best of each student.

"In later years, her ability was to be reflected in other fields, as she gave over her talents to both the Indians and the Eskimos, but in Bloomsburg especially she will be remembered for her outstanding work with the youth of the town."

Three members of the class of 1880 were back to attend their sixtieth reunion. They were H. G. Supplee, of Chicago, Mrs. Celeste Prutzman, Trucksville, and Mrs. Ellen Lally, of Shenandoah.

1882

Jennie S. Helman lives at 428 Walnut Street, Catasaqua.

1884

Joseph G. Wells, for many years a prominent business man in Bloomsburg, died Wednesday, June 12, at his home in Bloomsburg, after an illness lasting three weeks.

A native of Muncy, he was the son of Edward Clark Wells and Elizabeth Bruner Wells. He came to Bloomsburg when eight years old and lived there until the time of his death.

For many years he owned a jewelry store in Bloomsburg and then became associated in the lumber business in the firm of Creasy and Wells, Inc.

He was a member of St. Paul's Episcopal Church and for a number of years served as vestryman. He was a member of the various Masonic bodies of Caldwell Consistory, and of the Irem Temple, Wilkes-Barre.

Edith Ent (Mrs. Fred Holmes) of Bloomsburg was the subject of a drawing appearing in Robert L. Ripley's column "Believe It or Not" in a syndicate of newspapers Thursday, February 16, 1940. The caption of the drawing reads as follows: "Mrs. Fred Holmes has completed 56 years of continuous service as organist in the First Methodist Episcopal Church of Bloomsburg, Pa." This year was Mrs. Holmes' 55th anniversary of her graduation from Bloomsburg.

W. S. Conner, Madera, California, writes that it would be a great pleasure to return for Alumni Day and exchange stories with his classmates. He reports the death of C. M. Petty '85 last January. Mr. Petty was a leader in all community activities and a host of friends mourn his departure.

Charles M. Petty died January 5, 1940, at his home in Madera, California, just five years after the death of his wife, Mae Conner Petty, of the class of 1887.

A happy reunion at Bloomsburg on Alumni Day was that of Norman G. Cool, of Philadelphia, his son, Harold N. Cool, '12, of Culver City, California, and his grandson, Norman G. Cool, Jr., of Culver City, now a student at the college.

Adelle Shaffer (Mrs. Thomas J. Broughall) lives at 500 West 14th Street, Wilmington, Delaware.

Miss Mary Wendt, for many years a teacher in the schools of Lewistown and Sunbury, died Wednesday, May 29, at the Bloomsburg Hospital, after a long illness. Miss Wendt retired from teaching seven years ago, and has been living with her sister in Catawissa.

1889

The Rev C. E. Smith lives at 223 Vine Street, Camden, New Jersey. Mr. Smith is mourning the loss of his wife, Mary Creveling Smith, who died January 30, 1940.

Margaret Stephens Taylor lives at 159 State Street, New London, Connecticut.

The 50th reunion of the class of 1890 was an enjoyable occasion for those who were present. The class wishes to express its appreciation for all the courtesies extended to the members in reunion.

It seems fitting that our class should refer to the fact that our graduation took place on July 3, 1890, many returning to their homes on the Fourth of July. The length of the school term at that time was forty-two weeks. Another milestone that we like to think of was that our beloved Dr. D. J. Waller, Jr., taught Psychology to the members of our class. On our commencement day, Dr. Waller gave up the keys as Principal of the Bloomsburg State Normal School to become State Superintendent of Public Instruction.

Members attending the reunion were as follows: Rev. J. K. Adams, president of the class, Mrs. Sula Santee Adams, Daniel Rhinehart, Mrs. Kate Lewis Davies, Mrs. Bess Holmes Yost, Mrs. Effie Hartman Vanderslice, Miss Edith Moses, Mrs. Margaret Evans Eves, Mrs. Sudie Mentzer Beck, Miss Mary Stover, Mrs. Irene Sears Barbour, Mrs. Mary Moore Taubel, Richard McHale and Ira Brown.

Greetings were received from the following: Mrs. Clementine Gregory Herman, Miss Eleanor Hayman, Miss Adda Hayman, Miss Lillian Helman and Mrs. Margaret Moran McNellis.

We were glad to greet Professor Albert, and were pleased to have him photographed with our group. A suggestion was made at this reunion that the members of the class endeavor to come together in 1942.

MARY MOORE TAUBEL, Secretary.

Katherine Longshore, a teacher in the Hazleton schools, died at the Geisinger Memorial Hospital, Danville, on Saturday, April 13, after a four months' illness due to a heart condition. The "Blue-White," Hazleton High School newspaper, had the following in regard to Miss Longshore's death:

"The death of Miss Longshore removes one of Hazleton's best known women, admired all over the state in teaching and educational circles. Her recent resignation from her high school teaching post, due to ill health, was regretted by her friends and students. In connection with her work as a teacher, she won a permanent place in the history of the times as founder, organizer, and first president of the Pennsylvania State Teachers' League, which stressed the teachers retirement plan. She received commendation of teachers everywhere, and just recently a state-wide tribute was paid to her efforts on behalf of the profession."

George W. Miller, Jr., husband of Sue Creveling Miller, died at his home in Weatherly, Pennsylvania. Saturday, March 16, after suffering with a heart ailment for almost a year. Mr. Miller was a member of the B. S. N. S. orchestra in 1893 and 1894, while working for Hess Brothers, jewelers in Bloomsburg.

Mrs. Laura Wenner Smith has been reported as deceased.

Genevieve Gallagher (Mrs. William Mindy) lives at 1112 Wyoming Avenue, Pittston, Pa.

The class of 1895 had eight members in attendance. During the day they elected Mrs. Ada Lewis Beale, Tunkhannock, president, and Miss Katherine Cadow, of town, secretary and treasurer, and made tentative plans for the fiftieth year reunion in 1945.

Others of the class attending were Mrs. Minnie Foster, Rivenburgh, Mrs. Theresa Hehl Holmes, Mrs. Mary Ferguson Scott, Charles W. Derr, Fred E. Fassett and Sara Moyer Bray, Drums.

Crawford Cunningham Smith died Sunday, May 5, at his home, 733 Wyoming Avenue, Kingston.

Mr. Smith was born at Drums, Luzerne County. He taught for ten years after his graduation from Bloomsburg, part of which time he served as assistant principal of the Hazel Township High School.

He was later appointed chief clerk in the office of the commissioners of Luzerne County, and held this office for eight years. After retiring from this position, he became interested in the development of several lumber tracts in Luzerne and adjoining counties. In addition to his wholesale and manufacturing business, he later was a special agent in the real estate department of the Lehigh Coal and Navigation Company.

While continuing his lumber business, Mr. Smith retained his activity in politics, and on July 12, 1923, was appointed County Treasurer by Governor Pinchot to fill a vacancy caused by the death of the occupant of that office. He later was elected to the office, and remained in office until January 1, 1928.

Mr. Smith was treasurer of the Luzerne Republican Committee for many years and handled the funds during the campaign of Arthur H. James for Governor. He was campaign manager when Mr. James was a candidate for Superior Court Judge.

He was one of the trustees of the Proprietors of Kingston Township, a group which handled the funds left to municipalities which were formed out of the original Kingston Township by the original proprietors, who set aside certain properties for educational purposes.

He was a member of the Masons, Caldwell Consistory, Irem Temple, and the Craftsmen's Club.

William Shemorroy is now living in Bismarck, N. D. Mr. Charles Boyer is living in Lewisburg and is manager of the Western Union Auto Station.

Miss Helen Vanderslice, teacher in the Bloomsburg schools since 1899, was honored by a dinner given by the faculty of the Board of Directors of the Bloomsburg schools, and held at the Hotel Kocher, Light Street, Tuesday evening, May 28. Miss Vanderslice retired from teaching at the close of the past school year. She received a necklace as a gift from the teachers of Bloomsburg. Miss Vanderslice was graduated from the Bloomsburg High School in 1896, and from the Bloomsburg State Normal School in 1897. From 1922 to 1931 she took work at Columbia University. Bloomsburg State Teachers College, Bucknell, and the University of California. Her teaching career began in Lime Ridge during the 1898-99 term, and since 1899 she has been identified with the Bloomsburg Schools, and has completed her forty-first year at teacher of second grade in the Bloomsburg system.

Ruth T. Turner (Mrs. David G. Martin) lives at 1724 Santa Clara Avenue, Alameda, California.

Anna Goyituey (Mrs. Fred W. Canfield) is teaching at the Haskell Institute, Lawrence, Kansas. She states that she is "a grandmother three times now."

For the thirtieth reunion of the class of 1905, there were nineteen who returned for Alumni Day.

In calling the roll of the class, we found that our classmates are scattered across the United States from Seattle, Washington, and New Mexico, as far north as Connecticut. Twenty-one of our class have passed on. Eighteen are without a known address. Some of these we hope to contact soon.

It will be interesting to tell a little about those who returned to the reunion:

Edna Crouse (Mrs. Neil S. Harrison) of Orangeville, R. D., is the wife of the man who practically owns the little town of Forks, where they live. He is station-master, store-keeper, and express agent. They had recently returned from a trip to the west coast, where they saw many former Bloomsburg graduates.

Luzetta Davis, of Berwick, is one of our classmates who has been teaching school ever since graduation.

G. Edward Elwell, Jr., is well known in Bloomsburg, where he owns and operates the Elwell Printing Company. He is also well known in Masonic circles, at present being the Commander-in-Chief of Caldwell Consistory.

Nevin T. Englehart is the man whose job it is to keep the buildings and grounds of the B. S. T. C. in ship-shape condition. He accepted this position immediately after graduation, and has been doing a good job ever since.

Bessie K. Grimes, of Catawissa, is another of our girls who has been teaching "the young idea how to shoot" since leaving Old Normal.

Vera E. Hemingway (Mrs. C. C. Housenick) is the wife of the owner and operator of the Housenick Motor Company. At the meeting of the class during the reunion, she was the one chosen to plan for the fortieth reunion to be held five years hence. She would like her classmates to send her any information about themselves that would be interesting for the class to know. Begin sending this information now and continue sending it until 1945.

Mary E. Kirkendall (Mrs. Pierce Hagenbuch), of Espy, was the first member of the class to be married after graduation, and is the one having the most grand children to date.

Beatrice Larrabee (Mrs. E. J. Albertson), of Peekskill, N. Y., another of our classmates, has three fine boys.

Sara B. Milleisen (Mrs. G. Edward Elwell, Jr.), of Bloomsburg, is the only girl who married a man from her own class. She was one of the committee who planned the '05 reunion on Alumni Day.

Mary A. Mitchell (Mrs. C. K. Vermorel), of Hackensack, New Jersey, is one of our class who has been back to "Old Normal" for every reunion. That is quite a record. Keep it up.

Blanche F. Miller (Mrs. Carl Grimes) lives in Harrisburg, and is another class member who has been faithful in returning to class reunions.

Myrtle M. Robbins (Mrs. Norman Wood), of Nescopeck, in responding to roll-call when we were asked to tell about what we were doing, said "I heat dish-water." [This was her way of saying that she is a housewife and mother. Myrtle brought with her our class program and button used the day we were graduated.]

Gertrude Rowe, of Wilkes-Barre, is another of our faithful teachers, and is now principal of one of the Wilkes-Barre schools.

Claire E. Shovlin, of Northumberland, has also found a place for herself in the schools of our state. She is principal of the schools of Northumberland.

Alice L. Smull, of Danville is teaching in the Danville schools.

Edna L. Walters is teaching in Hazleton.

Eleanor Witman (Mrs. J. McKendree Reiley), of Harrisburg, came back to Bloomsburg after a long absence. She is helping her husband, who is a minister, in his work.

Letters were received from Mary E. Colvin, who is now Mrs. Weldon Siptroth, of Clark's Summit, and Kathryn Krumm, who is now Mrs. A. F. Twogood, of Ardmore. The latter was the vice-president of the class.

Gertrude Rowe has changed her address to 22 Shelden Avenue, Wilkes-Barre.

Carrie Clark (Mrs. G. C. Myers) lives at 1000 Elbon Road, Cleveland Heights, Ohio.

Anna Ditzler (Mrs. W. T. Brumdick) is living in Woodstock, Virginia.

Susan Thomas (Mrs. Blaine Beaver) is living in North Bergen, New Jersey.

After talking over our school days and telling what we knew about our absent classmates, we adjourned to meet again in five years, and to return as often as possible on Alumni Day.

VERA H. HOUSENICK.

Ida Sitler, Hollins College, Virginia, was the delegate of her college to the Eighth All-American Scientific Congress, which met in Washington in May. The congress was opened by an address by President Roosevelt.

Sue Thomas (Mrs. Blaine Beaver) lives at 575 Thirty-fifth Street, North Bergen, New Jersey.

Anna Thomas lives at 106 Washington Street, Edwardsville.

Miss Mabel R. Farley, Supervising Principal of the Hicksville, N. Y. High School for twenty nine years was honored by a testimonial dinner and dance at the Salisbury Club, Westbury, Saturday evening, April 27th. There were more than 250 guests and Miss Farley was presented with a beautiful wrist watch as a token of esteem and appreciation by High School Alumni, community and friends. Dr. John N. Andrews, Ph. D., professor of economics and international relations at New York University was the guest speaker.

Lillian B. Wendt (Mrs. George Harris Webber) lives at 507 West Hancock Street, Milledgeville, Georgia. Mrs. Webber's husband, the late Dr. George Harris Webber, was a member of the class of 1905.

Helen Conner (Mrs. E. R. Vactor) lives at 89 Jackson Avenue, North Plainfield, New Jersey. She has a son and two daughters.

Edwin Barton, of Elizabeth, New Jersey, is a member of the Book Review Council of the New Jersey Educational Review. Mr. Barton is responsible for reviewing new books appearing in the field of social studies.

Bessie Dent (Mrs. T. Beaver Holabaugh) lives at 149 North Third Street, Catawissa, Pa.

1909

1910

Those back for the reunion of the class of 1910 were Emma M. MacFarlane, Hazleton; Georgeana McHenry Shardin, Danville; Hilda A. Taylor, Hazleton; Grace Gillner Zane, Sterling; Mrs. E. J. Albertson, Peekskill, N. Y.; Maurice E. Houck, Berwick; Harold C. Box, South Canaan; Robert C. Metz, Ashley; Mildred Snell Boston, West Pittston; Charles J. Morris, Wilkes-Barre; Florence Heubner Buckalew, Bloomsburg.

Harold C. Box lives in South Canaan, Pennsylvania. His daughter, Thelma, was graduated from the East Stroudsburg State Teachers College this year.

David R. Moses lives at 776 North 14th Street, Salem, Oregon.

Ethel Velma Andrews (Mrs. W. A. Rutland) is now living at 100 Meadow Street, Garden City, Long Island, New York.

1911

Maurice J. Girton, principal of the Dallas Township School, died January 4, 1940. He is survived by his wife, the former Anna McBride, of the class of 1910, and by a son Charles, who was graduated from Bloomsburg this year.

Jessie Doran lives in Daleville, Pa. Her post office address is R. 3, Moscow, Pa.

Robert Cole, a member of the faculty of the University of Michigan, lives on Walnut Street, Ann Harbor, Michigan.

To All The Alumni....

The next interesting event on the College calendar for "Old Grads" will be Homecoming Day, Saturday, October 26th. A fine program is being arranged. Shippensburg will be the attraction in Football and an interesting game is assured. In the evening, a dance will provide entertainment for students and alumni. Why not plan now to come back? We want you here for the day. COME!

The Cumberland-Dauphin Alumni Group has set October 21st as the date for their Fall Reunion. That is fine; and we hope that each county group will promote an active program during the year.

The Alumni Student Loan Fund continues to do a splendid service for worthy Juniors and Seniors in financial need. The first requirement for the applicant is a cumulative grade of "C" or better. We are glad to help all students who meet the eligibility requirements of the Loan Fund Committee.

We will be looking for you on Homecoming Day. Make the Alumni Room your Headquarters. Come back to the College and see many of your friends and classmates.

Sincere good wishes,

R. BRUCE ALBERT.

BUSINESS MANAGER

Albert W. Duy

Albert W. Duy, a former member of the Board of Trustees of the College, died at his home in Bloomsburg, Wednesday, August 21. He was seventy-two years of age. His death ended a lingering illness which had its beginning in 1937, when he was stricken with paralysis. He gradually improved and was able partially to resume his law practice in April, 1938. Since March, 1940, he has been confined to his bed.

He was born in Chicago, June 13, 1868, a son of Judge George C. Duy, a distinguished jurist, who served as judge of the district court in Vigo County, Indiana. His maternal grandfather was Judge Samuel P. Godkins, a judge of the Supreme Court of Indiana.

Mr. Duy was educated in the Chicago public schools, the Indianapolis High School, and was graduated from the classical and military academy in Indianapolis.

He came to Bloomsburg in 1889, and four years later, deciding to enter the legal profession, began studying in the law offices of Ikeler and Ikeler. He passed the examinations and was admitted to the Columbia County Bar February 9, 1898. He was admitted to practice before the Supreme Court of Pennsylvania in 1902, before the Superior Court of Pennsylvania in 1903, before the United States Circuit Court of the Middle District in 1903, and before the United States Circuit Court of the Third Circuit. He was a member and secretary of the Columbia County board of law examiners for a number of years.

He served as referee in bankruptcy from 1899 to 1903, in the United States District Court. In 1902 he was elected district attorney of Columbia County. He was the first man ever elected to that office on the Republican ticket in Columbia County, and overcame a normal 2,000 Democratic majority of those years in order to win. It was while he was in that office that the public came in touch with his qualifications, for he was called upon to try a great number of important cases.

From 1900 to 1906 he was chairman of the Republican County Committee, and since that time he has been a party leader in the county and prominent in the councils of the state organization.

His only other campaign for public office was 1927, when, in a close battle, he was defeated for the Republican nomination for the judgeship by Judge Charles C. Evans.

Mr. Duy took a prominent part promoting and carrying to a successful conclusion the establishment of the Columbia Power, Light and Railway Company, which was subsequently absorbed by the Pennsylvania Power and Light Company. He was for many years a director of the First National Bank of Bloomsburg and was a director of other important corporations in Bloomsburg. He was one of the leading spirits of the Bloomsburg Country Club and served as its president ever since its organization until the first of this year, when he was named honorary president. He was a charter member of the Bloomsburg Rotary Club, and served as president of that organization.

He served as chancellor of the Harrisburg Diocese of the Episcopal Church from 1934 to the time of his death. He was a vestryman of St. Paul's Episcopal Church for forty years, and was senior warden for about eighteen years. He served as deputy to the general convention of the Episcopal Church, as a member of many committees of the diocese, as vice-president of the executive council of the diocese, as president of the incorporated trustees of the diocese, and as president officer at the York convention in 1931, when Bishop Wyatt Brown was elected.

Mr. Duy was a member of the Society of Colonial Wars of Indiana, the Pennsylvania Society, the Vigo County Historical Society of Indiana, and the Columbia County Historical Society. He was likewise a member of the American Bar Association, the Pennsylvania Bar Association, and the Columbia County Bar Association.

Fraternally, he was a member of Washington Lodge, No. 265, F. & A. M., of the various bodies of Caldwell Consistory, of Irem Shrine and of the B. P. O. E.

Surviving him are two children, Mrs. Frank Hutchinson and Albert W. Duy, Jr., four grandchildren, a brother, and a sister-in-law.

Fall Semester Opens

After an interval of three weeks, the campus of the College was again the scene of intense activity, as the students returned to resume their studies. The housing force was busy during vacation, cleaning the buildings from top to bottom, in order that all might be in readiness to receive the students at the beginning of the fall semester. The returning students found improvements in the second floor of Noetling Hall, where new floors had been laid during the summer.

Activities of the first week require very careful planning, in order that everything may run smoothly. A full program must be laid out to take care of the Freshmen, in order that they may, as soon as possible, find their places in the general scheme of things, and feel at home in their new surroundings. Dr. Thomas P. North has for several years been in charge of the activities of Freshmen Week. The Freshmen activities began Tuesday, September 10, when Freshmen who were in the lower half of their classes in high school came to take the entrance examinations. All those taking the examinations were the guests of the College luncheon.

Wednesday, September 11, was devoted to registration and classification of all Freshmen. A selected group of upper classmen were present to help the new students to find their way about the College, and to acquaint them with the new surroundings in which they are going to spend the next four years. A long line of tables was placed in the gymnasium, to take care of the many details incident to registration. As the new student "goes down the line," he fills out a registration card, pays his activity fee, secures his room assignment card, if he is going to live in the dormitory, obtains his mail box combination and room key, is assigned a seat in the auditorium, gets a library card, and then appears before a faculty member, who checks his credentials to see that everything has been done properly.

The student then goes to the Business Office, where he pays his contingent and housing fees. He then returns to the gymnasium, where he secures his schedule card. Then he has his picture taken for the college records. If he has arrived early enough, he completes all this by noon.

In the afternoon, a meeting of all Freshmen was held in the auditorium. At this time, the various administrative officers of the College were introduced, as were the officers of some of the important student organizations. At 6:00 P. M. all Freshmen were guests of the College at dinner. A program followed the dinner, with Dr. North presiding. The group then went to the gymnasium, where a get-acquainted program was presented by the Community Government Association. From 9:00 to 10:00, there was an "At Home Hour" for the dormitory students.

Thursday morning, September 12, the Freshmen met again in the auditorium, where they were instructed in the workings of the extra-curricular organizations. At the same time, the upper classmen, familiar with all the machinery, appeared to register, and had a fine time greeting their friends, whom they had not seen for three months.

Friday, September 13, the grind began. The Freshmen spent all day Friday and Saturday morning taking placement examinations. The results of these examinations will be charted and each student will have a card, showing in graphic form, his abilities in the various fields of knowledge. These cards are kept on file in the office of the Dean of Instruction, as a part of the student's records. The upperclassmen reported to their various classes, and the work of the academic year was under way.

On Saturday afternoon, September 14, a program for men of North Hall, and a similar program for the women were provided by the "B" club. In the evening a program was presented in the auditorium by the Community Government Association. The program consisted of the following:

Welcome ----- James Deily

President of the Community Government Association.

"The Maroon and Gold" ----- Directed by Miss Harriet M. Moore.

Greetings ----- Harvey A. Andruss

Selections ----- Maroon and Gold Band

H. F. Fenstemaker, Director—William Booth, Student Director.

Motion Pictures	-----	"Living at Bloomsburg"
	Direction—	George J. Keller.
Organ "Legende"	-----	Wieniawski
	H. F. Fenstemaker.
Announcements	-----	James Deily.
"Alma Mater"	-----	Miss Harriet M. Moore, directing.

The program was followed by a reception and dance in the gymnasium.

Following the program in the auditorium there was a reception in the gymnasium, at which time the new students were presented to members of the faculty. The faculty members were grouped informally in the gymnasium, and the Freshmen, escorted by upper-classmen, were taken to the various groups, where the students and faculty had the opportunity of becoming acquainted with each other. After introductions were over, the rest of the evening was spent in dancing.

On Sunday, September 15, at 3:00 P. M., a program was presented in the auditorium by the Student Christian Association. From 4:00 to 5:00 the parents of women dormitory students were guests at Open House in Waller Hall. Tea was served in Inner Court by members of the Student Christian Association.

Monday, September 16, the Freshmen went to their first classes, and by the end of the day could feel that they were full-fledged students of the Bloomsburg State Teachers College, with the prospect of four years that will be full of hard work, happy moments, and deep friendships, providing pleasant memories that will stay with them to the end of their lives.

Miss Joyce Long, of Benton, and Oakly R. Bement, of Cortland, New York, were married Saturday, August 10, in the Congregational Church at Homer, New York. Mrs. Bement taught last year in the Pine Grove school, and Mr. Bement, a graduate of the Cortland High School, is employed at the McDonald Farms at Cortland. Their address is 31 Clinton Street, Homer, New York.

The 1940 Summer Session

Saturday, July 27, marked the close of another successful summer session. The enrollment reached a total of 330, consisting of 219 women and 111 men. This figure is a small decrease from the 1939 enrollment, which totalled 376.

The session opened Monday, June 17, with registration in the gymnasium. Members of the faculty were busy all day, performing the duties assigned to them. Classes began Tuesday morning, June 18, with a wide variety of courses being offered. In addition to the regular classroom courses, facilities for student teaching were available in all grades up to and including the eighth grade. The classes in grades one to six were held in the Benjamin Franklin Training School, and the headquarters of the Junior High School were located in Science Hall. Dr. E. H. Nelson acted as principal of the Junior High School, and was assisted by members of the college faculty, who supervised student teaching in their respective subjects.

A full program of demonstration lessons was offered, with two to four such lessons presented each week. These were open to all students of the summer session, and provided an opportunity to observe modern methods of teaching, and to examine the latest materials that are available.

Convocations were held in the auditorium every Tuesday morning, consisting of several reels of sound pictures and a prominent speaker. On Tuesday, June 25, Dr. Baruch Braunstein spoke on "Interpreting the Issue of the Present Conflict." On Tuesday, July 2, the speaker was Ray M. Cole, Superintendent of the Columbia County Schools. On Tuesday, July 9, Jean Brady Jones, of the University of Wisconsin appeared in "Personality Sketches." On Tuesday, July 16, the speaker was Dr. Levi Gilbert, Superintendent of the Schools of Altoona. The last convocation had as its speaker Dr. Thomas L. Hinkle, Superintendent of the Schools of Hazleton.

The social and entertainment events included a reception, a picnic, a dance, an entertainment feature, and the summer school banquet. The informal reception given by the trustees and faculty was held in the gymnasium Thursday evening, June 20. The reception was followed by dancing and games. The summer session picnic was held Thursday afternoon, July 11. The afternoon was spent in swimming, roller-skating, baseball, and quoits. Because of the rain, the guests all went back to the campus and the picnic luncheon was served in the dining room. Dancing in the gymnasium followed the luncheon. The entertainment feature was a concert by the Boston Quartette, a group of fine singers; this program was presented Wednesday evening, July 17.

LOVE OPENS THE DOOR

It matters not what is your creed,
For there is good in all, you know,
The tiny spark lies deep within Each new born babe—a latent glow.

The spark may not ignite for years,
But slowly in each human breast
It smoulders in our dust and tears.

We seek and seek for what is God,
And find Him near in Nature's store—
In woods, on hills; and under stars
We hear Him rap the inner door.

The endless search is like a game
Of hide and seek, the burning glow
Comes close and closer—then we rise
To catch a spark that it may throw.

At last it's caught, it bursts in flame—
The inner door now opens for
The Light, the Christ,—“Love's other name.”
—Hilda Clark Fairchild '16.

Summer School Closes With Banquet

"Teach patriotism directly and unashamedly" was the advice offered by Judge Samuel H. Humes, of the Lycoming County Courts, to the thirty-two summer session graduates of the College and to several hundred students, friends, and teachers who assembled for the annual dinner marking the close of the session Thursday evening, July 25.

The graduates, who comprised the largest number ever to complete requirements for the degree of Bachelor of Science in Education at the College summer session, were introduced by Dean Harvey A. Andruss, acting president of the College.

Prof. E. A. Reams presided as toastmaster at the program, which was brief but entertaining and informative. The invocation was given by Prof. William B. Sutliff, former Dean of Instruction. Music throughout the dinner was provided by James Deily's orchestra.

Musical numbers were interesting and varied. Jerry Burke, a student at the summer session, presented a musical novelty, playing a guitar, harmonica, and kazoo, with vocal refrains. His selections included "The Woodpecker Song," "When I Grow Too Old To Dream," and "Has Anybody Seen My Gal?" Mrs. Della Fox, accompanied by H. F. Fenstemaker, sang "A Song of Sunshine."

Seated at the speaker's table were Dean and Mrs. Andruss, Prof. and Mrs. W. B. Sutliff, Judge and Mrs. Samuel H. Humes, Prof. and Mrs. E. A. Reams, Mr. Burke and Mrs. Fox. Prof. Reams also introduced Judge and Mrs. Clarence E. Kreisher, of Catawissa.

Dean Andruss announced that this year's registration at the College included twenty students who were graduates of other colleges. These included Bucknell University, Gettysburg College, Hood College, Lebanon Valley College, Muhlenberg College, Albright College, the University of Alabama, University of Holy Cross, Susquehanna University, and the state teachers colleges at East Stroudsburg, Kutztown and Millersville.

The tendency on the part of young and old to regard teachers as authorities on many different subjects was mentioned by Judge Humes in beginning his address. "When teacher said it, it was true—it was gospel," he pointed out in speaking of his attitude toward his teachers during his own school days.

We quote other extracts from Judge Hume's address:

"With proper education, there is no limit to the lengths we can go to develop the fullest capacities of our pupils. At no time has the teaching profession had more to do with world affairs than it does at this time.

The three C's are just as important as the three R's in the education of children. The first C is the development of the conscious power of the student, making him realize his own powers and teaching him, not what to think, but how to think. Second is the cultivation of that power to its greatest efficiency, and third is the consecration of that power to the good of the world.

America is a new country and yet the oldest of the democracies, and perhaps the last. A democracy must depend upon the intelligence of the people.

America is a nation of many minds not just one. It is made up of people who may be persuaded to turn to the best, but this cannot be done without sound teaching and leadership.

Our only defense in this country against the evils of doctrines from abroad is not a navy, big guns, and big fortresses; the true Maginot Line of our defense is the true intelligence of our people, developed by our teachers.

Although we have billions, we have nothing; although we have boundless resources, we have nothing; although we have men, we have nothing—unless there is called forth from every individual in the nation the faith and hope that is gained by knowledge of the past and the desire to apply it to problems of the present in order to build on a sound basis for the future. It is up to the teachers to provide the necessary leadership."

Judge Humes pointed out other times in our history when things looked as dark as they do now. "Once," he said, "we had actual invasion by the finest trained fighting forces in

He denounced the current fashion of being indifferent and cynical, and also the fashion of “debunking” slogans. One hundred percent Americanism has become, until recently, a term of derision, and everything that came from Europe was passed off as propaganda. “You must remember,” he warned, “that the shepherds did the same thing when the boy cried ‘wolf’.”

The dinner concluded with the singing of “God Bless America,” and was followed by dancing in the gymnasium.

Thirty-two the largest number ever to complete the requirements for the degree of Bachelor of Science in Education, received their diplomas at the close of the summer session. There were sixteen completing work in the secondary curriculum, nine in the elementary curriculum and seven in the business curriculum. The following is the list of graduates:

POST-SESSION

The regular six weeks summer session was followed by a short session lasting three weeks. Opportunity was provided to secure three semester hours of credit. Each student enrolled in one course, and devoted three hours of each day to classroom work in the course chosen. Classes met at 8:00 A. M., with the first session lasting until 10:30. There was an hour recess period, and the students then returned to the classroom, where they remained until noon.

The enrollment consisted of 45 men and 72 women, making a total of 117. Because of the large percentage of commuting students, no social program was offered. Housing facilities were provided for those who wished to live in the dormitory, but no meals were served in the dining room.

Elementary curriculum: Jean L. Bittenbender, Nescopeck; Elma L. Major, Dallas; Eleanor I. Materewicz, Glen Lyon; James G. Pugh, Edwardsville; Christine F. Smith, Catawissa; Esther M. Sutherland, Wilkes-Barre.

Business Education: Christine E. Grover, Renovo; Margaret Cole McCern, Benton; Agnes A. Recla, Shepton.

Buchheit to Coach Football

George C. Buchheit., a varsity coach at the College for the past eight years, returns this fall to the position of head coach of football.

Mr. Buchheit was football coach at the College four years after coming to Bloomsburg in 1932, but after the 1935 season became assistant in that sport and devoted most of his time to basketball and track. He succeeds A. Austin Tate as head football coach.

Mr. Buchheit's return as head coach will give him a fuller program than that which he assumed in 1932, for at that time, track and field athletics occupied minor positions on the athletic program. Through the years, he has developed these into a major sport, which has brought much glory to Bloomsburg, the Bloomsburg athletes having won the state championship four times during the past four years.

In the four years that he coached football the Bloomsburg teams had a record of eleven victories, fourteen defeats, and four ties. His eleven in 1932 won one, lost three, and tied two, and the team of 1933 won two and lost five. The teams of 1934 and 1935 were the last Bloomsburg teams to win more games than were lost, with the record each year being four victories, three defeats, and one tie.

The team of 1934 produced the most dramatic football in the history of the College. All of the games were close, and two of the Husky defeats of that year, at the hands of Shipensburg and East Stroudsburg, came in the last forty-five seconds of play.

There will be no additional members of the Bloomsburg faculty in the department of physical education until the new gymnasium is opened for use, but Mr. Buchheit will undoubtedly have an assistant during the football season.

Before coming to Bloomsburg, Coach Buchheit had extensive experience both as player and coach in the three sports that he directs.

He took his undergraduate work at Hillsdale College, the University of Illinois, and the University of Kentucky, graduating from the last-named institution in 1921. While at Illinois he played end on the Illini Big Ten championship team of 1918, and was selected on the second all-conference team of the year picked by one of the immortals of football, Walter Eckersall. He has also been placed on the third University of Illinois "all-time" team, selected by the coaching staff. Buchheit was considered one of the best all-round track athletes in the Western Conference, and in one dual meet with Chicago, scored 20 points. He was awarded the Big Ten medal that is given yearly to a senior for proficiency in scholarship and athletics. He was a member of the varsity basketball squad in 1918 and 1919.

While at the University of Kentucky from 1919 to 1924, he coached the varsity basketball and track teams, and assisted in football. His basketball team won the Southern Conference tourney in Atlanta in 1921, and his track team won the Kentucky track meet three times.

He went to Duke University in 1924 as head coach of basketball and track and assistant football coach, remaining through 1931, when he entered Teachers College, Columbia University, for a year of graduate work in physical education, and then came to Bloomsburg.

Miss Jean Haas, daughter of Dr. Francis B. Haas, former president of the Bloomsburg State Teachers College, became the wife of James Brown Hess, formerly of Bloomsburg, in a ceremony performed at the Harrisburg Civic Club Saturday afternoon, August 10. The officiating minister was Dr. Mammalieu, pastor of the Grace Methodist Church of Harrisburg. The bride is a graduate of Oberlin College. Mr. Hess, a graduate of the Massachusetts Institute of Technology, is assistant metallurgist with the J. H. Williams Company at Buffalo, New York.

Danny Litwhiler

Starting September 1, 1940, and continuing until Major League baseball closed for the season, "Bloomsburg State Teachers College" was repeated many times on nation-wide hook-ups. The reason for this sudden publicity was the stellar performance of Danny Litwhiler, '38, with the Philadelphia National League Baseball Club. Joining the club about August 25 in Pittsburgh, he made his Philadelphia debut September 1, when the Phillies played a double header with the New York Giants. Stan Baumgartner, writing in the "Inquirer" of the afternoon, says:

Litwhiler was the whole show in the first game. He paddled Gumbert and Lynn for three hits and drove in six runs. One of these was a home run with three men on base in the eighth inning. His double in the previous inning—the seventh—was the big spark in a four-run rally that broke a 2-2 tie and sent the Phillies bounding into victory. . . . He made three hits in the second contest and it was his tremendous triple off the center field score board with two men on base and two out in the sixth inning that enabled the Phillies to tie the score at 5-5 and set the stage for their final exciting victory.

When the season closed Danny had tied the season's league record for hitting in consecutive games—21. He led the Phillies in hitting with the healthy average of .345. But two other players in the whole National League circuit of 205 players had a higher average than he.

The Alumni Association is proud of the achievement of one of its group, and everywhere is expressed the hope that the coming years will see him reach even greater heights in Major League baseball. Good luck, Danny!

Luzerne County Alumni

The Luzerne County Branch of the Alumni Association will hold monthly luncheons on the first Saturday of each month in the main dining room of the Hotel Sterling, Wilkes-Barre, at 12:30. It is not necessary to make reservations in advance.

Twenty-Five Years Ago

(From the Morning Press column, "Twenty-five Years Ago.")

Prospects for the fall term of the Bloomsburg State Normal School could not be brighter than they are at the present time, with nearly every girl's room filled and requests for accommodations coming in daily.

A. Bruce Black, instructor in penmanship at the Bloomsburg Normal School, leaves this morning (July 3, 1915) for New York City, where he will accompany the following, who will attend the Palmer Summer School of Penmanship, from July 5 to August 1: Misses Lillie Cole, Katherine Little, Florence Sullivan, Laura Strohm, John Shuman, and Morris Ohl, of Bloomsburg; Martha Baum, of Nuremberg; Rowena Patterson, of Nescopeck; Emma Slusser, of Nescopeck; Russell Zimmerman, of Berwick, and three Cuban boys.

Plans have been completed by the board of trustees of the Bloomsburg State Normal School for the conversion of a building already on the grounds and admirably adapted for the purpose, into an infirmary. For the furnishing of this the class of 1915 has provided their memorial.

"Daddy" Grotz, night watchman at the Normal School, is on the lookout for any stray dogs that may come wandering across the school grounds. The reason for his watchfulness lies in the twenty or more squirrels, for whose safety he is responsible.

Perry Freas, superintendent of grounds at the Normal School, has bought a car.

The list of injuries of football players at the Normal this year may be larger than ever, so attractive will the interior of the new infirmary look when the work is completed.

Prof. Charles H. Albert is in Pittston as instructor at the third annual institute of the Pittston public school teachers.

Vacancies in the faculty of the Normal School have been filled, with the exception of that caused by the death of Prof. J. H. Dennis. A. E. Keggeris, for six years a teacher in the Millersville summer school, was chosen to take the position made vacant by the resignation of Prof. T. F. Shambach. Nevin J. Dieffenbach, of Bloomsburg, was elected assistant in biology, succeeding C. J. Bennett. Miss Marion Hardy, who resigned as instructor in German and Latin, will be succeeded by Miss Dorothy R. Morrill, a graduate of Mt. Holyoke.

Miss Carolyn M. Welch, formerly a teacher in the Lewistown public schools, has been appointed training teacher for the first grade in the Benjamin Franklin Training School, following the resignation of Miss Vivian Johnson, who returns to her alma mater at Bellingham, Washington.

A careful search was made for an elementary teacher who would be able to assist in the reading clinic. Miss Welch was selected because of the fact that she is able to act in both capacities. She comes to the College after several years of experience in the Lewistown schools. She received her training at Beaver College and Pennsylvania State College, where she has majored in clinical reading procedure.

Miss Welch will aid in the diagnosis of reading difficulties of children and college students and will help to prescribe the necessary remedial measures. Her selection is in keeping with the development of the educational clinic, which serves Northumberland, Montour, Columbia and Luzerne counties in the clinical treatment of hearing, seeing and reading difficulties. This service is offered to all public schools upon application to the director of the educational clinic at the College.

THOSE NEW BUILDINGS

It is expected that the new gymnasium, first inspected by the public last fall, will be placed in use during the coming college year. Opening of the building has been delayed by the fact that the power contract for the new building has not yet been negotiated. The gymnasium has not yet been opened, but it is believed that at least part of the building will be open soon. No additional members of the department of physical education will be appointed until the gymnasium is opened.

It is uncertain when the new junior high school will be equipped. This building cannot be used until it is fully equipped, and in order to include the use of the building in the college program it would have to be ready for use at the beginning of a college year, since it would be impossible to begin work in the middle of a term.

William Hartman, of Milton, has been elected teacher of seventh and eighth grades in the Valley Consolidated School, Montour Township.

Viola N. Blue, who has been teaching seventh and eighth grades at the Valley Consolidated School, Montour Township, has been elected teacher in the schools of Pottsgrove.

Jean Brady Jones, poet and reader, a member of the faculty of the University of Wisconsin was the speaker at the summer school convocation held Tuesday, July 9. She devoted her program to social problems and personality sketches as dealt with in poetry.

Ralph Baird, of Bloomsburg, and Miss Janet Sharpless, also of Bloomsburg, were married Tuesday, August 20, in Alexandria, Virginia. Mr. Baird, a member of last year's freshmen class, was a member of the varsity basketball squad last season.

A son was born to Mr. and Mrs. George Buchheit, of Bloomsburg, on Tuesday July 16. Mr. Buchheit is coach of football, basketball and track at the College.

All Alumni are earnestly requested to inform Dr. E. H. Nelson of all changes of address. Many copies of the Alumni Quarterly have been returned because the subscribers are no longer living at the address on our files.

At the sixty-year reunion of the class of 1880, three were present: H. G. Supplee, 1160 North LaSalle Street, Chicago, Illinois; Mrs. Celeste Kitchen Prutzman, Fernbank Farm, Trucksville, and Mrs. Ellen Lally, Shenandoah. The following were not present. but sent messages to their classmates: Mrs. J. C. Biglet (Maggie Cavanaugh), Philadelphia; Miss Lena F. Faulds, Wilkes-Barre; Miss Robena F. Glover, Shenandoah; Rev. N. H. Smith, Williamsport; Mrs. Scott Young (Tillie Sterner), Philadelphia, and Ernest W. Young St. Paul Minnesota.

Mrs. Prutzman, secretary and treasurer of the class since 1900, is still teaching the Adult Bible Class in her church, and holds a gold medal for fifty years of Sunday School work.

Mrs. Lally is teaching in the Americanization school in Shenandoah.

Mr. Supplee, president of the class. is in the real estate business in Chicago.

Granville J. Clark, former assistant district attorney of Luzerne County and one of that county's best known lawyers, died at his home in Kingston, Sunday, August 18, following a heart attack. He was admitted to the bar in 1891, and in a half-century of practice became known to thousands of Luzerne County residents. He was at one time a trustee of the Bloomsburg State Normal School.

Mr. Clark was born on a farm at Beaumont Wyoming County. After receiving his early education near his home, he taught for a time at Noxen. He then entered the Bloomsburg State Normal School, from which he was graduated in 1883. Following his graduation, he became principal of the schools of Forty Fort. While teaching, he began the study of law, entering the office of the late Judge Alfred Darte. For many years he was associated with the late Frank B. Myers.

In 1893 he was married to Miss Emma Scurman, then a teacher in the Luzerne schools.

He was a candidate for judge in 1913, and was defeated by a small margin.

He was a director of the Luzerne National Bank, a member of the Luzerne County Bar Association, and of the Kingston Methodist Church.

The following editorial comment appeared in the Bloomsburg Morning Press at the time of Mr. Clark's death:

"The death in Wilkes-Barre of Granville J. Clark, long one of Luzerne County's best known lawyers, removes one of those who were intimately associated with the Bloomsburg State Normal School in its earlier days.

A graduate of that institution in 1883, he was for many years a trustee in the institution's days as a normal school. He was a familiar figure on the hill through many years, and was intensely devoted to his Alma Mater."

Mr. and Mrs. Fred Holmes (Edith Ent) of Bloomsburg, celebrated their golden wedding anniversary Tuesday evening, September 10.

1888

F. O. Maurer died suddenly Thursday, June 27, at his home in Frackville. He was the husband of Agnes Mackie, '88. formerly of Kingston. Mr. Maurer was in business for thirty-five years, and then served for eleven years as president of the First National Bank of Frackville. He is survived by his wife, a sister, and three brothers. One of his brothers, James Maurer, '86, will be remembered by those who were students at Bloomsburg in the eighties.

The commencement address for the graduating class of the Bethlehem Business College was delivered Wednesday evening, July 31, by Dean Harvey A. Andruss, acting president of the College. The subject of the address was "Do the Best You Can—With What You Have—Where You Are."

The president of the Bethlehem Business College is W. F. Magee, a member of the class of 1888. There were ninety-five in the graduating class.

Interest in more than an artful rendition of sharps and flats of composers has led Mrs. Katherine Little Bakeless, musician and piano teacher of New York, to bring forth in book form a revealing portrait of the facts in the lives of various composers.

Mrs. Bakeless became impressed in her teaching with the increased interest of young people in the music of modern and less-known composers. From this has come "Story Lives of Great composers," a book scheduled to be published in September.

Mrs. Bakeless found her students extremely responsive to facts about the backgrounds and careers of composers which she often introduced in her classroom and studio talks. To learn of the human side of a composer brings his music nearer.

When an editor of Frederick A. Stokes Company approached her on the subject of writing a book for young people on the lives of some of the important composers who have not been sufficiently discussed in older books of musical biography, she jumped at the chance.

The book represents many months of careful research. It is marked by the author's enthusiasm for the idea of making great personalities of musical genius real to people who enjoy music even more than when they know something of the individual character and spirit of the musician, of the story of his persistence, his training, his vision of his art.

Mrs. Bakeless, in planning her book, reversed the usual chronological order and began with modern composers—Strauss, Stravinsky, Sibelius, and Rachmaninoff. She grouped the three great Russians, Moussorgsky, Rimsky-Korsakoff, and Borodin, and the two great Czechs, Smetana and Dvorak. Because she feels that any presentation of modern music should pay tribute to the heritage of the past, she included three older composers who are being newly appreciated in this generation—Rossini, Purcell, and Scarlatti. There are nineteen composers in all.

To make the book of greater musical help in school music appreciation courses, as well as in homes, Mrs. Bakeless prepared very carefully a short list of records of representative and especially well-loved works of each composer.

Mrs. Bakeless is the wife of Dr. John Bakeless of New York University, author of "Daniel Boone" and Christopher Marlowe." She studied piano and other musical subjects in this country with Emanuel Wad, Henrich Gebhard, Bruce Simonds, and abroad with Bertha Jahn-Beer, Tobias Mathay, and Georges Enesco, and early music of pre-Bach times with Dolmetsch. She has taught piano in Cambridge and Belmont, Massachusetts, in Summit, New Jersey and in New York City.

"One of the country's leading experts in his field," is the description given Paul Foote, son of the late Prof. J. C. Foote, in an article concerning the Bell and Howell Company of Chicago, the firm by which he is now employed. The story was published in a recent issue of a magazine for young men.

The article states: "Paul Foote is the thirty-one-year-old chief of the Optical Engineering Department. He heads a lens producing laboratory that is unsurpassed by the finest optical company, and his equipment for testing lamps and the projection of light ranks with the finest. His department designs and manufacturers condensers and lenses for projectors, view-finders and film printers. His work is highly technical and extremely complicated.

"Mr. Foote wanted to be a teacher and studied at the State Teachers College in Pennsylvania. He was interested in science and liked research. Since he had to have a specialty and liked to take movies, he came to Bell and Howell in 1927 with the Industrial Film division. He studied advanced mathematics at the University of Chicago.

"In 1930, when Bell and Howell organized a separate division for optics and imported from England Arthur Warmisham, one of the half-dozen greatest lens men in the world, Foote was made assistant. Five years later, Warmisham returned to England, confident that Foote could handle the work. Paul was made head of the division at the age of twenty-eight.

Another notation concerning Mr. Foote states the following: "Paul Foote, the optical head, who is undoubtedly a scientist of outstanding national merit, enjoyed an unusual privilege in being assistant to England's greatest optical expert for five years. He does not minimize, however, the importance of the advanced mathematics that he studied at the University of Chicago, and that prepared him for usefulness under Mr. Warmisham, and perhaps justified his being selected."
